HOOVER WILLING TO TAKE FRENCH TERMS ON DEBT

Prefers Compromise to Losing Plan.

Plans New Venture

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Reports were current here today that President Hoover intends to take action in his effort to stabilize the world financial and economic system. This time Latin-America is the field in which he is said to be interested.

When the President has concluded his debt and reparations proposal with European governments he immediately will seek to relieve what is pictured as almost equally serious situations in South America, it was understood.

Recession of commodity values in the world markets has had as disastrous effect in South America as elsewhere, as for example, the decline of wheat affecting Argentina, the decline in coffee having a severe reaction in Brazil, and the drop in metals injuring Chile. Reparations do not figure in the scheme. Latin-American nations owe no debts to the United States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The United States and the European powers are close to an agreement which will put into effect on President Hoover's international moratorium, according to information obtained from an authoritative source tonight.

Mr. Hoover is understood to have yielded to the representations which he is prepared to assent to in arrangement satisfying the French government that in accepting the moratorium proposal the resumption of payment of the unconditional reparations annuities will not be postponed.

In endeavoring to persuade France to accept an alternative to her original proposal regarding the unconditional annuities, the President, according to this information, is said to be willing to go through his plan in some form or other as a last resort he will submit to the conditions fixed by the French government.

Doubts to Lose Back.

Some quarters are that Germany would be required to continue during the moratorium the payment of the 50 per cent of reparations classed as unconditional and nonpostponable. The payments shall be to the Bank for International Settlements at Basle in gold, but shall not be distributed to the creditors and shall be made available to loan back to Germany.

The plan of the Swiss France aims to prevent any interruption in the functioning of the Young plan so far as the conditional portion of reparations is concerned.

Asked if he is not worrying about the 53 per cent additional reparations the payment of which by Germany was made contingent upon the continued payment of the allied war debts to the United States and Great Britain, in his outline of the President and his advisers to accept the best terms possible from France is ascribed in official circles this morning that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson will leave Saturday on his holiday tour of Europe as previously planned. He will sail on the steamer Conte Grande from Boston.

Stimson's European Trip.

Mr. Stimson will be accompanied by Wilbur Allen T. Klots, special assistant to the secretary of state; Joseph A. Regnier, U. S. A., military aid to the secretary of state, and Joseph A. Morlock, state department disbursing officer and code expert. Col. Stimson goes to Europe equipped with secretarial assistance essential to diplomatic negotiations due to the vacation that served as a pretext for his journey.

The American foreign minister will arrive at Naples July 7. A day or two he will be closeted with Mussolini in Rome. On July 17 he will be in Paris and four days later he is due in Berlin. Thence he will proceed to London, where he will conclude his discussions of the European situation in a series of conferences with Premier Ramsay MacDonald and other British officials.

Aug. 12 he will go to Scotland for three weeks for the grouse shooting and early in September he will be back in Washington.

Asked what construction would properly be placed on his announcement that he will sail as he had planned, Mr. Stimson said: "It merely indicates that I am carrying

MERCURY AT 95 SETS RECORD OF YEAR; 8 DEATHS

A creeping wind from the northeast, cooled by the broad waters of Lake Michigan, floated down to the loop shortly after 9:30 o'clock last night and in a few minutes unofficial thermometers recorded a drop from 90 degrees to the middle eighties.

During the day the official thermometer at the recording office at the University of Chicago had registered 95 degrees for a period of three hours, establishing a heat record for 1931 thus far. At the federal building in the loop the mark of 98 was reached, higher than any official thermometer had ever recorded downtown on any June 25. The university reading, however, is the only accepted one now, and yesterday's high was one degree under the maximum for the day, set in 1923.

More Heat on Way.

The official forecast for the territory south and west of Chicago is for still more torrid weather today and tomorrow. For Chicago, provided the lake winds hold, temperatures will not be so uncomfortably high as they were yesterday.

Such winds, according to Meteorologist C. A. Donnel, are highly uncertain, but he gave the opinion that they would prevail for a good part of today. For the interior portions of the north central states, which have had temperatures approaching or exceeding the 100 mark for three days in a row, he indicated at least two days more of the same.

The helpful breeze almost literally crept down the lake shore. At Milwaukee it sifted in soon after 1 p. m. and by 5 p. m. a temperature in the middle 70s had been reached. By 7 p. m. it was comfortable in Waukegan, while it was still 92 in Chicago. As late as 10:15 p. m. the excessive warmth still prevailed on the far south side.

Won't Be Very Cool.

"Even if the lake wind continues," Mr. Donnel said, "it will not be exactly cool. But it will not be 95; the temperature can't get to extreme height in the face of it. I had expected it to arrive a little earlier than it did."

Humidity was much higher yesterday than is usual with temperatures above 90, and this added to the discomfort of the day. The relative humidity at 1 p. m. and at 8 p. m. was 59, approximately 15 per cent above normal for the mercury reading.

It was really hot in Dubuque, Ia., where the official 102 was a new June record. At Peoria the mercury equaled a record at 100. At Quincy the mark was 101. At Omaha, Sioux City, Davenport, and St. Louis it was 100. Omaha and Davenport also had 100 temperature on Wednesday, when the official maximum in Chicago was 87. Yesterday's high at Boone, Ia., was 103.

Many Deaths Recorded.

There were numerous reports all over the Mississippi valley of heat prostrations, of deaths apparently due to the heat and of drownings.

Residents of Chicago and the suburbs crowded the beaches along Lake Michigan to escape the heat. At 8 p. m. it was estimated more than 100,000 were on the sands and in the water.

In Cook county three drownings were reported and five deaths were attributed to the extreme heat. Those drowned were:

William Dean, 27 years old, 1049 East 72d street, who was seized with cramps after he had dived from a boat off 101st street. Coast guards recovered the body.

Fritz Fogelstrom, 25 years old, 719 Briar place, who sank while swimming off the Belmont harbor beach.

Charles Shilkus, 12 years old, son of a farmer living near Des Plaines, who fell into the Des Plaines river at dam No. 1, south of Wheeling, and was dead before companions could reach him.

Those whose deaths were attributed to heart disease aggravated by the heat were:

Albert Scharringhausen, 39 years old, a farmer residing near Arlington Heights, who collapsed while painting a barn.

Mrs. Regina Sanick, 40 years old, 2108 West 18th place, who fainted while riding in an automobile in Niles Center and died soon afterward.

'Trader Horn,' from Peddler to Fame, Dead

LONDON, June 26.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Alfred Aloysius Smith, "Trader Horn," co-author of the book, "Trader Horn," died early today in a hospital at Whitstable after a brief illness. He was about 73 years old.

Alfred Aloysius Smith, alias Zambesi Jack, rolling stone, adventurer, ivory trader, jack of all trades, became Trader Horn, "the literary sensation of a decade" in 1927. A year before an obscure and impoverished peddler had knocked on the back door of Mrs. Ethelreda Lewis, author of South African novels, and on the stoop of the little Johannesburg house the two struck a bargain.

Mr. Smith had offered kitchen utensils for sale. His day of elephant hunting and battling the Kaffirs were over and when the gridirons and coffee pots were declined the talkative old man offered bits of rhyme that he called poetry for sale. Mrs. Lewis saw possibilities, and thus, after months of collaboration, came into existence one of the most remarkable of "best sellers" of this century.

Like Peer Gynt's Turk, Alfred Aloysius Smith vanished and Trader Horn was born, a figure of sudden glamour and romance which captivated the whole world. When the book was published in June, 1927, the foreword by John Galsworthy announced a new find in the realm of letters.

The elderly peddler became a cosmopolitan figure, a lion of the New York literary salons, a man of wealth who had his furor like all men and things unusual and unexpected.

Trader Horn's early life is vague. He was born somewhere in Lancashire and attended St. Edward's college, Liverpool. As a youth of 17 he set out for West Africa, and the great dark continent became his stamping ground for the major part of his life, although he paid frequent visits to the United States, where he earned his living in various ways.

Trader Horn narrated his life in three volumes, "Trader Horn," "Harold the Webbed, or the Young Vikings," and "The Waters of Africa." The first was a sensation, the other two were hardly noticed.

Wife Dies in Denver.

From time to time Trader Horn had lived in different parts of this country, and here his wife died many years ago, after contracting pneumonia, in Denver. In his memoirs he tells of having lived in Colorado and in Utah, where he said he had taken part in quelling an uprising of the Ute Indians.

His career comprised the calling of newspaper reporter in London, a brief period as detective for Scotland Yard, a fighter in African wars, a distiller of strange liquors in the Congo, a painter of admittedly low repute (he decorated sheets of tin and sold them for small amounts), a hunter of big game, an explorer of sorts, a prospector, and a miner.

"I never stuck to anything long," he said during an interview in New York, adding as a personal characteristic: "I am a bit of a rogue elephant, something of a rascal elephant. I've been out of the herd, I'm glad to be back in the herd."

Trader Horn was lionized by the literary women of New York. He was the guest of the Literary Guild, spoke in the Town Hall, and gave interviews with great liberality. Physically he resembled the late Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sierras. He wore long capes and a five-gallon hat and looked his part.

Poor at 73; Rich at 75.

The man who had been a down-and-out peddler at 73 was receiving a weekly income of $4,000 at 75.

When he sailed from New York on March 31, 1928, Trader Horn gave his impressions of New York as follows:

"If I were to die tomorrow I don't expect St. Peter would let me in; but if he did I doubt if he would have better eyes or prettier angels for poor old Zambesi Jack than you have in New York. I like the angels and particularly the fluff of their wings.

"I'm sorry that I have to leave them, and I'm sorry that I'm not younger. It's a sad plight to be an old dog when so many pretty angels are fluttering around you."

Report Queen of Rumania Is Poisoned

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 26.—[Friday]—(AP)—The secretary of the British legation in Bucharest today denied over the telephone published reports that Queen Helen was ill of poison.

LONDON, June 26 [Friday].—(AP)—Reports were printed in this morning's newspapers on the basis of dispatches from Vienna which said that either Queen Helen of Rumania, or Mme. Magda Lupescu, friend of King Carol, was suffering from poison.

The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Herald said rumors were current in Bucharest that one of the two women was ill of poisoning, but that it was difficult to obtain confirmation or denial.

Report "Wrong Bottle."

One of the reports, this correspondent said, was that Mme. Lupescu had been found unconscious ten days ago but that her condition was not dangerous and that the king's physicians attended her. When she recovered, the report said, she left for Paris at the king's suggestion.

The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Express said that Queen Helen had taken poison by mistake and that officials of her household had confirmed reports of her illness. It was said she had taken a dose of what she thought to be medicine from one of several bottles on her dressing table.

LED SORROWFUL LIFE.

The life of Queen Helen has been a sorrowful one, recent years clouded constantly by marital difficulties with her husband, King Carol.

Her first sorrow came when, in her seventeenth year, she witnessed the bombing to death of her grandfather, King George I. Later she was present when her favorite brother, King Alexander, was killed.

Her greatest cause for sadness, however, has been the constant marital and diplomatic troubles caused by King Carol, whose love affair with Magda Lupescu, red haired daughter of a Jewish junk man, has marred the entire life of the ruling family.

Fled to France.

Carol abdicated his rights to the throne while his father still lived and fled to France with Mme. Lupescu.

In 1923 Helen secured a divorce from her philandering husband. Their son, Michael, became the boy king of Rumania upon his grandfather's death.

Since Carol's sensational coup by which he became king of Rumania the position of Helen at court has been most of the time in doubt, and Carol has never become reconciled with her personally.

Gang Tries to Kill O'Donnell; Policeman Hit

Machine gunners, attempting to assassinate Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, south side beer chief, riddled his home with more than 30 bullets early this morning. O'Donnell, with two pistols, went looking for the assassins in company with Policeman James Walsh of the Brighton Park station, who, off duty, was near the gangster's home when the machine gunning started and fired several shots at the gunners.

Shortly after Policeman John O'Connor of the Gresham station was shot in the right shoulder while pursuing an automobile, supposedly O'Donnell's. The fugitive car overturned in the chase and other policemen found O'Donnell and Policeman Walsh near by. O'Donnell had a dislocated shoulder. Both men were taken to the Gresham station for questioning.

Spray Home with Bullets.

It was shortly after 1 o'clock this morning when the assassins' automobile appeared in front of O'Donnell's home. The gunmen sprayed the bungalow with a leaden stream. Slugs crashed through windows, several narrowly missing the gangster's wife. She dropped to the floor to save herself.

According to the story told by Walsh to Capt. J. L. Mooney of the Gresham police, the machine gunners continued north in Honore street, and a moment later O'Donnell emerged from the bungalow with a gun in each hand. Walsh said he did not know who O'Donnell was at the time, and willingly agreed to help him hunt for the assailants. The two men entered a car together.

Fight Running Gun Battle.

Just as they did so a car bore down on them from the north. "They're coming back, get me away from here," O'Donnell shouted, according to Walsh.

The car coming from the north, however, was that of Sergt. James Stockover and his squad, Policemen O'Connor and Thomas Doyle, who had been notified of the shooting. They saw an automobile draw away from O'Donnell's home, and pursued it. Bullets were exchanged and O'Connor was shot. The chase led to 32d street, west to Lincoln street, then north to 31st street. Here the driver of the fugitive car tried a sharp swing to the west in 31st street and the machine overturned.

Gangster Is Arrested.

The pursuing policemen saw a man fall out and run across a prairie. The police car was traveling too fast to stop immediately, but as it slowed down Doyle jumped out and fired several bullets at the fleeing man.

Shortly afterward a squad led by Sergt. John J. McCarthy found O'Donnell and Policeman Walsh near by. O'Donnell was led to his home, then taken to the Auburn Park hospital, where Policemn O'Connor also had been taken. After O'Donnell's shoulder was treated he was removed to the Gresham station. Cash totaling $1,090 was found in his pockets.

Capt. Mooney said he believed that O'Donnell had shot Policeman O'Connor during the running battle, although he refused to say so positively until his investigation is completed. He said that Walsh had told him that O'Donnell was firing through the rear window of the car during the pursuit by Sergt. Stockover's squad. The captain said he thought that O'Donnell, excited by the attack on his home, mistook the police squad for his enemies.

Another Beer War Shooting.

The shooting was the latest in the recent south side beer war. The first attack occurred several weeks ago, when machine gunners fired at the home of Robert Marvis, 7754 Crandon avenue, where Frank McErlane, beer gangster, was visiting. McErlane is a brother-in-law of Marvis. A few days later gangsters shot up the home of Walter Zwolinski, an O'Donnell man. Ten days ago a south side bartender was killed and another man wounded.

Early yesterday hoodlums attempted to take George Downs, 339 South California avenue, for a ride. Two men tried to drag him into an automobile at 65th street and California avenue, but he fought them off. He escaped as the men fired on him. Downs is believed by police to be affiliated with a new beer gang trying to break into the south side territory.

WORLD FLYERS HOP FOR LAND OF MIDNIGHT SUN

BULLETIN.

KAZAN, U. S. S. R., June 26.—(Friday.)—(AP)—The American flyers, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, passed over this city, 450 miles from Moscow, at 7:50 a. m. today (12:50 a. m. Chicago daylight time), covering the distance in about two hours and 50 minutes on their way to Nova-Sibirsk.

BULLETIN.

BREMEN, Germany, June 26.—(Friday)—(AP)—Otto Hillig and Holger Hoirlis hopped off for Copenhagen, Denmark, at 11:37 a. m. today (5:37 a. m. Chicago daylight time), on the last lap of their trans-Atlantic flight from America. Cheering thousands saw them off for Copenhagen, 240 miles away, in brilliant weather.

MOSCOW, June 26 [Friday].—(AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, American round the world flyers, hopped off at 5 a. m. today [10 p. m. Chicago time Thursday] for Irkutsk, Siberia.

They expect to stop en route at Novasibirsk, about halfway to Irkutsk, for fuel. They should reach there late today and may remain overnight. The distance from Moscow to Irkutsk is 2,600 miles.

The delicate task of charting their course, and other last minute preparations at the field, delayed them several hours beyond the time originally set for the takeoff and obliged them to abandon their plan of reaching Irkutsk late Friday night.

Post and Gatty will sail into a land of the midnight sun between Moscow and Irkutsk to drive on eastward to the coast either by way of Khabarovsk or Yakutsk. At this time of year there is less than two hours of actual darkness on the line of the Trans-Siberian railway, which they will follow in a general way from Moscow to Irkutsk.

If they fly from Irkutsk to Yakutsk they will go hundreds of miles north of the railway and find even shorter nights.

LOSE WAY OVER EUROPE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BREMEN, Germany, June 25.—Otto Hillig and Holger Hoirlis, trans-Atlantic flyers, brought their monoplane "Liberty" down here at 9:50 o'clock tonight [3:50 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time] after a 32 hour flight from Newfoundland during the latter part of which they became lost over southern Europe and flew blindly for hours.

With their fuel nearly exhausted the flyers first landed at Krefeld, Germany. After a short rest during which they held a telephone conversation with Copenhagen, their original destination, the two men again took the air but were forced to alight here. Because of fatigue and darkness they came very nearly missing this port.

Both Flyers Exhausted.

The red plane was first sighted over this airfield at about 9:30 o'clock, when it circled several times and then proceeded to Hamburg. Twenty minutes later it returned and headed directly for the airfield and swooped down. Airport attendants hurried to the plane and assisted the flyers out. Both were completely exhausted, Hoirlis, the pilot, who was almost carried to the hangar, dropping asleep immediately without saying one word.

Hillig, owner of the plane, told a dramatic story of the flight, which nearly ended in catastrophe. Over the Atlantic they ran into extremely bad weather. A stiff northeast wind beat the plane back and reduced its speed to an average of 120 miles an hour.

They were forced to rise to about 12,000 feet and fly blind for about fifteen hours through extremely cold air which penetrated through their clothes.

"We finally discovered a hole in the clouds, which had kept us for what seemed an eternity, completely secluded from the world," Hillig said. "Diving through this hole, we discovered that we were over land and water.

Flew over Spain and France.

"The changed situation, however, did not bring relaxation, since we hadn't the remotest idea of where we were and there was hardly any way to find out. I presume we must have been over Spain, and for many long hours we flew over Spain, France, and possibly England. The strain on our nerves was tremendous, particularly for Hoiriis, who all the time was at the controls.

"The weather was still extremely bad. Clouds and mist kept us low so that some times we almost touched the ground."

Finally they saw an airport and Hoiriis gave up the plan to go straight to Copenhagen at all cost and made a perfect landing. The airport turned out to be Krefeld, in the Rhineland.

Flies Half Asleep.

After a short rest and telephone conversation with Copenhagen they started off again but the prolonged strain, according to Hellig, began to tell on the pilot who soon lost orientation again. Having reached Bremen, he circled around but since he was apparently half asleep he didn't recognize the airport and flew on to Hamburg. Having flown around in circles between Hamburg and Bremen the plans arrived the second time over Bremen.

Fortunately this time a blimp was about to start from the airfield and the pilot signaled to Hoiriis, who had just enough strength left to make a landing.

Pilot Falls in Coma.

Although it was known that thousan 's were waiting at Copenhagen, only about 220 miles off, in order to greet their heroes, it was clear that Hoiriis would be unable to proceed. Hillig, who had slept during part of the flight, looked for a substitute for his pilot, but owing to the late hour failed to find one.

Since he had had only a few flying lessons himself he didn't risk the short flight by himself. Finally he informed Copenhagen that he couldn't get there tonight and would proceed tomorrow at 11 a. m. [5 a. m. Chicago time]. Hoiriis was deeply asleep and did not hear anything.

Hop Into Siberia Today.

MOSCOW, June 25. — (AP) — The American airmen, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, reached Moscow today 60½ hours after hopping off from New York on their attempt to set a new round the world speed record. The flyers settled their monoplane down at 5:30 p. m. [10:30 a. m. Chicago time] and were greeted cordially by soviet and civil aviation officials.

Leaving their machine to be refueled they went to a hotel to rest and later to be honor guests at a banquet.

The takeoff for the next leg of the flight from Moscow to Irkutsk in deep Siberia will take place early tomorrow morning. The flyers were advised that flight conditions would be better than early this evening, although they had at first expressed the wish to continue their journey immediately without rest.

Fight Rain and Fog.

Both men were in excellent condition, apparently unwearied by the flight of more than 900 miles from Berlin which they accomplished in slightly more than eight hours despite fog and rain over Poland. They expressed confidence they would reach New York again in less than the scheduled ten days. They expected to arrive at Nome, Alaska, June 28.

Post, the pilot, and Gatty, the navigator and radio man, were shy at the effusive greeting extended by officials of the Soviet Society for the Development of Aviation and were reticent concerning their experience.

When airdrome authorities expressed astonishment at the willingness of the airmen to attempt the difficult crossing of the Ural mountains during the night, Post said with a broad Oklahoma drawl:

"Well, we flew over the ocean in the middle of the night in a hard storm. I don't expect the Urals will bother us much."

To Fly Over Urals.

Finally, however, they decided it would be better to take off about dawn, so their flight over the mountains will be made in the daytime. They took on 275 gallons of gasoline here and a number of maps furnished by soviet officials but they did not load any oil. They decided they had enough until they reached Novosibirsk.

No large crowd was present when the Americans landed, only attachés of the field and newspaper correspondents being among the welcoming party. The government was not represented at the reception.

HOME TOWN GOES WILD AS "FLYING OTTO" SPANS SEA

3,000 Stay Up All Night to Await News.

Liberty, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—Otto Hillig, Liberty's 55 year old genial photographer, flew the Atlantic and thereby tickled the home town folks into ecstasies.

Some towns, such as St. Louis and New York, put on speeches and parades and threw shreds of telephone directories out of skyscraper windows to celebrate trans-Atlantic flights, but Liberty just celebrated.

Its 3,000 citizens poured into the street and milled around in front of Otto's photographer's shop when the clang and screech of bells and whistles told them he had landed safely in Germany on the other side of a broad and hostile North Atlantic. They slapped one another on the back and cheered Otto and his young Danish pilot, Holgar Hoiriis, and said, one to the other:

"Sure, Otto could do it; I knew he could."

Town Sits Up All Night.

There were a few hours this morning when they were not so sure. They had been up all night, in restaurants, in the Elks' club and at Otto's shop. Their hopes ran high when the sun looked down over the eastern rim of the surrounding Catskills this morning and they were quite confident for three or four thereafter, knowing that the Liberty carried gas sufficient to keep it in the air until the midmorning hours.

When noon began to draw along the groups on the street corner did not chat so freely. The telephone calls to news sources became more frequent and at last, when no definite word had come in the early afternoon, their confidence turned to uneasiness bordering on despair. George Klemm, friend of Hillig's, had been delegated to keep in telephonic contact with Albany for news of the flyers.

"Boy! That's Good News."

The folks in Otto's place were sitting with their chins in their hands, thinking the situation over, when the telephone rang along about 1:30 o'clock.

"They are reported to have landed near Krefeld, Germany, safely and with the plane undamaged," Klemm heard.

"O boy," said Klemm, "that's good news."

He called word out of the window to the waiting crowd and turned back to the telephone to say:

"You never saw such a scene. The people are running around like everything. Are they happy? You bet they are!"

FLYERS' MAIL TO BE STAMPED ALL ROUND THE WORLD

New York, June 25.—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, the round the world flyers, hope to bring back with them to the United States what will be perhaps the most interesting of all air mail covers.

They took in a special bag 1,000 envelopes, bearing in the upper left hand corner both their signatures. These covers will be stamped with regular postage stamps of each country in which they land on scheduled time and canceled, to bear testimony to their accomplishment.

German stamps will attest their stop at Berlin, Russian stamps the visit to Moscow and the far flung towns of Siberia, United States stamps the pause at Nome, Alaska and Canadian stamps the visit to Edmonton.

TWO FLY ON; TWO DOWN

Heavy line on map shows the route of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, American round-the-world flyers, who took off at dawn today from Moscow for Irkutsk, Siberia.

Dotted line shows route Otto Hillig and Holger Hoiriis took in their effort to reach Copenhagen, Denmark, from the United States. Swept by a gale, the two flew blindly over Spain, and France, and were forced down at Krefeld, Germany.

They took off again for Denmark but landed in Bremen exhausted.

AROUND WORLD RACERS MEET AT BRITISH AIRFIELD

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

LONDON, June 25.—Two Japanese journalists, racing around the world in opposite directions by Public Air Services, met and passed each other in dramatic fashion at Croydon airdrome today.

Starting from Osaka on June 6, Sutemaru Shingu, representing the Osaka Asahi, had traveled eastward, while nine days after, on June 15, Kenzo Fukuma, representing the Tokio Asahi, set out westward. Fukuma's westward journey was made with halts at Seoul, Corea; Novosibirsk, Siberia; Moscow and Berlin. Shingu, on the reverse route, sailed from Tokio to Victoria, B. C., then flew to New York. He arrived in England by boat today. He motored straight to Croydon field, where, after a handshake and a few minutes' chat with Fukuma, who had just stepped from the Moscow air mail, he boarded the afternoon air mail for Paris en route to Berlin. Fukuma will leave Croydon at 8 a. m. tomorrow by air for Paris, then will travel to Cherbourg and sail to New York.

DOUG FAIRBANKS RESCUES 2 HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Los Angeles, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks, film actor, today rescued Mr. and Mrs. Melville L. Van Duersen of Hillside, N. J., from an automobile wreck.

The actor saw two automobiles collide and one overturn. He ran to the machine, dropped through a shattered window and extricated Mr. and Mrs. Van Duersen and then ran to a telephone and summoned a police ambulance.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Duersen were seriously hurt and physicians believed Mrs. Van Duersen had suffered internal injuries. The occupants of the other automobile escaped injury.

Death Chair Out of Order, 'Emergency Set' Executes 2

Ossining, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—After a special dynamo had been pressed into service, Hayward Turner, 29, and Frederick Innes, 38, Negroes, were executed at Sing Sing prison tonight. A test preparatory to the executions today disclosed that the electric chair was out of order. Efforts to repair it in time failed, and the death house was wired hurriedly to permit use of an auxiliary dynamo found at the prison.

Turner and Innes robbed and killed Joseph Gross in a Bronx apartment house.

FIRE IN POLICE STATION.

Smoke filled the basement of the Maxwell street police station last night when a fire overheated a flue. No damage was done, according to Thomas Anderson, chief of the seventh fire battalion.

WATCHMAN, 73, KILLED BY AUTO; TOLL NOW IS 528

Andrew Reidy, 73 years old, 4537 South Halsted street, a watchman at the stockyards, was fatally injured last evening when he was struck by an automobile at 45th and Halsted streets. He died early this morning at the German Deaconness hospital. The car was driven by Matthew Kennedy, 4525 South Union avenue.

Thomas Trapp, 12 years old, 2618 Fletcher street, died in the Belmont hospital yesterday of injuries suffered on Wednesday, when he was struck by an automobile at Elston and Warsaw avenues. The driver of the car, Thomas Loew of 4103 Fifth avenue, was arrested.

Mrs. Bertha Maner, 73 years old, 2426 Augusta boulevard, died in the Norwegian-American hospital of injuries sustained when she was struck on Wednesday near her home by an automobile driven by Jacob Tomaszkrewicz, 734 North Ada street.

These deaths increased the Cook county motor toll this year to 528.

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated C. S. Mabee, sales manager of the Du Gas Fire Extinguisher company, 108 North Jefferson street, of blame for the death of Arthur Wild of Elgin, Y. M. C. A. physical director, who was fatally injured in a collision of his car and Mabee's truck at Kimball and Elston avenues on June 13.

R. A. Kantz, 38 years old, of Hammond, a salesman for the C. F. Adams company, 704 South Crawford avenue, was instantly killed yesterday when his automobile was struck by a Michigan Central passenger train at the Pine street crossing in Gary.

SIX ALLEGED AIDS OF CAPONE TAKEN IN DRINKING BOUT

Six men, among them Claude Maddox and Tony Capezio, alleged Capone hoodlums who were questioned in connection with the Clark street massacre in 1929, were brought in handcuffs to the detective bureau from Wheaton last night following their arrest earlier in a Du Page county roadhouse.

The other prisoners are Rocco De Grazio, Louis Stacey, John Purdy, and Lawrence Imburgio.

All six were seized while seated at a table drinking. Maddox identified himself as Joseph Manning of Denver, and Capezio said he was Tony Reno. Chicago police remembered the aliases, and Lieut. Phil Carroll and Sergt. Ed Ganshaw and their squads went to Wheaton for the prisoners.

"Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, Chicago gangster, his wife, the former Louise Rolfe, and a man who gave his name as Sol Litzman were arrested last night in Fort Wayne, Ind., but police of that city released the trio when Chicago authorities said they were not wanted here.

MANY SQUATTERS OCCUPY HOMES IN COUNTY FORESTS

Some Get Land Free and Some Pay Small Rent.

The forest preserve board was revealed yesterday in the rôle of landlord to a host of squatters on land purchased to enlarge the preserves to afford recreation for the county's citizens. The tenants occupy—either free or for nominal rentals—homes, farmhouses, farms, pasture lands, and orchards.

In the published proceedings of the last meeting of the preserve board, composed of the county commissioners, 102 paying tenants, 60 gratis tenants, 61 gratis organizations, and 10 lessees of farm and pasture lands, are listed. The land occupied by the tenants is estimated to be in excess of 2,000 acres. Rentals range from $60 a year for a four room frame house and barn near Hinsdale to $880 for a 5 room frame house, two barns, a shed, and 189 acres of land at Keane avenue, south of 95th street.

Rentals $20,000 a Year.

Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent of the forest preserve district, disclosed that the rentals total approximately $20,000 annually. Records of the district reveal that Ignatius Fraxa receives a salary of $5,000 to act as rental agent. The forest preserve advisory commission, headed by Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, has repeatedly advised raising or moving of the structures to develop the preserves. Gen. Davis yesterday reaffirmed this position.

Herman A. Janess Jr. pays $25 a month for an 11 room brick and frame house, a barn, chicken shed and nine acres of plowland and orchard north of Dundee road in Wheeling. Nine greenhouses, a six room new brick house, a two car garage and small shed on River road north of Higgins road are listed at a rental of $75 a month.

Pays $250 Annually.

Peter De Vos pays an annual rental of $250 on propety on 135th street east of Ridgeland avenue, including a seven room frame house, two barns, a garage, granary and corn crib and 100 acres of land. Joseph Wrzesniewski on River road west of Lawrence avenue, gets a seven room house, a five room frame building, a cow shed, two chicken sheds, a grain shed, another shed, a barn, and plowland for $400 a year.

A large number of the gratis tenants are employes of the preserve district and others are impoverished families. The gratis organizations include social, veterans' and fraternal organizations. The forest preserve commissioners explained that the houses were being rented pending razing so that the district might net a return on the property. No explanation was given for the low rentals.

Realty Dealers Report Drop of 10 to 30 Per Cent in Rents

BY AL CHASE.

With rents in apartments and residences in the Chicago area reduced from 10 to 30 per cent, and in some instances even more, the Chicago renter is getting more for his dollar now than he has for many years, according to realty dealers. And in addition to this, according to the prediction of an official of one of Chicago's largest renting concerns, rentals are going still lower in certain buildings.

Although most realty men said the slack in renting, due to overbuilding, is being absorbed gradually, none would predict an upturn in rentals. Instead most believe that unless business conditions improve, the present rental levels will continue.

"Rents Facing Adjustment."

The vice president of one of Chicago's largest rental concerns declared that the apartment situation is one of adjustment and that it faces the same liquidation as other fields of business.

He said that in general the rental reduction in the ordinary three story apartment building had been 25 per cent. Rents on some flats have been reduced as little as 7 per cent, but in several cases they have been slashed 30 per cent. He declared that buildings which have not been modernised, or which lack good transportation, are bound to have their rentals forced lower than structures in better localities and of more modern construction.

Richard W. Gates, manager of renting in the Woodlawn office of McKay and Poague, said that rentals in lower priced apartments have come down less than in the high priced ones. He stated that flats renting from $68 to $100 have been cut 15 per cent, whereas suites renting from $100 to $150 have been reduced 20 per cent. Some renting at more than $150 have been slashed close to 30 per cent.

"Rentals won't get back to normal until the buildings get filled up again," said Mr. Gates. "They've been out on account of the general business depression and not because of overbuilding. We don't expect any further cuts, however."

On the west side, one of the largest renting concerns, O. W. Drollinger & Sons, reports that four room flats formerly renting for $65 and $70 now can be had for $50 and $55. Three room suites that rented for $62.50 and $65 now bring $47.50 and $55. The larger apartments have had the highest reductions in rent in this district.

James Carroll, of Carrol, Schendorf & Boenicke, one of the south side's largest renting concerns, said rentals are down from 10 to 15 per cent. Even if business conditions improve, he said, he believes rentals are not likely to go lower.

SUE DAUGHTER OF DR. STONE ON DESERTION COUNT

Dispatches from Boulder, Colo., yesterday stated that Mrs. Elizabeth Stone Bruner, formely of Chicago, had been served with papers in a divorce suit filed by her husband, Dr. Julian M. Bruner of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., charging her with desertion. The suit was filed in Rochester in February, 1930, but efforts to serve the papers were unsuccessful until yesterday.

Mrs. Bruner is a daughter of the Rev. John Timothy Stone, head of the Presbyterian Theological seminary and former pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church. She was married to Colville Cameron [Red] Jackson, once captain of the University of Chicago football team, in 1921. They were divorced in 1925. Miss Stone's marriage to Dr. Bruner was solemnized at Riverside, Cal., on June 25, 1926.

GOTHAM'S FIRST WOMAN JUDGE IS OUSTED AS UNFIT

Mrs. Norris Found Guilty; Had Notable Career.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Florence Norris, New York city's first woman magistrate, was removed from office today by the unanimous vote of five justices of the Appellate division, who, in sustaining five or six charges brought by Samuel Seabury, found that she showed "unfitness for judicial service."

The court then took up the case of Magistrate Jesse Silbermann, who also is fighting against a removal action brought by Mr. Seabury, acting under appointment of Gov. F. D. Roosevelt. Mrs. Norris, who is between 45 and 50 years old, sat at the counsel table in the courtroom beside Martin Conboy, her attorney, while Presiding Justice Edward R. Finch read the three opinions removing her for cause. She heard the decision with no show of emotion.

Recipient of Many Honors.

Her admission to the bar in 1909 began a career that carried her to leadership in many legal and civic organizations. She also was prominent in the movement for women's suffrage, which culminated in her appointment to the bench in 1919 by Mayor John F. Hylan. She had received honors in many parts of the world, among them an order by Mayor Jame M. Curley of Boston in 1922 and a tree be planted in Boston common in her name as the "first woman judge of New York."

The decision came at the end of a trial that had begun on Monday morning. The five justices had listened to the testimony and had heard Mr. Seabury appeal for a "regeneration of force on the bench," to end the evils existing in the inferior courts.

Basis for Her Removal.

The decision found Mrs. Norris guilty of these offenses:

First, that in the De Sena case Magistrate Norris changed or attempted to change official records in material respects, to the prejudice of the defendant.

Second, that in the Landry case the act of Magistrate Norris in reference to the record on appeal were calculated to prejudice the rights of the plaintiff.

Third, that Magistrate Norris purchased and held stock in a bonding company with whose representatives in the Magistrate's court she was in such contact and as to whose bonds she was frequently called upon to and did act in her judicial capacity.

Fourth, that in the Bodmer case the respondent placed a 25 year old girl on trial summarily upon her arrest, without a warrant and without counsel, or the opportunity to obtain counsel, and convicted her without advising her of her rights and on testimony which was obviously insufficient in law and almost exclusively hearsay. The constitutional rights of the defendant were thus violated in an inexcusable manner.

Published Commercial Article.

Fifth, that for money Magistrate Norris underwent a course of treatment and sanctioned the exploitation of her judicial position in the advertising of a commercial product, contrary to the essential dignity of judicial office.

Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky was made the subject of an intermediate report recommending removal because of his extensive business activities while on the bench, and he fought the proceedings to vindication before the same court which removed Mrs. Norris.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Bob Glick, manslaughter, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Charles A. Williams.

Joe Bonino, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Felix Fitzpatrick.

George Nelson, 22 years old, was found guilty of the robbery of the Hillside State bank, at Hillside, on Dec. 23 last year by a jury before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court last evening. The plea of his attorney, Charles Dougherty, for a new trial will be heard July 2. He faces a sentence of from one year to life in the penitentiary. Harry Lewis, alias Powell, a member of the gang which took $4,185 in the holdup, turned state's evidence against Nelson.

WHAT I PAY FOR HOTEL SUITE MY BUSINESS: CURTIS

Denies Profiting by 100 Million Bonds.

Topeka, Kans., June 25.—(AP)—Vice President Curtis said today it was "no one's business but my own and the hotel's" what he pays for his suite in a fashionable Washington hostelry.

E. HALDEMAN-JULIUS. [A. P. Photo.]

The Vice President made the statement in elaborating upon a telegram which he addressed to E. Haldeman Julius, Girard, Kas., publisher, and in which he denied knowing a "Mr. Moore," or having been "directly or indirectly connected with or interested in a 100 million bond issue or any other issue."

Curtis said other vice presidents before him had been provided free living quarters but that he paid for his. He said he had been accused of taking advantage of his position to avail himself of a low rate.

Haldeman-Julius, in a telegram to the vice president, made public by the publisher, asked for an explanation of Curtis' connection with the "Moore 100 million bond" deal and said "it is charged that your influence kept the hands of the department of justice tied for several years and that you shared in the spoils to the extent of $150 per day since the day of your election."

Curtis, in his reply, said he had "never used my influence directly or indirectly with the department of justice or any one connected with it to prevent investigation or prosecution in any case and I have never benefited in any way from any bond issue."

ROBBER STRIKES WOMAN OF 61 IN JEWELRY HOLDUP

Trailed from a loop theater, Mrs. Josephine Scully, widow of Daniel B. Scully, millionaire syrup manufacturer, and her daughter, Mrs. Josephine Nesbit, were held up late last night in their automobile in front of their residence at 431 Oakdale avenue, and robbed of $5,000 in jewelry.

Mrs. Scully and her daughter were about to alight from their car when the bandits' auto, containing three men, drew up in the rear. Two men stepped out and into their victims' automobile. They menaced the women and the chauffeur, August Manassy, 649 Irving Park boulevard. Mrs. Scully, 61 years old, tried to resist. One of the gunmen slapped her on the face and threatened death if she continued her resistance.

From Mrs. Scully the robbers took a platinum diamond ring valued at $1,300; a ring set with diamonds and two sapphires, which cost $1,300, and another ring containing twenty pearls, worth $1,100. Mrs. Nesbit lost a diamond-emerald ring valued at $1,000, and a $300 guard ring.

U. S. WILL LEAVE VILE ODOR OUT OF DENATURED ALKY

And Methanol Will Be Dyed Purple.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The government today adopted a new and less evil smelling formula for its completely denatured alcohol. At the same time the bureau of public health announced the adoption of several measures designed to prevent people from drinking methanol, or wood alcohol.

The new formula for industrial alcohol is understood to have been adopted after the receipt of numerous complaints by consumers of the product against the vile odor produced by the denaturing agent, alcotate. When the bureau of industrial alcohol adopted alcotate as its denaturant last summer it was described as giving the alcohol the odor of garlic and rotten eggs.

Less Stringent Solution.

In the new formula, it was stated, the amount of alcotate is to be reduced, thereby lessening the evil smell. Chemists are of the opinion that the less stringent solution will be as effective as the one heretofore in use.

The health bureau's action came as a result of a resolution addressed to it by state health officials asking for suggestions whereby the people might be "safeguarded" against methanol or wood alcohol.

Under the terms of the agreement manufacturers have consented to color all mixtures containing more than 15 per cent of methanol with a purple substance. Under this head will come all anti-freeze mixtures used in automobile radiators during the cold weather.

Will Be Labeled Poison.

The marking of methanol in some manner was deemed necessary to prevent persons from drinking it and from the careless and dangerous use of it, according to the announcement of the agreement.

According to the terms of the agreement, all solutions containing more than 15 per cent methanol are also to be labeled "poison."

Today's action on industrial alcohol denaturing is the second taken by the treasury within a year. Last summer the bureau of industrial alcohol substituted alcotate for wood alcohol as its denaturant following extensive criticism directed against its use of the latter agent. Until this time alcotate was thought to have proved highly effective.

CALL OFF TRIAL OF BOOZE PATROL WHO KILLED TWO ON BOAT

Detroit, Mich., June 25.—[Special.]—A four year old manslaughter charge against August C. Lottner, former federal prohibition agent, was dropped by the district attorney's office today on receipt of word from W. Gomer Krise, chief assistant prosecuting attorney, that the state will close the case.

Lottner was charged with ramming a speedboat on the Detroit river on May 13, 1927, instantly killing 11 year old Mildred Lee, and drowning her father, James Lee. A second man, Charles Stringari, riding with Lee, was injured, but recovered. The little girl was decapitated when the patrol boat slid over the pleasure craft.

The case was taken from the state courts into the federal court and Lottner was placed on trial before Judge Edward J. Moinet, with H. R. Gambler, assistant United States attorney general, especially sent from Washington; O. L. Smith, at that time acting district attorney here, and John A. Baxer, assistant district attorney defending him, because he was a federal officer.

Lottner was prosecuted by Ward Culver, then an assistant prosecuting attorney. The jury, composed of seven women and five men, deliberated for ten hours and then reported it was in such thorough disagreement that a verdict was impossible.

The defendant was released on bond pending a second trial, but important witnesses are missing and the case would be improperly presented, according to Krise's report to Gregory H. Frederick, district attorney.

Since the double killing took place while Lottner was on duty, he was defended by federal attorneys in the federal court and prosecuted by the state, which charged that Lottner deliberately rammed the Lee boat. The burden of bringing the prosecution rested with the state.

Lottner charged Lee was smuggling liquor, but none was found. Lee's boat was a new one which he was giving a tryout.

ROTARIAN SINKS IN RIVER AGAIN AS CABLES PART

The good ship Rotarian, which for some time has been reposing in the river at the Clark street bridge and which has been the subject of all types of salvaging activity, is now back in its original position. Two cables under the bow parted yesterday and the aged hulk settled into the mud again. Sebastion Schwager, one of the many contractors in the salvaging, says he can do no more. Schwager will receive nothing from Miles J. Devine, the owner, for his salvage efforts because his contract calls for payment when and if the hulk is sold after it is floated. Devine will appear in Judge O'Connor's court next Tuesday on the city's suit demanding removal of the boat as a nuisance. After a year's work with cables, inflated bags, barges and donkey engines the boat is back where it was the morning it sank.

The others are Enos Enfinger, Avery Enfinger, Jeremiah Cosson, Willie Pickeron, and Fletcher Whitehead.

Justice of the Peace Duncan Gillis released all on $500 bond following a hearing. He said the case would be investigated at the next session of the grand jury, which meets in September.

Catts, who assumed all the blame, testified that Sam Satey, owner of the café, owed him some money and that when he learned Satey contemplated leaving town he secured the help of the others in removing numerous articles from the café.

Satey contended he owed Catts $10 on a personal loan and that the goods taken from the café were valued at $240.

Justice Gillis said Catts and the five other men are alleged to have backed a truck up to the café early on the morning of June 16, to have broken "a lock and part of a door and hauled away pots, pans, shelves, counters, and the kitchen stove." Constable Tom Sharpe testified Satey was away at the time.

Catts, who is a minister, also is under a federal indictment charging him with aiding and abetting a counterfeiting ring that was broken up in Tampa a year ago. He was tried in federal court but the case was a mistrial. The date for another trial has not been set.

File Impeachment Charge Against Tennessee Official

Nashville, Tenn., June 25.—(AP)—An article of impeachment was filed today against Secretary of State Ernest N. Haston, but its defeat was virtually assured when the Tennessee house voted 50 to 39 against hearing testimony in support of the article's charges. The article alleges Haston has served as an attorney for the Tennessee Electric Power company since he was first elected secretary of state by the general assembly of 1921, and that as secretary of state he has served as a member of the state board of equalization, which equalizes and fixes the values of properties for ad valorem taxation.

HOOVER WILLING TO TAKE FRENCH TERMS ON DEBT

Will Give In Rather than Have Plan Fail.

out my original plan and that nothing has occurred of a nature to prevent that."

Scene Shifts to Paris.

The negotiations of an agreement with France are now in progress in Paris, where Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon has joined Walter E. Edge, the American ambassador, in the conferences at the Quai d'Orsay. The President's views have been transmitted to them for presentation to the French government. The agreement will be worked out in Paris.

Mr. Stimson announced as long ago as June 2 that he was going to spend the summer in the principal capitals of western Europe—on a vacation, he said, though de did not deny that he would meet and hold heart to heart talks with the principal statesmen of Italy, France, Germany, and Great Britain. When the President announced his moratorium proposal last Saturday Mr. Stimson said he might be too busy in Washington to be able to get away at the time he had planned, which was the latter part of this week.

More Needed in Paris.

With the President disposed, however, to seek a basis of agreement with France, and furthermore disposed to go all the way toward the French position, if necessary, and with the negotiations transferred to Paris, there no longer remained a necessity of Mr. Stimson, staying in Washington. In fact, Mr. Hoover is understood to have opined that Mr. Stimson would be of more value in Europe, particularly if the negotiations in Paris should be protracted.

The expectation at the White House however, is that an agreement with France will be reached before Mr. Stimson reaches Europe. Mr. Mellon who was preparing yesterday to leave England for France was apprised last night of the President's desire to reach an accord with France and was requested by Mr. Hoover to prolong his stay in Paris sufficiently to lay the foundation for an understanding.

A final effort is to be made to persuade France to withdraw her condition requiring Germany to continue payment of the unconditional reparations to the international bank.

Alternative to Be Proposed.

One of the alternatives that will be pressed upon France is an exchange of notes among the powers formally guaranteeing France that the Young plan will not be scrapped and that the payment of reparations by Germany will be resumed at the conclusion of the one year moratorium. With such a guarantee France, it will be contended, would have no valid reason for withholding an unqualified acceptance of the President's proposal.

One point raised by the French in informal conversations came in for discussion today. This was whether Germany, after being relieved of paying reparations for the year 1931-'32 would be obliged to make good on these deferred payments during the year 1932-'33. Doubt was expressed that Germany would be able to pay double reparations in one year.

According to an informal view in official circles there need be no concern on this score. It was said that formal arrangements incident to carrying out the year's moratorium could provide that Germany should pay her 1931-32 obligations on the installment plan over a period of years, or the payments due in 1931-'32 could be deferred until the maturity of reparations payments.

That is, according to the suggestion advanced, an extra year in the distant future would be added to the period within which Germany was bound to pay reparations to the victorious allies.

May Extend Naval Pact.

There is reason to believe that one of the projects Secretary Stimson is going to tackle in Europe is the extension of the three power naval armament pact negotiated in London last year to include France and Italy.

Two failures to accomplish this end have been scored up to date. Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium and a member of the delegation to the London conference, visited Paris and Rome and attempted to bring France and Italy together on a basis that would permit them to sign the London pact unconditionally. He failed completely.

A few months later Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, had a try at it and almost succeeded. He negotiated an accord which was reduced to writing and announcement was made that the three power pact was about to become the five power pact. Mr. Stimson was about to go on the air with a speech of jubilation when a hitch occurred between Paris and London. The proposition was pigeon holed and Mr. Stimson had to cancel his speech.

The hitch was due to the insistence of France on a navy building program which would have impelled Great Britain to exceed the quotas of the London pact. With the revenue of France reduced by the moratorium France may now be willing, it is conceived, to come down on her navy building program sufficiently to permit an agreement. At any rate, it is not doubted that this is one of the situations Mr. Stimson will explore.

German Reichsbank Gets Gold.

It is understood that the arrangements for the extension of a gold credit of 100 million to the German Reichsbank are completed and will be announced at Berlin. The fund is to be supplied in equal shares by the Federal Reserve bank of New York, the Bank of England, the Bank of France and the International bank at Basle.

One plan which had been urged on the administration as a cure for the world economic situation was put forward by representatives of silver states and by silver producers who have recently been active in pushing various programs to restore silver prices. The plan contemplated the payment of war debt and reparations obligations in silver.

Special Debt Plan Session of Congress Now Suggested

REPRESENTATIVE WOOD.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Congressional opinion varied today on the question of whether or not a special session will be necessary to pass President Hoover's plan for suspending international debts and reparations payments.

The desire of the President to get his plan into operation, should it finally be approved by all the nations involved, plus the probability of a fight to organize in the house, may require Mr. Hoover to convene congress perhaps a month in advance of Dec. 7. This, at least, was the contention today of several authorities of the President's own party.

Their position was taken, however, in the face of the reiterated opinions of such Republican leaders as Senator Watson [Rep., Ind.], Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] and Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.], all of whom continued to maintain that no special session would be necessary.

Point to Danger of Delay.

Those who expect a special session, on the other hand, have pointed out that much of the advantage to be gained from putting the suspension plan into effect would be lost by delay, and they have argued that with the house almost evenly divided between the two parties, the likelihood of a long delay in getting the house organized is as real as ever.

Moreover, they say, while the administration claims to have gathered in a comfortable list of supporters for the plan, there is always the senate's deliberateness to be contended with.

It became increasingly apparent today, as members of the senate and house spoke of the seriousness of the European economic situation, that the White House must have used the strongest sort of arguments in gaining congressional support.

Representative Wood today declared that the recent suggestion by Senator Watson that the house elect a speaker pro tem in order to expedite the necessary legislation was both impossible and unnecessary.

"A speaker pro tem would have to be appointed by the speaker, and it would require an extra session of congress to elect a speaker," Representative Wood said.

Opposes Special Session.

"Furthermore, we don't need an extra session of congress. You can't convene an extra session of congress to consider one specific thing. Other issues would be bound to enter the picture.

"It is my judgment we shall be able to get a ratifying resolution through the house in short order. A majority of the members appear to be supporting the President."

The senate, said Representative Wood, will probably require more time. Mr. Wood took issue with Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] for the latter's statement that the President, in suggesting the year's suspension of payments, had usurped the power of congress.

"Mr. La Guardia's reasoning is fallacious," said Mr. Wood. "It is the President's duty to advise congress on international situations. Congress will be called to pass upon the question eventually."

MORATORIUM FOR FARM AND HOME MORTGAGE ASKED

Columbus, Neb., June 25.—(AP)—A five year moratorium on the American farm and home mortgage was suggested here today by Congressman Edgar Howard, Democrat of Nebraska, in a telegram to President Hoover endorsing the plans for one year moratorium on international debts. He said:

"Very earnestly I suggest to you the advisability of taking another good step—one which will do much to improve conditions here at home—a step in the direction of declaring an extension for many years on all mortgages now covering the American farms and also the actual houses in cities and towns, with the understanding that interest payments should be promptly paid, pushing payment of the mortgage proper five years ahead.

"This would put hope in the hearts of millions of our citizens—hearts in which hope is well nigh dead."

Gary Man Is Elected Head of Indiana Fire Chiefs

South Bend, Ind., June 25.—(AP)—Frank Parkey of Gary was elected president of the Indiana Association of Fire Chiefs at the closing session of the 1931 convention here today. Archie McAbee of Muncie was elected secretary and J. G. Stahlhut of Fort Wayne, treasurer.

LOST LIQUOR TAX WOULD MEET CUT IN DEBT PAYMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—With the United States agreeing to forego the collection of 246 million dollars due on the war debts in the fiscal year beginning July 1 next, there is much speculation in Washington on ways and means of meeting this increase in the prospective deficit.

Before the President made his moratorium proposal it was estimated that the treasury deficit in the next fiscal year would approximate that for this year, which is not far from one billion dollars. Of the amount of war debts payments the United States is to forego, 62 millions are on principal which otherwise would go to the retirement of Liberty bonds and 184 millions are on interest which otherwise would go toward paying the current expenses of the government. The deficit, therefore, will be increased to the extent of 184 millions.

Look for Larger Tax Income.

The increase in the deficit on account of the moratorium has furnished another argument to those who are advocating increased federal taxation to balance the budget. The administration at present is opposing such suggestions. Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills calculates that the moratorium will improve the world economic situation to such an extent that increased income tax revenue from improved business will offset the loss of war debt payments.

It is evident, however, that when congress meets there will be a flood of proposals for dealing with the deficit, particularly in view of the suspension of the war debt payments. One of the proposals for recovery of the amount sacrificed by the waiver of war debt payments will be reimposition of the excise tax on liquors.

Will Miss Liquor Revenue.

There never was a time during the last decade before national prohibition that the federal revenue from the taxes on distilled spirits, wines, and fermented liquors did not exceed the amount by which the revenue will be reduced by the war debt moratorium. The liquor tax revenue during that decade follows:

1910	$201,668,670
1912	212,042,239
1913	222,314,482
1914	226,179,689
1915	223,948,646
1916	247,483,543
1917	284,006,512
1918	445,839,544
1919	483,666,854

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment recently issued a study in which it was estimated that prohibition is costing the taxpayers an estimated $849,918,115 in loss of excise tax revenue to the federal government.

The association assumed that if excise taxes were to be reimposed they would beat the 1918 level. It also assumed that there would be the average liquor consumption which prevailed between 1910 and 1914 and which was per capita: Wine 6.10 gallons, malt liquors 20.28 gallons, and spirits 1.44 gallons.

Estimate Present Consumption.

Ruling out of consideration 33 states that were dry by state law in 1930, including 19 which allowed the importation of liquors for personal use, the association found that the consumption of liquor on the basis of the present population of the 15 wet states would be: Wine, 33,871,000 gallons; malt liquors, 1,156,812,140 gallons; spirits, 32,421,280 gallons. At the 1918 tax rates this amount of liquor, the association computed, would produce the following revenue:

Wine (22,581,200 gallons at 20 cents and 11,290,000 gallons at 50 cents a gallon), $10,161,540.

Malt liquors (27,524,949 barrels at $3, and 9,276,323 barrels at $6 a barrel), $139,174,545.

Spirits (32,421,280 gallons at $8.50 a gallon), $700,581,730. Total, $849,918,115.

If higher tax rates, on a level with those prevailing in Great Britain, were to be imposed, the total revenue, the association estimated, would be $1,715,734,730.

POLICEMAN HURT AS HORSE BOLTS AND IS KILLED

George Perry, a mounted policeman, was possibly fatally injured early last evening when the horse he was riding bolted at Lake and Wells streets, crashed head-on into a support of the elevated structure and was killed. Perry was thrown to the pavement, suffering a fractured skull. His condition at the Alexian Brothers hospital was described as critical.

Perry, who is 45 years old and resides at 2143 North Keystone avenue, is regularly stationed in La Salle street near the city hall. At 6 p. m. his shift ended and he followed the regular routine of the traffic department. There was an assembly of mounted policemen near Lake and Wells streets for the march to the barns in Illinois street. The march had just started when Perry's mount bolted.

One of the theories was that the animal may have been maddened by heat.

KEITH-MILLER SEEKS DIVORCE FROM FLYER WIFE

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—An Exchange Telegraph agency dispatch from Melbourne said today that Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian flyer, who is now in America, had been sued for divorce by Keith-Miller, journalist.

She Calls It Convenience.

Newark, N. J., June 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Beryl Keith-Miller today characterized the divorce suit reported filed by her husband in London as "a divorce of convenience."

"The divorce is merely a matter of convenience so that I may continue my aviation career," Mrs. Keith-Miller told the Associated Press today.

Mrs. Keith-Miller said she had been in America three years and had corresponded frequently with her husband, with whom she said she was on the best of terms.

"I am very fond of my husband," she said, "but I would rather pursue my career than settle down in married life. Mr. Keith-Miller wanted me to come home, and finally demanded formal notice that I preferred my career to married life."

Mrs. Keith-Miller said she sent him such a statement.

"LA COUR-GAYET, WE ARE HERE"—MELLON IN PARIS

Begins Efforts to Urge Plan on French.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 25.—Bearing President Hoover's response to foundering Europe's S. O. S.—the first S. O. S. with reservations in the history of navigation—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon arrived on the continent this afternoon. His first words were a parody on the historic utterance of Gen. Pershing when the United States went to the aid of France in 1917.

ANDREW W. MELLON.

La Cour-Gayet, We Are Here.

"La Cour-Gayet, we are here," said Mr. Mellon, addressing M. de la Cour-Gayet, an official of the statistical department of the Bank of France, who is an old friend of his. The Frenchman grinned a bit ruefully at the rather aged shaft.

While Mr. Mellon's daughter and son-in-law, David Bruce, hurried on to the Hotel Ritz, Mr. Mellon posed with good grace to scores of photographers and cheerfully explained to reporters that it was impossible for him to make a statement, owing to the delicate nature of the situation.

Trip Is Official.

It admitted that his trip to France was official, however, and confirmed directly that he had come on urgent advice from Washington, by saying that had been altogether out of his original plans. Asked how long he was going to stay in Paris and what his future movements would be, he replied with what seemed convincing frankness that he did not know himself.

Mr. Mellon went at once to the American embassy, where he conferred with Ambassador Edge for two hours, joined by his secretary, who arrived at the embassy carrying a brief case. From the embassy he drove alone to pay a call on Pierre E. Frandin at the ministry of finance. The embassy stated vehemently that it was purely a courtesy call, but this would seem to be belied by the fact that he remained closeted with the finance minister for over an hour. Afterwards Mr. Mellon returned to the embassy for a private dinner with Ambassador Edge.

To Lunch with Laval.

Tomorrow he will take lunch with Premier Laval and Minister Flandin. It is reported that the three statesmen will then get down to definite discussion regarding France's acceptance of President Hoover's moratorium proposal.

In semi-official French quarters it is admitted that the purpose of Mr. Mellon's visit is to induce the French to trim down on their reservations, and he will probably warn Premier Laval tomorrow that the American congress is in no mood to accept any sort of reservations, even if the administration should be willing. While the French are probably prepared to do a little high powered bargaining after all, it is believed they will remain adamant for the present on the insistence that Germany make payment of unconditional annuities to the international bank before receiving them back in the form of credits.

France Adamant.

M. Laval declared today that it was not only certain that he would be overthrown in the chamber of deputies if he suggested going further at this time, but he was also worried that the chamber tomorrow forces him to make even stronger reservations.

In this connection there is considerable interest in an unqualified statement published by the government controlled press that the French note handed in Washington yesterday suggests instead of having the international bank refund the whole annuity to the Reichsbank in slices, that it should be used, if advisable, for the relief of other central European countries, thus enabling France to be the savior of Austria and possibly thereby weaning her away from Germany. Disclosure by the French press of this clause can virtually be taken as official admission that it is in the note.

It became known from well informed German sources today that as soon as the present tangle is straightened out Germany will ask for another conference to scrap the Young plan and devise a substitute. It is the German thesis that this year's moratorium, or even a two year holiday, would not be sufficient and that the whole scale of payments will have to be revised again.

Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch is said to have told Foreign Minister Briand this during their talk yesterday and the proposed conference between Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany and the French statesmen, which is now assured, will doubtless try to settle the question of calling another debt conference.

France has not yet sent a formal invitation to Berlin, but it is thought that if the government survives in the chamber of deputies tomorrow it will be sent very shortly.

What Happened in Rome.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 25.—Behind Premier Mussolini's communication with Washington accepting President Hoover's moratorium plan without reservations is concealed an incident which caused the fur to fly among the members of il duce's immediate entourage yesterday and today.

It is certain now that Mussolini's first intention was to hedge on the acceptance of President Hoover's plan with reservations, especially about Germany not using the period of the suspension of payments to foster the Austro-German customs union.

Plans Are Reversed.

That these reservations would be made was made known by a press official close to Mussolini, who, however, had not obtained il duce's approval. Later on for various reasons Mussolini changed his ideas and the note as it went out was for unequivocal acceptance, with the mere statement that a suggestion on modalities would be later communicated. This led to the first announcement of reservations, and today Foreign Minister Dino Grandi called in several members of the foreign press to get the exact account of what had been told them. Meanwhile there is noise of much spanking issuing from the Palazzo Chigi woodshed.

OFFICIAL NEWS STILL "LEAKS"; 2 ARRESTED IN FRENCH STOCK PLOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 25.—André Gagnaud, an official of the foreign office, and a financial agent, Gohard, were under arrest here today as a result of discovery of "leaks" from the official decoding bureau of the foreign ministry. Meanwhile it was discovered that other "tampering" with official messages has occurred.

Both men admitted that Gagnaud, who is a knight of the Legion of Honor and holds the rank of chancellor, had been in the habit of passing copies of official messages to Gohard, who used the information in stock market operations. While both confessed and declared they had worked alone, police are investigating further in the belief that they had accomplices and worked in connection with an international banking group.

It was hinted by the surété general, France's Scotland Yard, that the arrest of an official much higher than Gagnaud is expected.

Little definite information on other irregularities in transmission of messages was obtainable, but it was rumored that a secret cable from Ambassador Paul Claudel on Friday notifying Aristide Briand in advance of President Hoover's intention of announcing the moratorium plan was interrupted for political reasons. It was said the message never reached M. Briand.

Acquit Woman Accused of Selling $50,000 Fake Stock

St. Cloud, Minn., June 25.—(AP)—A District court jury today acquitted Mrs. Julia Garvey, St. Paul, of a charge of selling $50,000 in worthless stock for development of a motor fuel she said would contain 95 per cent water. She claimed possession of a "secret formula" for manufacture of a gasoline substitute.

BANKS OF WORLD ALLOW BIG LOAN TO REICHSBANK

To Advance 100 Million in German Crisis.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 25.—Arrangements for a loan of $100,000,000 from French, English and American banks today pulled the Reichsbank out of a crisis that had threatened the financial structure of Germany.

The loan was secured from the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the Federal Reserve bank of the United States and the Bank for International Settlements at Basle. Each of the four banks will pay one-fourth of the total into the Bank for International Settlements, which will place the money at the disposal of the Reichsbank.

Will Tide Reichsbank Over.

The loan is intended primarily to tide the Reichsbank over the end of the month, for although gold is flowing in now, the process is not likely to be fast enough to equalize before June 30 the loss of approximately $250,000,000 of the Reichsbank's reserves. The loan has no direct connection with and does not depend upon the Hoover debt proposal.

Today's Reichsbank report for the week ending last Saturday showed the gold reserve for bank note circulation stood at 40.4 per cent, only .4 per cent above the minimum required by law. A month ago the gold reserve stood at 68.4 per cent.

Gold Is Taken from Ship.

The Reichsbank admitted today that President Hoover's proposal permitted the last minute withdrawal of $7,000,000 worth of gold from the liner Bremen before it left for New York. The gold was already aboard the vessel, to be sent to the United States, but when news of President Hoover's plan was received it was hurriedly taken off, delaying the departure of the Bremen by 12 hours.

German receipts from taxes and customs during the month of May were only $128,000,000, nearly $22,000,000 less than a year ago, reflecting the weakened economic condition of the country.

Franco-German Chequers.

With great joy Berlin learned today that the French chiefs of state had agreed to meet the German chiefs in a Franco-German counterpart to the Anglo-German parley at Chequers. The date of the meeting is still uncertain. Assertions in the Berlin press that Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius will meet members of the French government next week were denied by the foreign office, which said:

"The date of the meeting cannot be set as long as conversations are being carried on between Washington and Paris, nor until it is certain that President Hoover's reparations plan will be enforced. A meeting at the present moment would create the impression that the Germans are trying to get their finger into the pie."

Action of Banks Voluntary.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—The participation of the federal reserve board in a four party move to strengthen Germany's economic position with a huge credit extension was seen here today as further evidence of this government's sincerity in seeking a solution of European difficulties.

Gov. Meyer of the board refused, however, to break the silence which he has maintained during negotiations for extension of the credit by the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the Bank of International Settlement, and the reserve board through twelve reserve banks.

Treasury officials took the view the action was distinct from the Hoover proposal for a governmental debt moratorium.

Acting Secretary Mills said such credit agreements by the reserve board are entirely voluntary.

GERMAN PREDICTS BUILDING THERE AS DEBT PLAN BUDGET

Acceptance of the Hoover proposal for a year's international debt moratorium may enable Germany to embark on a program of public works with the aid of foreign credit, Karl Pribram of the University of Frankfurt said yesterday before the Harris Foundation institute on unemployment at the University of Chicago.

"President Hoover's plan," Mr. Pribram said, "is based on the consideration that there is an abnormal movement of gold into the United States which is lowering the credit stability of many foreign countries, especially of Germany.

"It was, no doubt, an act of high and energetic statesmanship to propose one year's postponement of all payments on intergovernmental debts. This plan, if carried out, opens a way out of the increasing financial and monetary difficulties which are threatening German's economic life and it prepares the ground for an international understanding on a large and hopeful program."

NEW WITNESS IS FOUND IN MOVIE MURDER

A new witness in the slaying of Jacob D. Kaufman, motion picture operator, who was shot last Saturday, was found last night by Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Lounsbury. He is Joseph N. Rogers, 30 years old, of Abbotsford road and 145th street, Midlothian, production manager of the Barrett-Cravens Manufacturing company.

Rogers and his wife were driving east in 95th street when they heard the five shots which fatally wounded Kaufman in a garage at Princeton avenue and 95th street. Rogers halted his car and, turning back, observed a flannel trousered youth run from the garage and escape in an automobile containing two other men. Rogers wheeled his car around, entered the garage, and was the first to reach Kaufman's side. A few minutes later Rogers returned to his car.

As he was about to drive away a tall, dark visaged man approached. "Did you see what kind of a car that man got away in?" asked the man, referring to the slayer. Rogers replied that he had not. "Well, you'd better not remember!" threatened the man. He walked away, got into a waiting car, and drove off.

Rogers told Lounsbury he was not certain he could identify Kaufman's slayer. In view of the threat, the assistant state's attorney induced Rogers to vacate his home and remain with detectives.

Meanwhile Crawford Johnson, Negro owner of the garage where Kaufman was shot, and himself a movie operator, failed to press habeas corpus proceedings for his release yesterday and told Judge David he was willing to remain in custody another 24 hours.

FOUR BANKERS WIN ACQUITTAL, BUT FACE FIVE NEW CHARGES

After a week's trial on charges of misappropriating $21,000 worth of the bank's securities Alexander Flower and three other former officials of the closed Roosevelt Bankers' State bank were acquitted yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke in Criminal court. The bankers had waived a jury trial.

Following the acquittal defense counsel made a motion to quash five other indictments pending against the bankers, but Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers vigorously protested and Judge Burke sent the five pending cases back to the chief justice for reassignment. Mr. Ayres declared the state would prosecute each of the five pending indictments.

BOMB WRECKS STORE; DAMAGE IS PUT AT $3,000

Damage estimated at $3,000 was done early this morning by a black powder bomb which wrecked the front and part of the interior of the National Coffee store at 1154 West Van Buren street.

The blast shattered windows in the store and building, and in nearby buildings. James Orphens was in the back room of the store asleep at the time, and was shaken but not hurt. He was held for questioning by Desplaines street police.

Dell White, chief of the 6th fire battalion, estimated the damage. Detectives are seeking Steve Ginakos, owner of the store, for questioning.

34,000 More Deaths Than Births in France in Quarter

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 25.—[Special.]—During the first three months of 1931 there were in France over 34,000 more deaths than births, according to official figures issued today. There were nearly 10,000 fewer marriages than during the first three months of 1930.

BRITTEN WARNS AGAINST REDS IN H. S. ADDRESS

Congressman Fred A. Britten, who returned from Washington for the purpose, delivered the commencement address before the graduates of the Lane Technical High school in Medinah temple last night.

"Beware of the insidious propaganda of communism which teaches the destruction of government by force, communism which disregards all religion," the congressman said. "Guard against it as you would against any other poison of mind or body. It is a world menace that must be destroyed by the rising generations.

"Pacifism is just as dangerous to the national life because its sponsors are usually well-intentioned but misguided church people. They believe that in weakness there is security. They think that men and nations properly prepared to defend themselves from aggression are actually preparing to make war against some one. They have not the slightest conception of their folly."

SLUMP PERILS G. O. P. CONTROL OVER MICHIGAN

Democrats to Capitalize on Detroit Jobless.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., June 25.—[Special.]—Out of the present industrial depression in Detroit, its struggle with unemployment and the scandal attendant upon the distribution of public funds in charity, an unpleasant political situation is arising for the Republican party in Michigan next year.

It may not be such an idle dream that Mayor Frank Murphy has of capitalizing distress and his efforts to help the poor thrown out of work by "big business" and the Republican tariff, and seeking a place on the national Democratic ticket by holding out the chance of carrying this city and state for Gov. Roosevelt.

Detroit Peculiarly Weak.

Along the many battle fronts of the depression Detroit holds a line of peculiar weakness, for it has put so many eggs in one basket, the automotive industry. This city, it is pointed out by a leading business man and politician today, has suffered because of the tariff war between the nations, which has resulted in the making of fewer automobiles here and more construction in other countries beyond the tariff barriers. Manufacturing plants set up in Canada, for instance, take just so much away from the labor market of Detroit.

The Canadian government, as a retaliatory measure against the new American tariff, and in order to bring new business to its side of the border, has put new stones in its own tariff walls, and the automotive and rubber businesses suffer on this side. This accounts for some of the trouble in Detroit and Akron and other centers.

The argument against the Republican tariff policy is made by this situation and may be expected to be pressed home hard by the Democrats next year. Mayor Murphy is holding fast to his gigantic dole plan and planning to carry on the fight for the principle of federal, peculiarly Republican, responsibility for the depression and its many ills, and talking about the failure to call a special session of congress and relieve the people by federal dole or work projects.

Mayor Looks to Politics.

While the mayor is looking to politics and the federal government for relief other citizens are trying to find new ways for this great human hive of labor and industry to turn its talents. Detroit, it is argued, needs more diversified industry. The situation is somewhat like that in the cotton states of the south. The drought and the slump in cotton, their only cash crop, have turned millions of southern farmers to seek other means of making a living, and diversification is the order of the day down there.

There is another answer to it all, which is being preached on the streets of Detroit every evening. That is the way of communism. Detroit, having become the paradise for the unemployed, is as hospitable as Hyde Park in London toward permitting any and all to preach the new millennium of state socialism or any other social theory that is in the air. Down by the city hall and in Grand Circus park any evening the social theorists may be found holding forth in many languages. The Daily Worker, organ of the communists in this country, is sold in the streets, and the woes of the miners in Pennsylvania and the Negroes in Alabama are spread forth in the light of soviet philosophy.

Talk but No Leadership.

There is plenty of talk about but little leadership toward the way out. The Ford Motor company colossus, which has overshadowed the city so long, has contented itself with showing graft in the political methods of charity, while many of its employés have appealed to the city for help because of insufficient pay. The Ford company now is said to be employing about 65,000 men on part time work.

The Ford experiment in the back to the land movement may be the way out for some, but Detroit is left with a great burden which industry itself seems unable to solve. And so the city is building additions to the poorhouse and trying to find money to feed 30,000 families. The mayor has vetoed the plan to close the lodging houses for single men, and unless a new and hard boiled administration comes in next fall it looks like a hard winter on the taxpayer.

What Ford Employés Get.

An examination of some of the cases of Ford employés aided by the city shows the following:

A.—Received $600 in wages from Ford from Nov. 7 last year to May 22. He received assistance from the welfare from Jan. 14 to the present and still is on the city rolls. He has been given $149.50 in relief. There are nine persons in his family. An inquiry at Ford's showed that he was employed two or three days a week, and his work was O. K. He was laid off June 2 and now is earning nothing.

B.—Has a wife and three children to support. Received Detroit welfare aid of $103.52. Ford wages during the same period were $729.85, but the city thought $100 a month not enough to support his family.

C—Employed by Ford from Nov. 2 to May 21. He earned $709 during that period. He was on the welfare roll from April, receiving $71. The city supplemented his wages with $7.50 a week. His earnings were not sufficient to support a family of six.

Earnings Drop $30 Month.

D—Was paid $550.30 in wages between Nov. 2 and May 18. During the same period he received welfare aid of $183.90. During December and January his earnings decreased so that the city thought emergency relief was required. The decrease was $30 a month.

E—Earned $579.30 at Ford's in six and one half months. A layoff made city assistance necessary, as no money came in for four weeks.

F—Earned $638 at Ford's between Nov. 6 and May 21. For five weeks, beginning Dec. 20, he received $27.80 in wages. In the same five weeks he received $92.70 in welfare funds. There were nine persons in his family.

Many of the records are in dispute and it is admitted that many of the employés misrepresented their earnings, but it is plain that Ford company wages have failed to solve the problem of living for many families. The Ford welfare workers claim to relieve all distress among their employés, but the employés in many cases have preferred to come to the Detroit plan. The Ford people see in this controversy an effort to arouse a division between industry and the people, between Ford and the voters.

Try to Shift Burden to Ford.

With the prospect of $25,000,000 in welfare and other deficits being carried over to the 1932 budget, and the end of the city's borrowing power near, a plan now is under way to transfer the welfare burden to the county next winter. The county borrowing power is said to be still intact and it is urged that this would put this welfare burden on the shoulders of the Ford company and other large industries which pay little city taxes, but are still in the county jurisdiction.

In the meantime the city is trying to borrow $1,500,000 from the banks and it is reported that they have refused the loan.

Bogan Lays Rising School Costs to "Inflated Money"

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan has written each member of the board of education explaining why the cost of operating the school system jumped 214.36 per cent between 1915 and 1930. The number of pupils increased only 61.5 per cent, according to Mr. Bogan.

He says that "the greater part of the so called increase is due to inflated money," but the detailed reasons are supplied by Don C. Rogers, director of the bureau of research and building survey.

Tells of Inflated Money.

Supt. Bogan says that Director Rogers' statement "brings out the facts very clearly." On "inflated money since the world war" Mr. Rogers says after quoting the federal labor statistics:

"The Chicago dollar in 1930 is worth only 61 cents as compared with the purchasing power of the Chicago dollar of 100 cents in 1915. In other words, the same commodities cost 65 per cent more in 1930 than in 1915. This does not represent a real increase in actual expenditures, yet $22,800,000 of the 1930 school costs can be attributed to this factor alone."

The cost of operating the public schools mounted from $18,549,248 in 1915 to $56,141,992 in 1930.

More Care for Pupils.

In addition to the "inflated money" another reason assigned for the increase is the "expanded cirriculum." On that the school trustees are told:

"Children are being given a physical care undreamed of in former days. Some of the increased school costs can be credited to the following: Dental clinics, open air rooms, school doctor, school nurse, oral hygiene, supervised play, visual education, penny lunchrooms, special classes for the deaf, blind, anemic, crippled, delinquent, subnormal children, truant officers, visiting teachers, psychiatrists, classes for adults, kindergartens, and free textbooks.

"Not all of these activities have been introduced during the last fifteen years, but without exception all of them have either been newly introduced or greatly expanded. In most instances it has not been the school people who have asked for these additional facilities for the children. It has been pressure from the public through parent-teachers' associations and other civic groups which has been largely responsible for these items."

Cites Growth of System.

Another assigned reason is the growth of the school system. It is claimed by the superintendent's office that the additional load has been taken on at the most expensive place, in the high schools, where it is represented that the annual cost per pupil is $150, as contrasted with only $48 per pupil in the elementary schools. The statement says: "Nine persons per 1,000 of city population were enrolled in high school in 1915, while 27 are enrolled in high schools in 1930, an increase of 200 per cent.

Higher teaching standards are given as another reason. On this point the trustees have been told: "It is more difficult now to get a teaching position in the Chicago schools. More and better training is required, successful experience is required, and candidates for positions are accepted only after passing a severe set of written and oral examinations. Better trained teachers means better pay."

Physical Plant Expanded.

Expanded physical plant is still another reason. Between 1915 and 1930 the board has constructed more than 100 new school buildings, according to the superintendent's statement. It goes on: "These schools have required the services of additional principals, engineers, janitors, and others. Their pay and administrative overhead costs have come out of the educational fund and increased the amount of current operating expenditures."

It is also claimed there has been an expansion of the "noninstructional services," but the research director asserts it is not possible to compare the expense of 1930 with 1915 in these services, although the Cleveland Audit company made such a comparison.

The remainder of the statement to the trustees compares the cost of instruction with operation and maintenance of plant, and a citation of the cost of tax anticipation warrants.

SCHOOL BOARD PUSHES PLAN TO PAY WITH SCRIP

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board made considerable progress yesterday in working out its plan to issue scrip, because its treasury is empty and it has been unable to obtain temporary loans.

Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan completed the drafting of the trust agreement. Under this agreement the board will deposit $5,200,000 of 1931 tax anticipation warrants with a trustee and issue against that trust participation certificates to its employés and other creditors who desire them.

Gilbert Named Trustee.

Charles Gilbert, secretary of the board, was designated by President Myers as the trustee. The business manager of the board ordered 75,000 certificates printed by the Columbia Bank Note company, and it is expected they will be delivered Monday. When the blanks are received, certificates will be issued to any who desire them.

"No one will be compelled to accept a certificate," explained President Myers yesterday. "These participation certificates are made available to any who desire and can utilize them."

Teachers to Refuse.

The executive council of the Federation of Women High School Teachers passed a resolution advising all members of the organization to refuse salary scrip. Night letters were sent to all delegates last night instructing them to advise teachers in their schools of the council action.

President Dorothy Weil told the thirty delegates on the council that an attorney retained by the federation had said the scrip was non-negotiable and that acceptance would nullify all salary claims against the board of education.

"Our lawyer advises us that refusal to accept the scrip would in no way violate our salary agreement or injure our salary claim against the board," Miss Weil said.

The 160 teachers of the Tilden High school discussed the participation certificate plan for more than an hour yesterday afternoon. They voted unanimously not to accept the scrip.

The general opinion of the teachers was that if they accepted the certificates the public would get the impression that the teachers had been relieved and it would then take longer to get cash than if the certificates were refused now.

Contractors in Doubt.

Contractors on new school buildings, to whom the board owes about $3,000,000, have not decided what their attitude will be, according to Oscar Rosenthal, president of the contractors' organization.

"Probably no action will be taken by the association," he went on, "because the organization cannot bind its members."

School Attorney Sullivan said that the board would probably decide at its special meeting Monday whether it would pay interest on the certificates.

Irvin A. Wilson, president of the Principals' club, sent a notice to all of its members yesterday, which said in part: "Sound business judgment seems to advocate rejection of the certificates until assured by your banker that he will cash them."

Mr. Wilson said that he had heard of one or two neighborhood banks which have said they would accept certificates from their own customers.

William McFetridge, head of the school janitors' union, announced that he would advise the janitors to accept certificates for two weeks' pay.

James J. Spain of the school engineers' union, who urged the board to issue the participation certificates, said he would advise all the school engineers to take certificates for two weeks' pay as a test.

Illinois Hard Roads May Get Faces Lifted by 'Mud Pack'

Springfield, Ill., June 25.—(AP)—Illinois hard roads may have their faces lifted by the mud pack method, if experiments now being carried out by the state highway department on route 16 near Staunton are successful. The new repair method consists in pumping mud under the concrete slab through holes previously drilled. By forcing the mud under the concrete the engineers hope to eliminate low spots in the road, caused by failure of the road bed to settle evenly.

ASSESSORS FIRE 15 EXPERTS WHO RESIGNED IN BODY

Staff Heads Reject Plea to Remain at Posts.

The fifteen appraisal experts, who resigned yesterday morning from the assessors' office "to preserve their characters from association with the impending reversion to the old order of favoritism in assessments," were fired last night at an executive session of the board of assessors. Sweltering, but happy, the experts trooped out of the office 5 minutes after board members had announced that the resignations, which were to have been effective June 30, were accepted as effective immediately.

J. J. ASHTON. (Tribune Photo.)

The withdrawal of the experts came after earlier effort was being made to collect overdue taxes. Henry M. Ashton, special county tax attorney obtained a judgment against an apartment building and announced that if the taxes were not paid he would ask that a receiver be appointed to collect the rents until the defaulted tax bill had been satisfied.

Urged to Reconsider.

The announcement of the acceptance of the resignations—termed a challenge by the assessors—came after a heated board session at which several of the experts were urged to reconsider. The board challenged the experts to support insinuations, in a statement accompanying the resignations, that the experts had been asked to countenance irregularities.

Benjamin Baltzer, land appraiser, answered that he had been asked to do things which Secretary John E. Conroy "well knew to be in violation of rules of the state tax commission." George W. Cutmore, superintendent of the railroad department and brother of Harry S. Cutmore, chief appraiser, who was fired a week ago, reminded Conroy that the secretary has been boasting that "things were to be run differently" since Cutmore's discharge. Conroy's answer was to tell the experts they might leave immediately.

The 285 pound secretary ran red faced to his office, where he produced a statement, which had been drawn in the morning, announcing acceptance of the resignations. The statement declared some of the experts to be competent and others incompetent and branded the resignations as a conspiracy of "certain interests" to bring the board into disrepute.

"Removes Disloyalty," Claim.

"The resignations of the ringleaders in the clique of technical 'experts' clears the atmosphere of disloyalty and distrust created among the employes of the assessors' office by some of these men and their former superior [Harry S. Cutmore]," the statement read. "In referring to individuals of this type as 'experts' it might be well to recall the late Woodrow Wilson's definition of an 'expert,' which was: 'Any one who is 20 miles from home.'"

Conroy supplemented this statement with: "They're fired. We don't want them around here. We got plenty of men here to fill their places. We'll announce the promotions later."

The resignation of the experts came after a tilt of George Cutmore with the assessors on Wednesday evening. The board called him to task for failure to include on the 1930 assessment $1,200,000 in assessed value of Illinois Central property not used for railroad purposes. The board of review last year refused to include the property on the 1929 assessment roll.

"Fear Buck Passing," View.

George Cutmore answered he had been seeking for two months to confer with the board on the property and had been put off repeatedly. This reprimand by the board was construed by the experts as evidence of hostility of the board and in a meeting they voted to resign, expressing the fear the assessors would pass the buck to them on all controversial matters.

In their statement the experts characterized the discharge of Harry Cutmore as "foolish and false." In working under him they declared, "we had his personal approval of merit and honest work, without fear or favor of anybody. We also had his protection against inside or outside pressure toward favoritism or fix.

"These favorable conditions are changed by Mr. Cutmore's absence from office. We are fully aware, if we attempted to remain, of our utter inability to check the return to the old system. To preserve our character and the good opinion of the public we refuse to be, or become, a part of such a system. We would like to remain in the office for the public good, if we saw any possibility of serving the public, but we see none."

Department Heads Quit.

Department heads among the retiring experts are Walter R. Kuehnle, superintendent of the land department, who is associated actively with the national and local real estate boards; Victor E. Carlson, superintendent of the building department, who has had 15 years of experience in appraisal throughout the country, and George Cutmore, formerly with a national appraisal company and construction companies.

Others, who are members of the land and building departments, with the exception of Chief Statistician Austin E. Moshier, are Sidney Kaufman, F. A. Schepler, J. J. Teis, Ernest Wennerstrom, V. S. Kiskaddon, Milton M. Worsek, George H. Killoren, Harry T. Applegren, Walter A. Daly, John Spolum, and Baltzer.

Kuehnle was reported to have been offered Harry Cutmore's post provided "he went along" with the board. The board had previously announced they would have nothing to do with the appointment of Cutmore's successor and would leave the matter to a citizens' committee, not yet named. Assessors insisted no overture was made to Kuehnle.

"Back to Oliver System."

"The board of assessors is now free to go back to the Oliver system," Harry Cutmore said when he was informed of the experts' resignations. It is now like a chicken with its head cut off."

Assessor Gene Oliver is under sentence for violation of the income tax laws and during his trial the prosecutors charged some of his income was received from property owners who sought a reduction in taxes.

Earlier in the day the assessors conferred with County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, State's Attorney Swanson and County Attorney Hayden Bell on certificates of error. Cutmore, who was not present, suggested that the state's attorney investigate the certificates. The board, it was charged, had usurped Cutmore's direction of the certificates, which are designed to correct errors of fact to prevent invalidation of the assessment in courts on the allegation that a particular assessment is so out of line as to constitute fraud.

The plan of Attorney Ashton to collect taxes in default, another development of the day, may put Cook county in the real estate business on a large scale. The county may operate apartment building and other properties to collect rents to be kept as taxes where forfeitures have been entered against the properties. The plan was disclosed after Judge Jarecki entered judgment agianst the Aquitania building, an apartment structure at 832 Argyle street for $165,683 in taxes and penalties from 1924 to 1927.

Attorney Ashton said he plans to ask that a receiver be appointed to collect the rents for the 83 apartments in the building if the judgment is not met. The building is owned by George K. Spoor, pioneer motion picture producers, whose attorney explained the taxes had not been paid because they were too high. Total taxes against forfeited properties were estimated at between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 by Samuel Harrison.

Judge Jarecki who declared every effort should be made to obtain the money for the properties, which could not be sold at tax sales because of their size and the amounts of the forfeitures.

The assessors turned over the 1930 tax books for five more country towns to the board of review during the day. These with a comparison of 1929 and 1930 assessments are:

	1929.	1930.
Niles	$29,484,816	$30,170,743
Rich	5,319,443	5,513,486
Riverside	9,228,962	9,630,570
Schaumberg	1,558,730	1,527,094
Stickney	11,984,345	12,419,981

OPEN HEARINGS ON PLEA TO MIX ARTIFICIAL GAS

City Request for Delay Is Overruled.

Officials and experts of the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company laid before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday the first of their evidence on the company's plans to mix natural gas, piped from Texas, with the artificial gas being supplied consumers.

The witnesses testified that the mixed gas, with a heating value of 800 British thermal units a cubic foot as compared with the 530 b. t. u. value of the local coke oven product, will be as efficient and satisfactory in every way as the present gas. Although promising no rate reduction for several years, the witnesses predicted an eventual cut should an anticipated boost in sales result.

Reject City's Plea for Delay.

The company's petition asks permission to change the heating value of its gas to 800 b. t. u. preparatory to mixing the gas late this year. Attorneys for the city and the Amalgamated Improvements association are opposing the granting of such an order until the company proves that the consumers will be benefited.

Postponement of the hearing until an inquiry by the city council gas, oil and electricity committee was asked by Assistant Corporation Counsel Frank Breen. The commission denied the plea and assigned the case to Assistant Commissioner Robert H. Farrell. The Commission provided that the witnesses may be recalled and cross-examined later. Meanwhile, Ald. Jacob Arvey [24th], chairman of the council committee, announced that the committee inquiry would be started early next week.

George F. Mitchell, president of the company, who was the first witness, explained the costs of the plan. He said the company will pay 6 cents a 1,000 cubic feet of gas actually taken from the pipe line plus a capacity or rental charge, up to 1935, of $5.53 a month per 1,000 cubic feet of gas taken on the maximum day of the year.

Expect Increased Demand.

On the 1930 basis, he said, the cost of natural gas for mixing purposes would be slightly more than water gas, now used for mixing, and that beginning in 1935 it would be necessary to increase gas sales two and a half times to make natural gas economical. He said the company, however, does anticipate substantial savings as the gas market develops and that such savings will be passed to the public in the form of rate reductions.

Mr. Mitchell once referred to the plan as "a noble experiment."

Woman Accused of Store Credit Fraud Pleads Guilty

Mrs. Helen Clarke, 20 East Delaware place, pleaded guilty yesterday when arraigned before Municipal Judge Francis Borelli on charges of obtaining merchandise on credit by posing as the wife of John L. Cochran, 1422 North State street, a wealthy real estate man. The case was continued until June 29 at the request of Assistant State's Attorney Russell Root pending further investigation into Mrs. Clarke's activities. Mrs. Clarke was arrested Tuesday at the Betty Wales Dress shop, 175 North Michigan avenue, where she was confronted by Mr. Cochran and two detectives as she called for $200 worth of apparel which she had ordered previously and charged to Mr. Cochran.

at 4858 South Wood street and was killed in a fall to the ground.

Benjamin Dick, 46 years old, 2[illegible] West 106th street, believed to have died of heart disease and heat complications.

Clay Spratt, 55 years old, 5414 Barry avenue, a carpenter, who was overcome while working on the construction of an incinerator in Stickney.

Two women died in Lake county, supposedly of heart disease and heat. They were Mrs. Minnie Rudolph, 63 years old, 2313 Gilead avenue, Zion, and Mrs. Elizabeth Devolder, 64 years old, 425 McAllister avenue, Waukegan.

In addition, one Chicagoan and two residents of northern Indiana suffered possibly fatal injuries when they dived in shallow water. Each broke his neck. They are Arthur Archull, 18 years old, 2331 South Sacramento avenue, injured at Belmont avenue beach; Andrew Durat, 22 years old, of Whiting, Ind., and Joseph Ponch, 23 years old, of Hammond.

Open Pools Tomorrow.

The south park commissioners announced that the Jackson park, Calumet, 31st street, and 12th street beaches and fifteen swimming pools will be opened officially tomorrow. The Lincoln park board yesterday opened the Oak street beach and will open the remaining beaches within a few days.

The question of whether women may wear only trunks and brassieres to the beaches as costumes was being considered by Lincoln park police at the request of the commissioners.

Louis Nettelhorst, secretary to the board, said he had received many queries concerning the propriety of such a bathing costume. Capt. James Sammis said he would not rule on the new idea in bathing suits until it had appeared on the beach. A rule of "decency and comfort" would guide him in his decision, he said.

Hot in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—Los Angeles today was engulfed by a heat wave. In the suburbs the mercury touched 100. One death was reported and two others were prostrated. A thunderstorm in the midst of the customary arid season was a rare spectacle in the Pasadena area, and lightning started a brush fire on a mountain side east of Pasadena.

City's First "Eugenic Child" to Be Graduate

William Bode, 17 years old, child of Chicago's first "eugenic marriage," will be graduated today at Austin High school. Young Bode is the son of Police Operator Albertus W. and Mrs. Ruth Palmer Bode, of 5825 Walton street. He has finished his high school course in three and one-half years, and with honors, and will enter Northwestern. The Bodes were wed in 1912. At the time the pastor of their church decreed that no couples would be married by him without medical certificates showing normal health. The Bodes were the first to comply with this ruling.

BRUCKER VETOES BILL TO LEGALIZE 10 DAY OLD CIDER

Lansing, Mich., June 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Wilber M. Brucker today vetoed the Callaghan bill which would have declared cider and other fruit juices legally nonintoxicating and saleable for ten days after their manufacture.

The measure was introduced by Representative Miles Callaghan, Reed City, a dry, and was reported out by the bone dry senate prohibition commission when senators returned last week for sine die adjournment. It was backed by fruit growers of the state to protect them from the state prohibition act, which stipulates that no beverage containing any amount of alcohol shall be sold, bartered, or given away in this state.

A Supreme court decision was returned by Justice W. W. Potter, ordering a new trial in the case of Ralph Hagadorn, of Lanawee county, who was convicted of illegal possession of two pints of moonshine whisky, after a deputy had arrested him because he had "heard he was a bootlegger."

Howard Treat, the deputy, admitted he had no definite ground for belief that Hagadorn was carrying liquor. The growing tendency to make arrests on faint suspicion was condemned. It was declared the trial court should have honored a motion to dismiss, and a new trial was ordered.

Last night a group of officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce were guests of the Theodore Roosevelt's commander on a trip along the lake shore.

Reveal $6,000 Robbery in Belden-Stratford Hotel

It was revealed yesterday that a search was being made for burglars who looted the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Epstein in the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln park West, and escaped with jewelry valued at $3,000 and a fur valued at a like amount. The burglary took place on June 21, but the police report was suppressed. The fur was a Russian sable coat. Mr. Epstein is a real estate dealer.

WEALTHY FATHER YIELDS IN COURT; TO SUPPORT CHILD

Mrs. Wilde's Ex-Husband Agrees to Terms.

Roberts A. Williams, millionaire New York broker, agreed yesterday to pay $3,500 toward the support of his daughter, Margot, 6 years old. He had previously refused to pay, he said, because he found that his former wife, Mrs. Ruth Cowan Williams Wilde, was using part of the payments for the child's support for the purchase of a home for herself and her present husband.

Mr. Williams appeared before Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch on a motion to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt for failure to keep up the payments. Mrs. Wilde married him on Nov. 5, 1928, and three weeks later was married to W. Hudlen Wilde, an advertising man.

Refused to Pay.

Last July, Williams told Judge Lynch, he visited his former wife and their daughter, and Mrs. Wilde told him, he asserted, that part of his payments for the child's support were going toward the purchase of the Wildes' country home at Libertyville. He refused payments then.

Mr. Williams, a director of the Chase National bank of New York, testified that he received a salary of $50,000 a year as vice president and director of the Cannon mills, cotton manufacturers, and that he had an additional income from securities of $20,000 a year.

Drop Contempt Action.

He agreed to pay $3,500 of the $4,500 he was in arrears on the payments for the child's support, and all attorneys' fees.

Attorney Robert E. Canwell Jr., who represented him, and John E. Rolen Jr., for Mrs. Wilde, drew up a plan under which he must pay $200 a month in the future, to be used solely for the support of Margot, and $100 more each month to be deposited with the Chicago Title and Trust company in a trust fund for her use after she is beyond the age. The contempt citation was dismissed.

Court Upholds Alley Cat's Right to Inherit $9,000

Boston, Mass., June 25.—(AP)—Mona, a tabby cat, entered upon a life of ease today, assured of its unquestioned right to the enjoyment of a $10,000 trust fund left by its late owner, Miss Charlotte Sutton. Mona is the last known survivor of three cats which were to have enjoyed the income from the fund. One died, another strayed, and Mona alone remained. Miss Sutton's kin tried to break the will.

DISAPPEARS

SVENDSEN, NOTED ARTIST, MISSING; HUNTED BY POLICE

The Highland Park police yesterday started a search for Svend Svendsen, 70 years old, noted landscape painter, who has been missing from the home of Dr. Karl Meyer at 229 Prospect avenue in that suburb since Wednesday.

Some twenty years ago Svendsen had achieved sufficient fame to have his canvases hung in important galleries in the United States and abroad. Ill health wrecked his prospects and on Nov. 1, 1930, he was found unconscious on the street in Chicago and was taken to the county hospital.

There Dr. Meyer, medical director of the hospital, learned of his career. After the destitute Svendsen was ready for discharge Dr. Meyer offered him a home in a studio building adjoining the Meyer residence. Svendsen wrote a note on Wednesday stating that he was going to the lake to make sketches.

COUPLE TAKE IN BOY DISOWNED BY HIS MOTHER

Runaway Hammond Lad Gets Friendly Home.

In a tiny home in Hammond 5 year old Howard Timmons yesterday found a home where he was welcome. The little boy ran away from his own home Tuesday night and his mother, Mrs. Iona Marie Timmons, 25 years old, refused to take him back.

HOWARD TIMMONS.

"I have no use for him and he has no use for me," the mother said yesterday. "My present husband doesn't like the boy around, and I'd rather have a meal ticket than a burden."

Howard played happily in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Forsythe, 519 Sibley avenue, Hammond. The Forsythes have lost two children and when they heard of the Timmons boy's plight they offered to adopt him.

Surrenders Her Son.

Mrs. Timmons readily surrendered her son to the care of the Forsythes. She expressed relief that her problem had been solved. She said she could not understand why her abandonment of her son should have caused so much comment.

"I was married to Jack Konopa when I was 18 years old," she said. "He divorced me when Howard was 10 months old. Since then the boy has been boarded out most of the time and his life hasn't been very happy. When I was married to Mr. Timmons, Howard came to live with us, but my husband didn't care for the boy. He spanked him frequently. I guess that was why Howard ran away so often."

Found by Policeman.

The child was brought to the Hammond police station Tuesday night by a policeman who found him wandering in the streets.

The child's mother said that numerous letters, telegrams and phone calls had been received by her yesterday morning and the previous evening from couples who wanted to adopt Howard. Among those who called were Rex Leach, 6029 Aberdeen avenue, Chicago, and his wife, Irene. Mrs. Timmons said that Policeman Edward Palmateer and several of his fellow workers on the Hammond force had inquired if the boy was for adoption.

The father was awarded custody of the child, she said. His whereabouts are not known to her. It was said at 4560 Claremont avenue, where he formerly roomed, that he had gone to Milwaukee two months ago.

LEWIS TO REPLY TO HOOVER IN TALK TO EDITORS

Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois will go to Gary tonight to address the annual convention of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association and to reply to the address of President Hoover in Indianapolis last week before the Indiana Republican Editorial association.

The reply of Senator Lewis to the President's address will be the principal event of the three day convention of the Indiana Democratic editors. Also attending the annual banquet tonight will be Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming, and Gov. George White of Ohio.

A trip through the Gary works of Illinois Steel company, the largest steel plant in the world, will be made by the editors this afternoon. Tomorrow afternoon the delegates come to Chicago for a trip through THE TRIBUNE plant and the W-G-N radio station.

Politicians outnumbered editors among early arrivals at Gary. Dick Vernecke, Terre Haute political leader, was busy booming Claude G. Bowers, formerly of Fort Wayne, as Indiana's favorite son candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932.

The probable lineup for the Gubernatorial nomination was swelled to six. Paul V. McNutt, Frank C. Dailey, Indianapolis, the nominee of 1928; Earl Crawford, Milton; Frank Mayr, Jr., South Bend, present secretary of state; Mayor Wood Posey, of Terre Haute, and Frank Martin, of Hammond, Lake county chairman, were discussed.

RUSSIA LABORS HARD TO BECOME MACHINE MINDED

Kremlin at Last Wakes to Its Mistakes.

Wales on W-G-N

Henry Wales, chief of the Paris bureau of THE TRIBUNE, will go on the air for the first time over W-G-N at 8 o'clock tonight. He will give a colorful description of some of his experiences on his recent Russian travels, the stories of which appeared in THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Wales will speak for twenty minutes tonight and for a similar period tomorrow night, also beginning at 8 o'clock.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VLADIVOSTOK, May 21. — [By Mail.]—"Russians are not machine minded and it will take them at least a generation, maybe two generations, to become so."

That was the gist of opinion that I gathered from talking to hundreds of American and German engineers and mechanics, working side by side with Russians everywhere.

"A wheel barrow is a complicated mechanism to the average Russian," one American told me. "Why would it not be? Did you ever see a Russian wheel barrow? Why, they don't even understand how to use a can opener until they have taken lessons. Most of them can't even tell time, and, anyway, they have no watches, so what's the difference."

Tractors Still Novelties.

America, England, Germany, all of the world's industrial nations required long years to train and educate their peoples mechanically. Even animals share in the common advancement. Today in Russia every horse on a state or collective farm shies and tries to run away when he hears or sees a tractor. Cows gallop across the fields and pigs and sheep scamper to safety at the sound of the motor.

But a grave decision awaits the soviet authorities. Are they going to learn the lesson in time, or will they struggle along, seeking to industrialize the nation with domestic labor until it is too late?

"These plants we are building will deteriorate at a rate of more than 20 per cent a year unless they are properly run," an American engineer said. "An idle tractor plant depreciates to worthlessness in about five or six years. That ratio might even be speeded up, if they attempt to run along without proper repairs and replacements, the way they are murdering their railroads."

Kremlin Realizes Plight.

But there are signs that the Kremlin is not blind to realities. There are indications that Stalin and his lieutenants realize that foreign help is required for a while yet, anyway.

More than 200 American expert mechanics were imported a year ago to leaven the native staff at Stalingrad and start production. Most of these Yanks were let go and returned to America early this year when their contracts expired, before it was realized what a catastrophe Russian operation of the factory was.

Now it is announced that 300 Americans will be recruited in the United States immediately and taken to Stalingrad to start things going, to show the Russian workmen that a conveyor is not an amusement like a merry-go-round, but an assembling machine to aid speedy production.

Trusts Chicago Engineers.

Staffs of experts will be recruited to begin work at Saratov and Chelyabinsk when those plants have been completed. After the debacle of Magneto Gorsk through interference with the plans of MacKee of Cleveland, and disregard of recommendations by American engineers, the Kremlin has entrusted its development at Kuznetsk to the Freyn Engineering company of Chicago.

Decrees have gone out from Moscow that advice of foreign engineers must be followed, and that no independent action must be taken by Russians without approval of the imported specialists assigned to superintend their activities.

Heretofore the efforts of American advisors have been largely nullified by the obstinacy and stubbornness of their Russian colleagues on the engineering staffs of the different projects. Recommendations made by the experts were consistently and persistently ignored, or specifications and plans altered with objectionable and impractical alterations and changes incorporated.

Alter Engineers' Plans.

"I firmly believe American engineers were brought in merely as propaganda," one Detroit specialist told me. "When the government announced the 5 year plan it promised the people the best industrialization of the country that money and brains would produce. It sent missions abroad to study manufacturing conditions everywhere, and finally decided to adopt American methods as the most efficient and the most suitable for this country. This fact was advertised all over the soviet union by literature, propaganda, wireless broadcasting, motion pictures and in every conceivable way.

"Now that they have brought us over here and the Russian people know we are here, the government can assure them that it is carrying out its pledge to Americanize industry and to create it on American standards. The workmen see us here in the plants, know that we drafted all blue prints, and believe that the units are working on American ideas.

MARCELINE DAY.

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Ireine Day, mother of Marceline Day, film actress, today confirmed reports her daughter was married secretly for the second time to Arthur J. Klein, New York furrier. Mrs. Day said the first ceremony occurred some time ago in Mexico. The second took place in New York several weeks ago, when the couple began to doubt the legality of the Mexican ceremony. Miss Day, who has been on location, is expected to return tomorrow. Klein is reported motoring here from New York.

MOTHER DENIES EX-HUSBAND IS FATHER OF CHILD

Tells Court Boy Is Son of Former Roomer.

Mrs. Catherine Crabtree Meindl, 4108 Irving Park boulevard, sought a court order yesterday to declare that her young son, born during a previous marriage, is not the child of her former husband. Her petition aims at recovering custody of the child from the former husband.

Last September she filed a divorce bill, charging cruelty, against Fred Crabtree, 915 Oakdale avenue. He brought a cross suit, charging adultery, but that charge was dismissed by agreement and Crabtree got a decree in December on grounds of cruelty. Ten minutes after the decree was signed Mrs. Crabtree married Frank Meindl, who had been a roomer in her home.

Seek Custody of Child.

Crabtree, under the divorce decree, got sole custody of the six children. Yesterday Attorney Harry X. Cole filed a petition on behalf of the mother before Circuit Judge George Fred Rush asserting that Meindl, and not Crabtree, is the father of Edward Mortimer Crabtree, 2 years old, youngest of the children.

Mrs. Meindl asked custody of the boy and an order permitting her to visit the other five children.

Crabtree contends that he is the father of Edward, offering as evidence the fact that both he and the boy are left handed. Attorney Cole asked that the blood types of the three adults and the child be determined, asserting that such tests would give a scientific basis for determining parenthood. The action was continued for a week.

Another mother went into court yesterday, offering to submit to similar blood tests to prove the legitimacy of her son, also 2 years old. She is Mrs. Lena Matarrese, 26 years old, 2605 North Hamlin avenue.

Felix Matarrese, 36 years old, 1320 South Avers avenue, has a bill for divorce pending against her, charging adultery. He also has a suit for $50,000 for alienation of affections against his former family physician, Dr. Attilio Monaco, 1000 South Paulina street, asserting that the physician is the father of Mrs. Matarrese's son, Carl.

Mrs. Matarrese denied the charge yesterday before Judge John J. Sullivan in the superior court and offered to undergo blood tests or any other scientific examination which would establish the parenthood of the child. Judge Sullivan continued the case to July 10 after awarding her $15 a week temporary alimony.

SCORCHING DAY POINTS NEED OF FREE ICE FUND

Mother Appeals as Baby's Milk Turns Sour.

Yesterday was a scorcher. Yesterday was the kind of a day when blank starry descends on the McT—— family and their thousands of competitors in distress. The kind of a day that moved Mrs. McT—— to write a note, which reached Tribune office last night, in the hope of getting relief for the sake of the helpless youngsters who cannot defend themselves against the onslaughts of the weather.

"I am Mrs. McT——," read the letter, "I am writing you to see if you will let me have some free ice tickets. My husband did not work for eight months. I have three small children, one of them sick, and I can't buy anything. When I get a ton of anything it now goes bad on me. The little baby's milk was sour the last two days. I asked an ice man for some ice, but he would not give me any without pay. Please could you help me this time? I will thank you very much. Mrs. Mary McT——."

One of Many Appeals.

Investigation could hardly present a more vivid conception of the plight of the McT——s than is contained in the distressed plea. Not once, but almost every day its counterpart comes to the correspondence for the Tribune's Free Ice and the Camp Algonquin funds. Every day brings a batch of appeals, either that one of the fleet of free ice trucks be sent to a hot, cool tenement family relief to the whirlpool of the depression or that the eagerly desired entrance into camp may be secured for some overworked, sickly mother and her ailing ones.

To date the usual contributions for the free ice fund have been coming a trifle slowly than of old. Days like yesterday are bound to bring home to the general public, however, the relief dispensed through this fund and it is to be hoped that contributions to help out the hundreds of the McT——s and their babies will be forthcoming before long. Right now is when the need is great, although it will be greater if the heat continues without interruption for several days.

How Children Give Ice.

Many more youngsters reported yesterday with the proceeds of a lemonade stand they conducted for the benefit of the free ice fund. Their names and other donations were:

LAKE VESSELS TO BEGIN SUMMER EXCURSION TRIPS

Summer excursions on lake steamships will be inaugurated today and tomorrow, beginning a season which, it is predicted, will see more than a million passengers.

Today the steamer Manitou of the Ludington Transit corporation, will sail from Navy pier to resort points from Chicago to Mackinac. Thereafter the Manitou and its sister ship, the Chippewa, will begin their regular sailings, Sundays excepted, to ports on the Michigan shore.

At 5 o'clock tomorrow, ships of the Goodrich Steamship lines, will sail from Navy pier for St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, and South Haven. Five vessels, the Grand Rapids, Alabama, Benton Harbor, Saugatuck, and Holland, will handle excursion traffic this season. Frank Robbins, passenger traffic manager of the Goodrich lines, said reservations point to increasing the travel.

Loses $9 on Stolen Auto Tag, but Now He's Out $35

Ben Spitz, 21 years old, 4522 Thomas street, thought he saved $9 when he purchased a city vehicle tax tag, paying $10, from a stranger for $1. The tag was stolen, police told Judge Joseph L. Fairbank yesterday. He fined Spitz $35 and ordered him to buy another tag at full price from the city.

MAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of joy. They can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get to the cause. The reason for your down and out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels and poisons up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in pimples. Your head aches and you feel sick and sour. Your whole system is poisoned.

Just take a spoonful of good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bowel moving freely and make you feel like a new person. They contain only gentle vegetable extracts, so mild and harmless in action when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name on the red label. Little Liver Pills are sold by druggists everywhere. Refuse substitutes.

POPE MAINTAINS COMPLAINTS IN FACE OF APOLOGY

Declare Holy See Not Mollified.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 25.—Italy's note to the Vatican yesterday, throwing oil on the troubled religious waters, has failed to mollify the pontiff and the holy see maintains in full its complaints and its demands for satisfaction which have been repeatedly made.

The Vatican's viewpoint on yesterday's Italian note is substantially as follows, and this point of view will likely be embodied in a further note.

Apology Not Sufficient.

The Vatican does not consider sufficient what the government calls the "implicit deploration" of violent incidents, because of the gravity of the incidents and because they were in contradiction to article nine of the Lateran pact, which is now a state law, and because in a totalitarian régime such as the Fascist régime it is inconceivable that the state may remain indifferent to such public disorders as those which took place in the last week of May.

As regards mention of the Jugo-Slav bishops, the Vatican holds that there is no parallel between the two cases because among other things the pope is not obliged by any treaty to protect the Italian state, while the Italian government is held by the Lateran treaty to protect the person of the pope as it protects the person of the king.

Action Not Seditious.

Concerning the fact that the Catholic associations have held meetings in extraterritorial palaces, the Vatican holds that the Italian government should recognize in this fact the highest guarantee that in their activities there was nothing which in any way possible could be interpreted as seditious against the Italian state.

The Vatican stands adamant on its demands that the Fascist government produce proof that the Catholic associations were indulging in anti-Fascist activities. The holy see, it is pointed out, has repeatedly asked that documents be communicated to it which are asserted to have been found as evidence that the youth associations were fomenting trouble against the government. If such documents should be found correct, the holy see would not hesitate to take the most severe measures against those who may have been guilty of violating its precise orders and instructions, it was said.

Information Declared False.

As regards statements attributed to Sig. Criaci, president of Catholic Action, the holy see holds that the Italian government must have been deceived by false and unreliable information. The freedom restored to the youth associations exclusively religious in character in the Vatican's eyes cannot be considered even as a partial remedy for the closing of such associations, because, on account of their religious character, they should not have been included in the original order of suppression; and if they were suppressed, this was due to an incorrect interpretation of that order.

The holy see holds that it is incorrect to say that the question under discussion is strictly bilateral between Italy and the Vatican, as that question involves questions of principle and of general and spiritual character, and also because, as is known, the Catholic Action society, as an organ of lay participation in the hierarchic apostolate of the church, exists in the whole world, and it is therefore more than natural that Catholics from all over the world should take interest in what has happened to it in Italy.

The holy see is not against the proposal to study article 43 of the concordat, as suggested by the Italian note, for the purpose of finding an amicable solution, but at the same time the holy see maintains in full its complaints.

Girl Awarded $30,000 for Loss of Eye in Auto Crash

On April 27, 1930, Lorraine Hawkins, 11 years old, 336 West 102d street, lost the sight of her left eye in an automobile accident. Yesterday a jury before Judge Walter T. Stanton of the Superior court, returned a verdict awarding her $30,000 damages. Damages of $50,000 had been asked. The judgment was against Edgar McClun, 25 years old, associated with his father, John McClun, in the real estate business at 217 West 63d street. Attorney John D. Ryan represented Lorraine, and John A. Bloomingston, McClun.

WANTS FORTS KEPT

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Preservation of old frontier forts about to be abandoned by the army as an economy measure was proposed by Mrs. George A. Custer today on the fifty-fifth anniversary of the death of her husband, the famous Gen. Custer, at the hands of the Indians in the battle of Little Big Horn in Montana.

"It does seem," she said, "as if some of the old forts should be saved. We ought not to allow every vestige of that period to die. We should preserve what history we have."

It was at Fort Abraham Lincoln, at Bismarck, N. D., that Mrs. Custer waited while Gen. Custer and his regiment were making their fight, and there it was, three weeks following the massacre, that a slow steamboat brought the news up the river.

Mrs. Custer is often pointed out by Park avenue (she resides on that street) pedestrians as "that pretty old lady." She is engaged on a volume of reminiscences of the civil war.

STATE DECLINES TO TAKE 177 BOY WARDS OF COUNTY

Rodney H. Brandon, state superintendent of public welfare, yesterday advised Judge Mary Bartelme of the Juvenile court that the state is in no position to take over the care of 177 boys to be released from two institutions here next Wednesday. The boys are "border line cases," now wards of the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys and the Oaks, both of which have been closed by the county commissioners because of lack of funds.

The conference between the two, however, resulted in a plan for the care of the boys which met with the approval of Judge Bartelme. Various social service agencies contracted to find free homes for a number of the wards, and to find other homes in which they would be cared for at a nominal rate to be paid by the county.

Meanwhile the top floor of the Old Town club at Newberry avenue and Roosevelt road has been placed at Judge Bartelme's disposal by the Chicago Boys' club. Furnishings have been provided by the Junior league, and if $1,000 can be raised the place will care for the homeless boys during the summer, the judge said last night.

COUNCIL RELIEF GROUP REQUESTS HIRED SECRETARY

The special city council committee on unemployment held its first meeting yesterday, and as its first official act asked Mayor Cermak to provide it with a salaried secretary.

The duties of the secretary, Ald. James B. Waller [43d], chairman of the committee, said, would be to keep in touch with various organized charities.

Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities, and representatives of other organized charities attended the meeting. Hunter suggested that the committee take as its task the relief of single, homeless and jobless persons. Organized charities are providing for families hit by the job shortage, he said.

Hunter also suggested that any call for a special session of the legislature should provide for legislation for unemployment relief next winter. Federal statistics showed 369,000 unemployed in Chicago in January, he said, and he expressed doubt that the number has decreased since.

SPAIN PUTS DOWN ONE PLOT; HOT ON TRAIL OF ANOTHER

New Republic in Galicia Goes Up in Smoke.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, June 25.—Up in the northwest corner of Spain a new nation, the Galician republic, aspiring to the dignity of a federal state, was born today, and then quite gently died three hours later.

And down here in Madrid, government sleuths distinguished themselves by running down a plot of three of the recent king's most terrible generals and their desperate new friends, the bolsheviks, to twist the neck of the young Spanish democracy.

Bells Ring—Revolt Is On.

The Galicians, who are Celts—that is, dreamers, toilers and smart lawyers—had their ambition mostly in the form of literature for some time, but when the provisional government, in the interest of economy, stopped work on the new railroad up there, they took action.

At Orensee, the town which benefited most from the railroad in question, a little group of plotters rang bells and blew sirens before dawn this morning, proclaiming the Galician republic. With Catalonia, they demanded self-determination in the federal frame.

The governor failed to recognize the proclamation of the new republic, but got Miguel Maura, minister of the interior, on the phone and called the civil guard. Three hours later the new republic dissolved into thin air.

Three Generals Shadowed.

In Madrid tonight Alfonso's three favorite generals—Barrera, once the great Mandarin of this country; Cavalcanti, former chief of the king's military household; and Dea Pujola, former governor of Barcelona—are being closely shadowed. Known chiefs of the two left extremist groups, the communists and syndicates, are also being shadowed.

Alleged proof of the existence of a conspiracy between them to spring a coup d' etat Friday night, and if that is unsuccessful at least to drown the republic in turmoil, was bared to Minister Maura today.

Not willing to believe the association of such an odd lot in such a daring conspiracy, Maura refused to arrest any of the alleged principals, but is having them closely watched.

Election Drive Pallid.

With these goings on, the hullabaloo of campaigning for Sunday's elections for the constituent cortes to consolidate the republic is pallid business to the average Spaniard, after conspiracies, alarms and revolution. With no great menace lurking in the ballot boxes for either the new regime or the provisional government and its programs, interest in the elections is already that of a party struggle and personal ambition.

Except for Catalonia. Catalonia, this correspondent finds after four days there, on the eve of the elections, is prepared to demand a degree of sovereignty within the federal relation to the rest of Spain that will give the constituent cortes its greatest battle and the republic its greatest trial.

The Catalonian experts have prepared the Catalonian constitution and are keeping it dark until they are sure that Sunday's elections will confirm the dominance of old Col. Francisco Macia. This correspondent gleans from conversation with them that, without being separatist, the constitution provides for a degree of self-government heretofore only dreamed of on the other side of the Ebro.

Pair Identified as Hotel Robbers Held to Jury

Two robbers, identified as the bandits who held up numerous south side hotels, were held to the grand jury on three charges of robbery by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in felony court yesterday. The prisoners are Joseph La Rue, 26 years old, 4069 Kenmore avenue, and Frank Whyte, 27 years old, 1612 Prairie avenue. Clerks at the Hyde Park, Ritz, and Riviera hotels identified them as robbers.

WHAT TEN-WORD SENTENCE CAN YOU MAKE USING ONLY THE WORDS IN TODAY'S ADS?

$1000 IN CASH PRIZES

"GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS"

What Is a Good Time Charliegram?

A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice: "Every time you buy something you help bring back prosperity." "The time to stock up is when prices are low." "Large savings can be made on nearly everything bought today." "When business starts humming prices are bound to rise again." Do you think you can make up a better Good Time Charliegram than any of these?—using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune? Try your hand at it! Read the simple rules and start looking for your words now!

WHAT sentence of exactly ten words can you make up, using only the words appearing in advertisements in today's Chicago Tribune?

This is your last week to try for the $1,000.00 in cash prizes which the Tribune will pay for the best original Good Time Charliegrams. All you have to do is select ten words from any ads in today's Tribune except the Want Ads. Put them all together and the resulting sentence may win for you one of the big cash prizes.

Try it! It's a fascinating game—just like a treasure hunt. Read the simple rules and start looking through the ads now!

THE SIMPLE RULES:

1. The Chicago Tribune will pay $1,000.00 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the best and neatest complete sets of seven (7) original Good Time Charliegrams in accordance with these rules.

2. A Good Time Charliegram is a sentence of exactly ten words which conveys a timely message of good cheer or sound advice. The sentence must be made up of words taken from advertisements EXCEPT Classified or Want Ads, published in a single day's issue of the Chicago Tribune. To indicate where you get each word, simply write down the name of the advertiser following the word. Words are NOT to be taken from the Want Ads.

3. Not more than one word shall be taken from the advertising of any one store, company, or individual. If an advertiser has more than one advertisement in the same issue of the Tribune, only one word from such advertisements may be used in the same Good Time Charliegram. The same word may be used more than once, provided that it is taken from a different advertiser every time it is used.

4. The prizes are as follows:

1st Prize			$250.00
2nd Prize			100.00
Next 2 Prizes	$50.00	each	100.00
Next 4 Prizes	$25.00	each	100.00
Next 25 Prizes	$10.00	each	250.00
Next 40 Prizes	$ 5.00	each	200.00
73 prizes totaling			$1,000.00

5. This offer is open to every one—men and women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

6. Good Time Charliegrams are to be submitted in complete sets only. DO NOT send in each day's entry separately. Hold all Good Time Charliegrams until you have the complete set of seven (7). Then send them to "GOOD TIME CHARLIEGRAMS," the Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Ill. All entries in the Fifth Series must be received in the Tribune office before P. M. on Wednesday, July 1, 1931.

7. Contestants may submit as many sets of Good Time Charliegrams as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize.

8. You need NOT buy the Chicago Tribune. You may see the issue that is supplied each day in the Tribune or you may submit your entry, on a separate sheet of paper. The Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at public libraries free of charge.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

UNCLE SAM, ALMONER AT LARGE.

France suspects that if the unconditional and undeferable payments by Germany under the Young plan are suspended in accord with President Hoover's suggestion they will not be resumed, and that the scheme of war compensations will be permanently done for. With greater cause and more suspicion the United States may consider the probability of the disappearance of its debtors.

Of the greater powers involved in the suspension of payments the United States and France alone stand to lose large sums in calling everything off for a year. According to American treasury estimates given out this week the United States would sacrifice, in the next fiscal year's revenue, $246,000,000, and France $84,750,000. Great Britain, exclusive of domestic arrangements made with its dominions, would have less than $20,000,000 of revenue at stake. France proposes to suspend, of the German payments, virtually what would be passed on to the United States. Out of this picture the United States emerges as the only nation making a monetary concession to the relief of Europe, in addition to compromising its claim for any repayment of the billions involved in the Mellon settlement of debts, war and post-war, owed by nearly every country large and small in Europe. The American cancellationists and the European debtors have never before had such an opening for their work as they will have when the year of suspension nears its end and the unpleasant duty of resumption confronts every country owing money.

To American cancellationists the debts to the American government and therefore to the American taxpayer represent two things, a sentimental offense to a charity which begins abroad for merit to be achieved there and an interference with the security of other billions of private capital placed abroad by international bankers. The conclusion is unescapable that, however the facts are arranged or the probabilities weighed, the American taxpayer makes the only contribution with which the scheme will start and will be found alone holding the bag when it has served its purpose.

There is, throughout the proposals, no intimation that there is any other remedy which can be used for the relief of prostrate Germany. It appears to be either American sacrifice or nothing. This is palpably untrue. The trouble with Germany is the treaty of Versailles and the secondary treaties completing its work with other nations. It is not true, as is assumed in the pending proposal, that the disaster is caused by the collection by the United States of sums given European countries, much of this after the war, to get them out of just such a predicament as they now again find themselves in. The post-war loans of the United States to collapsed European countries, from France to Greece, are incredible and inexplicable when they are observed ten and more years after this unprecedented scattering of largess to winner and loser alike.

The victor nations which stripped Germany and Austria to the bone to make the recovery of central Europe as painful and slow as possible have not, as instance of good faith, made a single offer of restitution from their own spoils. The French are still in the mineral fields of the Saar. Italy is up in the Austrian Alps. Hungary is oppressed by rapacious neighbors. The Danzig corridor runs as a hostile strip between East Prussia and the German republic. The German colonies in Africa have been divided among its conquerors. Its islands in the Pacific are possessed by Australia, New Zealand, and Japan.

France, Great Britain, and Italy have added African real estate to their holdings. They have pushed out their boundaries and are engaged in administrating and exploiting subject peoples and properties which came to them after a great American army had stopped the German drive on Paris. Not only is there nothing said of the disruption of central Europe, the intentional binding and gagging of it, nothing of the colonial areas taken as profit, but there is no suggestion of quid pro quo when America is to make another surrender of its claims to alleged European necessities. The debtors of the United States hold possessions in American waters. There is no proposal to lay them on the table for negotiation.

There is no visible sacrifice which any nation but the United States proposes to make. The other nations willingly drop all responsibility again at the American door. Their statesmanship contrived a war they couldn't end. It made a peace which could not be lived. They brought the United States in to end the war. They made a peace it could not accept. They borrowed money for the war and money for the peace. Militarily, socially, financially, industrially, and politically they have confessed themselves bankrupt, in most of these factors three times confessed.

What would a sensible creditor do when this poverty was laid at his door? He would ask the debtors first to bring him their assets and permit an arrangement which aimed at solvency. Then he could make the concessions needed for recovery. The United States was not too proud to fight. It is too soft to negotiate.

MR. FORD ON FIVE YEAR PLANNING.

Mr. Henry Ford was speaking with his own experience and observation as his guides when he discussed the proposals for a national five year plan for this country.

He said: "When you stabilise anything you are likely to stabilize all the wrongs as well as all the rights. When you have a five year plan you may shut the door to the biggest thing that may happen during those five years. A free nation of business men can carry on better than any small group of national overseers."

Mr. Ford must have been thinking somewhat as follows: Suppose that in the year 1905 a five year plan had been adopted for this country. Elaborate provision would have been made for the production of such commodities as Welsbach burners and bicycles. The revolutions in industry wrought by the automobile and electric light and power would have been held back. It was the unhampered and undirected initiative of manufacturers which accounts in large measure for the improvement in living conditions which we enjoy today. It is altogether probable that had this country's industries been held in a straitjacket from 1905 to 1910 the automobile industry in this country would have suffered such a check that the manufacturers of other countries, notably France, would have won a permanent leadership in the automotive industry. Much of the technological progress of subsequent years would have been lost, because it was the American automobile industry which in many respects led the world in industrial engineering. And it is upon that progress that higher standards of living are predicated.

If customs, desires, and habits were stationary a rigid five year plan might be regarded as a useful expedient. But they do not remain fixed and they should not remain fixed if it is our aim to minimise poverty, minimize cruel labor, increase leisure, and give individuals a maximum of opportunity to follow their own desires. If we had waited for a planning board to discover that the automobile is preferable to the horse and buggy or the bicycle we might still be waiting, for the automobile in its infancy was no faster and considerably less reliable than its rivals. The automobile manufacturers, working without a master plan to hamper them, succeeded in doing two things: they made astonishing strides in perfecting their mechanism and no less astonishing strides in creating a demand for their product. No planning board of twenty-five years ago which had not included the little known mechanic, H. Ford, would have imagined either to be possible.

There is no slightest reason to suspect that we have reached the apex of mechanical progress. The far greater probability is that in the next decade we shall see more striking technological advances than in any previous decade. It is a human failing to view the world as if it were static, frozen into its present form, whatever the present form may be. No doubt the caveman thought that stone axes would be man's most precious tool till the end of time. He was no more deluded, in all probability, than the vast majority of mankind today. To the extent that propaganda for an American national plan is founded upon that delusion, the propaganda is a positive threat to American material prosperity. And no one is in a better position to prove it than Henry Ford.

CHICAGO'S ROBBER BARONS.

The campaign of the Chicago Motor club against unreasonable arrests for speed violations in the country towns around Chicago is in the interest of the business community of Chicago and as such merits the coöperation of the state's attorney.

At considerable expense, the roads in the Chicago region have been widened to permit driving at higher speeds than were formerly safe. Forty-five miles an hour on the wider roads is less dangerous than thirty miles an hour was on the narrow ones. Nevertheless, the motorcycle police and the justices of the outlying villages are continuing to arrest and fine motorists bound for Chicago for driving at speeds which under changed conditions are altogether reasonable.

It is not as if the victims were driving through settled regions at excessive speeds; the arrests complained of take place in the open country which by legal fiction happens to be under the jurisdiction of some incorporated village. In this way the already heavily taxed motorist is obliged to pay a further tribute. At best he is taxed to support a community to which he owes nothing; at worst, and far more commonly, he is taxed for the benefit of a corrupt policeman and magistrate.

To find a parallel it is necessary to go back to the days of the medieval robber barons who built their strongholds athwart some well traveled road and levied tribute upon the merchant and traveler. Chicago is the goal of thousands of motorists, many of whom are on their way to the city to make substantial purchases from our business houses. The robber barons exact a tribute which reduces by so much the purchasing power of the visitors and at the same time discourages future visits to this market.

BOYS OF HAVERHILL.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Boy Scouts of Haverhill, Mass., will no longer receive merit badges for marksmanship. The scout council has voted that the handling of firearms is dangerous and should not be encouraged. That there is some reason for the judgment cannot be denied. A boy improperly instructed in the use of a gun or without instruction at all had better not have one. On the other hand, it would seem that a careful scoutmaster should be an ideal instructor in the care and use of guns. Be that as it may, the Haverhill fathers have taken action, and that action closes the door on many an hour of fun and sport that American boyhood has long enjoyed. Watching for a covey of quail, lying low in a boat among the reeds waiting for those canvasbacks to come nearer, slipping through the woods scanning the branches for elusive squirrels—all such excursions come under the ban. Ironically enough, the seat of the decree is the birthplace of the new England poet, Whittier, whose "Snowbound" suggests bundled boys tramping whitened hills with shotguns ready for the first sight of a rabbit. The boys of Haverhill are going to miss something.

TRACHOMA.

DR. PARK LEWIS contributes a valuable review of a French book on trachoma to the Sightsaving Review.

The disease has an incubation period of seven to ten days. The earliest symptoms are: Moderate dread of light, feeling as of some foreign body in the eye, and excessive flow of tears. If there is swelling of the lids, gumming of the edges, mucus or pus discharge, pain, there is an infection with some other disease on top of the trachoma. The almost typical granulations do not appear for some time after these first symptoms and turning in of the lids comes months, or years, later still.

It is a contagious malady, founded on lack of cleanliness, neglect of individual and collective hygiene, the common use of toilet articles, and failure to disinfect the hands by frequent washing. Promiscuity favors its spread because individuals are brought more closely in contact.

It is especially prevalent among people who spend most of their time indoors, among soldiers in barracks, and among workmen who are housed in camps. In the countries where the disease is most prevalent children are very likely to be found infected when they reach school age. The home is more liable than the school to spread the disease. When a child is found infected examination of the other members of the family will show some of them also infected.

The disease can usually be cured. Taken early, cure is not difficult. Taken late, years of treatment are required and the results are generally imperfect. Prevention is more profitable than cure. Wherever serious, sustained efforts have been made results have followed.

These Frenchmen say it is a very old disease. It was known to the Greeks. Herodotus says it influenced the Thermopylæ campaign five hundred years B. C. Hippocrates wrote about it. The apostle Paul had it as one of his rare assortment of maladies. [This may not be welcome news to up and coming equal suffrage ladies.] Of the army that Napoleon took into Egypt two-thirds developed trachoma.

The other European troops in these Napoleonic wars suffered more from it than did the French—Great Britain worst of all. In one British regiment 636 of the 700 soldiers developed trachoma. The knights returning from the crusades sowed it all over Europe. Howard says in China it causes greater economic loss than flood and famine combined. In Japan 91 per cent of the inhabitants are trachomatous.

For us all this means that we should be of good cheer. A disease that has been so devastating and is now comparatively so unimportant need not be beyond us.

MAY RETAIN EXTRA POUNDS.

Miss L. writes: Since undergoing a major operation about six months ago I have gained ten pounds. What is the cause of this? Will it be possible to keep it? How soon will it disappear?

REPLY.

My guess is that the operation was an ovariotomy. It may have been removal of the thyroid. If either guess is right the increase in weight was to have been expected. Another guess is that your excess weight will be a permanent quality. About the only out is the celestial route.

THERE ARE THREE KINDS.

W. H. M. writes: Please tell me about Paget's disease. In the case in mind it started with pain and stiffness in the hips and lower back, mostly at night.

Does it affect the heart, stomach, or brain?

REPLY.

There are three diseases bearing Paget's name. The one you have in mind is a deforming inflammation of the bones. It is chronic and progressive and does not have much tendency to destroy life. It does wear down and exhaust. Properly speaking, it does not affect the internal organs.

TRAINING WILL OVERCOME IT.

M. L. K. writes: Whenever I see some one fainting I get very weak and think I am also dropping. How can I overcome this feeling?

REPLY.

The tendency is psychic. It can be overcome by training. Instead of avoiding scenes of the character indicated seek them out. Join a first aid class and later a first aid team.

CLAIM AGAINST BANK.

Chicago, June 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a few hundred dollars in a state bank, drawing 3 per cent interest, and also some money invested in gold bonds receiving 6 per cent interest. About one month ago the bank closed. 1. Will I receive my money and bonds? 2. What would you suggest my doing? M. K.

1. Presumably, you will receive a dividend as a depositor and will get your bonds back in full, but you will have to wait. 2. Get in touch with the receiver and make sure that he has proper record of your claim.

EXAM FOR RATE TAKER.

Chicago, June 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to have some advice on how to become a water meter reader in this city. When are the next examinations to be held for this job?

G. W.

At this writing no examination is scheduled for the position of rate taker, but we have placed this name on our mailing list for notification of the next one called.

J. S. OSBORNE, Secretary,
Chicago Civil Service Commission.

BOND INVESTOR.

Chicago, June 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a $1,000 first mortgage gold bond on a two story apartment house, covering two lots. The house has $40,000 mortgages on it. I bought this through a bank two months ago, the president of the bank being the trustee. Is the $1,000 bond a good investment and should the bank fail could I sell the bond for what I paid for it? Regardless of the condition of the bank, can I collect the interest at times specified in the bond? E. G.

The failure of the bank has no necessary connection with your action upon the bonds. You should continue to look to the maker whose name is signed to the bonds and to the pledged security. This should have been your principal reliance from the first.

UNCLE ANDY IN PARIS.

"And now Mr. Mellon, through in England, is extending his 'holiday' to France."—Chicago Evening Post.

M. BRIAND—Ah, bonjour, Monsieur Mellon, comment vous portez-vous?

UNCLE ANDY (peeks into How to Speak French in Ten Minutes)—C'est celle de ma tante.

M. BRIAND—Oui, oui. Fumez-vous des cigares?

UNCLE ANDY—Est-ce que cette fourchette est à votre cousin?

M. BRIAND—Oui, oui.

M. BRIAND—Oui, oui.

UNCLE ANDY—Notre oncle a acheté une maison et un jardin. Pourquoi n'avez vous pas écrit a votre frère? Mon frère a de belles dents.

M. BRIAND—Oui, oui.

UNCLE ANDY—La pomme n'est pas mûre. Arrêtez, cocher, je veux descendre. Quel âge a votre jardinier?

M. BRIAND—Pardon, Monsieur Mellon. But do you speak English?

M. BRIAND—That's bully! Now, let's get down to business.

SONNET OF SUPERFICIAL SORROW.

My love, be kind; be surly for a while;
Reverse your temper; spurn me, work me wrong.
If you had less of good and more of guile
It would be vastly better for my song.
O turn again, and cast me into seas
Of certain dolor and uncertain hintings;
How shall my heart unbroken vie with these
That break anew in thirty-seven printings?
Too faithfully your pledges have been kept;
My lyrics and my levity do show it;
I have laughed often and not often wept,
And have not tears enough to be a poet.
When we were wed you vowed to make me love it;
I do, too well; and that's the mischief of it.

DOROTHY KISSLING.

WHOOPEE! One good swig of moratorium stuff and look what it did to the stock market. It jumped straight up in the air yesterday, cracked its heels together, and yelled, "Where's that darned low now?" And today the dinged old market may go on a regular moratorium jag and our pet stock go soaring upward. And, gosh, how we dread it.

AND EVERYBODY has his own opinion on why the Saturday Evening Post is going to issue on Tuesday instead of Thursday, but we're still busy trying to figure out why the Saturday Evening Post does not issue on Saturday evening. Unless it's because we're all in the tub on Saturday evening.

A SEA CHANGE.

The British sailors are bombarding parliament not to change the old traditional "stabberd" and "port" to the conventional terms "right" and "left." Can you imagine the mate on a British tramp who now yells "Stabberd yer hellum, you landlubberly son of a chimney sweep; stabberd yer hellum before I cut your silly throat from ear to ear and feed yer blooming innerds to the sea gulls!" saying instead, "Kindly put your helm to the right, steersman, to the right, not the left; the right, please. Thank you!"

AGRICULTURAL REPORT.

R. H. L.: "Yes, I sat up till 9:30, honest-to-goodness time, listening to the President's Indianapolis speech," said my farmer friend, "and then I boiled it down. As near as I can make out, what he meant to say was that he has a hunch the worst of the depression is over, or, if not, it's yet to come. Anyhow, he advises us to follow the illustrious examples of G. Washington, Robinson Crusoe, and Mother Hubbard, and stand pat. He has great faith in the American people who elected him, and hopes they feel the same way about him. We muddled into the hard times and he thinks we'll muddle out of them somehow or other.

"Which is all right, I reckon, as far as it goes," the farmer went on, "but some of us fellows who trade at Brinkerhoff's chainless, direct drive, cash-if-you-can store down at Five Points got together the other evening and thought up a few addendums to his address. For instance, us farmers should cut down our output and increase our intake, if we can. So should manufacturers. So should everybody else. Industries should diversify, and stop making things people don't want and don't need, and sending out high-powered salesmen to make them buy. All such salesmen should be sent to China and Africa to convert the heathen into customers.

"Then there's this here installment business. Young Silas Cook, who married, rented a farm and set up last year, bought everything he's got on installments, including the baby. And now he's about to lose all, except the baby, his doctor being an old bachelor. Those bolsheviks have one sensible idea—that is, to make what the people need and then let them line up and buy it, instead of making unnecessary things and sending out agents to force their sale. We Americans, it seems like, feast till we founder, and then have to famish a while. And it makes us bilious and dyspeptic and blue."

"Evidently you are not an optimist," I commented.

"No, nor a pestimist, either," the farmer answered, "my folks were all Presbyterians and held for predestination. But sometimes, these days, I have my doubts about whether what is to be will be, or not. We're all sort of mixed up."

And aren't we, though? EOLUS.

LAGNIAPPE.

"VIENNA, AUSTRIA, June 25.—The Rotary Congress is also expected to adopt a resolution of approval of President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal."—Chicago Daily News. Which makes it unanimous.

CLIP THIS COUPON and keep it. It is a participation certificate, or what is more commonly known as scrip. It is good for a regular last line as soon as the weather gets cooler so that we can write one. Meantime, in place of last lines we will issue scrip. If the school board can get away with it so can we. R. H. L.

A REPAINT JOB

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 26, 1915.

CHICAGO.—With the speedway championship of the world and a king's ransom for stakes, Dario Resta, native of Italy, and driving for Peugeot and France, today enters Chicago's first 500 mile automobile race at the new two mile plant erected by the Speedway Park association a favorite over the remainder of a field of 24 starters. The total prize money will be $54,000, with numerous added prizes.

PARIS.—The Temps has received a dispatch from Petrograd saying that it has been learned on excellent authority that Austria and Germany have proposed a separate peace for Serbia, offering the latter all of Albania and a rectification of the Serbo-Bosnian frontier and a guarantee of territorial integrity.

LONDON. — Divergent statements leaked out as to whether the Russians or the Teutonic allies have the upper hand in the desperate battle being waged along the Dniester river in Galicia. Both sides claim successes, but none of the official reports indicate that any decisive advantage has been gained.

ROME.—Fort Hensel, one of the principal works of the Austrian fortress at Malborgeth, has been destroyed by Italian shell fire, Gen Cadorna reported. He also announced the capture of the Austrian town of Glorna, north of Plava.

PERU, Ind.—A Wabash passenger train ran into a washout near Cass station, eight miles from this city, and seventeen passengers are known to have been killed. Probably fifty more were injured and the list of dead may be swelled when the search of the ruins is completed.

SEATTLE, Wash.—John Considine, boss gambler and politician, shot and killed former Chief of Police W. L. Meredith. The shooting took place on a crowded street and was the direct consequence of a gamblers' row resulting in an official investigation by the city and the forced resignation of Chief Meredith, who was the son of former Chief Meredith of the United States bureau of engraving and printing at Washington, and came here from Chicago, his native city. Considine also is a Chicago man, having been a saloonkeeper and politician in the 19th ward. He once served on the Chicago police force for one year as a detective. Tom Considine, brother of John, had seized and disarmed Meredith before he was shot by John.

CHICAGO.—The College of Physicians and Surgeons at 813 West Harrison street was struck by lightning and damaged to the extent of $30,000 by the fire which followed. The fire caused a panic in the West Side hospital next door and the nurses and 63 patients were removed.

JUNE 26, 1881.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—News from the Indian nation states that the trouble has reached a crisis. The United States cavalry at Fort Sill has been ordered to report to United States Agent Tuffts at Muskogee to coöperate with the Choctaw militia under Gov. McCurtain in driving white intruders and their stock from the country.

CITY OF MEXICO.—A whole train on the Morelos railroad tumbled down into the river San Antonio near Cuantis because of the collapse of a stone bridge. Nearly 200 are dead and a great many wounded, mostly soldiers.

CHICAGO.—Michael W. Smith, the well known Dearborn street bookseller, died in Denver, where he had gone for his health. He took a severe cold last February which went into consumption.

CHICAGO.—The opening day of the summer running meeting at the Chicago Driving park was marked by an attendance of about 3,000 people, who enjoyed four well contested races, although in every instance but one the favorite was beaten. The great surprise of the day came in the Board of Trade handicap when Llatunah came along at the finish and won a good race in excellent time. For weeks this race had been supposed to lie between Bluejacket and Mary Anderson.

IDEAS.

Chicago, June 22.—Clothing manufacturers must be blind. One million men would be willing to buy a beach suit so as not to go to the beach in [1] an old bath robe or [2] a worn out raincoat. Why not a decent beach suit? Top somewhat like a Russian blouse. Bottom just plain pants. Big. Also waterproof to protect auto cushions when you come out dripping. Also—not to look like John Gilbert having his picture taken.

Next—golf socks. Built for a winter in the Arctic. Why not some cool golf socks?

Also garden sleeping suit. I have a porch. Also a yard. Would like to sleep outdoors. Why not some screen and roof proposition you could rig up quickly to keep flies and mosquitoes out? Then fold up and put away.

No charge for these swell ideas.

A MANUFACTURER.

THE BUILDING CODE.

Chicago, June 20.—Either the new building code, which has been held up for the last four years, should be completed or the old code amended so that the economics of construction estimated at 20 per cent could be made immediately available. This action would be a great stimulus to building, particularly of small homes.

Hoover is personally blamed for his inexcusable delay in getting the unemployed to work on the Chicago post-office. Let our mayor insist that the new building code be completed without further delay and escape a similar odium.

Chicago construction labor should agree to a $1 per hour rate on small homes and plenty of loan money can then be secured for building purposes.

ACTION.

SEINING FOR MINNOWS.

Chicago, June 22.—Bathers at Clarendon beach are witnessing the wasteful slaughter of young fish. Men with nets drag thousands of minnows to the shore to select a few specimens for bait; then, apparently unconcerned with the remainder of their catch, leave them stranded on dry land.

The government annually spends many thousands of dollars operating fish spawneries. They are purposed to keep the lake stocked. If net dragging vandals are permitted to continue with their massacre, the taxpayer gains nothing. I propose either to outlaw the perch murderers or to discontinue the spawneries.

CORPORATIONS PRACTICING LAW.

Chicago, June 23.—Our Supreme court has rendered an opinion finding the Peoples Stockyards bank guilty of contempt of court for practicing law. There are other corporations rendering services requiring the use of legal skill which should be called to account. They hire their lawyers for a small salary and collect a fee from their customers. They examine abstracts of title and render legal opinions thereon and, in addition thereto, furnish policies to support their opinions. These opinions are written by attorneys employed by the corporation on a salary basis, who are considered as servants of their master. The Supreme court has paved the way and the fight should be continued.

OUR BEST CUSTOMERS.

Chicago, June 21.—An article by Henning and an editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE on discrimination by Canada and Australia against U. S. railways and mercantile marine and in favor of Canadian railways and the English mercantile marine surely calls for some comment.

Do you always keep in mind that England and Canada are far and away our best customers? They both buy from us something like twice as much as we buy from them. Surely it is good business for us to cherish this trade. I deeply deplore your continual belittling of England and a very obvious intent to foster ill will between the two countries.

What a disservice you are performing for our salesmen! You ought to be carrying headlines to the effect that England and Canada normally buy more from us than all the rest of the world, and doing everything possible to retain their good will, as any sensible business man would.

I accuse you bluntly of failure to recognize that trade is in the last resort a mutual exchange. If by tariff increases we refuse to permit England and Canada to pay for their purchases in the U. S. by the sale of goods we must permit them to pay in other ways—by performing services such as insurance, banking, shipping and the welcoming of tourists. Will THE TRIBUNE ever grow up and realize that we cannot eat our cake and have it too? R. H. ROOT.

RAILROAD ADVERSITY.

Chicago, June 22.—Some people, including THE TRIBUNE, present the argument that unless aid is given the railroads their securities will drop in value. Why stop there? Why not give financial aid to the other industries to bolster their securities?

If the railroads are losing out because of restrictions they should be given a fair chance to prove their value. But if they can be done without and their competitors are capable of giving better and cheaper service there is no reason to increase the profit of the rails at the expense of others.

There were no tears shed when the railroad replaced the stage coach and there were no tears for the various industries that have fallen by the wayside. If other forms of transportation can do the work better than the railroads they should. M. L. GOLDE.

TOO MUCH PICNIC.

Chicago, June 22.—I think the residents of Edgebrook and adjoining territory on the northwest side have a justifiable protest to make in regard to a picnic held in the Sauganash-Caldwell forest preserve in Edgebrook last Sunday by a northwest side business men's association. A dance platform was erected in the preserve by the association and a charge for dancing was made; also booths for raffles and wheels of fortune. This with a crowd which littered the grounds with bottles, papers and rubbish is a violation of forest preserve rule. The grounds were not large enough to accommodate the crowd and the residents of this section were hampered in getting from or to Edgebrook.

The whole affair showed lack of judgment on the part of the association and those who issue permits for picnics.

ARREST MOTHER OF TWO INDIANA POISON VICTIMS

Prosecutor Admits He Has Little Evidence.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Crawfordsville, Ind., June 25.—[Special.] Mrs. Carrie Barrett Simmons, 48

years old, mother of two girls who died of strychnine poisoning shortly after eating ham sandwiches prepared by her was taken into county custody by Sheriff Owsley, coroner of the county of original jurisdiction.

Authorities say they asked Simmons to be present at the questioning of his wife. These officials say they mean to get at the bottom of the crime. Mr. Scifers said he had purposely delayed action until after the funeral of Virginia, 13, and Anna Jean Simmons, 10, the victims. They were buried yesterday in the family cemetery, ten miles from town.

While he has the mother in custody, Mr. Scifers made it plain that he has no evidence that she or any other member of the family had recently bought 60 grains of strychnine, the total amount of poison found in twelve of the eighteen sandwiches made by her. It had been reported that a drug store clerk at Knightstown, near here, was ready to identify a woman as the purchasers of the drugs.

"This clerk was shown Mrs. Simmons today, but did not identify her," said the prosecutor. "We have other leads, however, that we expect may bear fruit in a day or so."

Mother Advances Theory.

Although nervous, Mrs. Simmons was not in a state of collapse. She advanced a new theory to the authorities while she was preparing to leave, suggesting that the poison, in five grain capsules, may have been placed in the Simmons' food by a person intending to murder others of the twenty-eight persons who attended the reunion.

Mr. Scifers said he discounted this to a large degree, recalling the testimony of the woman herself that she had prepared the food and had seen it placed in a large can and stowed in the family car for the 50 mile drive to Lebanon Sunday.

Father Is Not Held.

The woman and her husband, John Simmons, highly respected farmer of Linden, were both driven to Lebanon by Police Chief Ed Casey, Sheriff Small, and Dr. G. A. Owsley, coroner of the county of original jurisdiction.

Authorities say they asked Simmons to be present at the questioning of his wife. These officials say they mean to get at the bottom of the crime. Mr. Scifers said he had purposely delayed action until after the funeral of Virginia, 13, and Anna Jean Simmons, 10, the victims. They were buried yesterday in the family cemetery, ten miles from town.

FEARED FOR LIFE, SLAYER OF TWO MEXICANS SAYS

Oklahoma Deputy on Trial for Killing Students.

Courthouse, Ardmore, Okla., June 25.—(AP)—William E. [Bill] Guess, who as a southern Oklahoma deputy sheriff killed two Mexican college students and stirred international feelings, told the jury trying him for murder today he shot "because I thought I was going to get killed myself."

The sight of pistols in the hands of Emilio Cortes Rubio, kinsman of the Mexican president, and Manuel Garcia Gomez, his college companion on a homeward automobile trip that ended tragically here the night of June 7, made Guess believe, he said, "that we had run into some kind of hijackers."

Climax Rapid Fire Defense.

The big, drawling defendant, 34 years old and well over 6 feet, climaxed a rapid fire defense in which he was preceded to the stand by his companion on the fatal night, Cecil Crosby, resigned deputy, also charged with murder but not now on trial.

Both state and defense rested late today and Judge John B. Ogen will deliver his instructions at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Crosby did no shooting and testified his knowledge of the firing was limited to hearing three quick shots and seeing the flashes from the other side of the motor car which the Mexicans had stopped on a residential street.

Guess went into action, he testified, when he saw Crosby take one pistol from Emilio, at the wheel of the boys' car. Crosby had alighted from the officers' car to reprimand Salvador Cortes Rubio, standing in front of his ill-fated comrades' machine.

Tells of Seeing Pistol.

"I saw Mr. Crosby come out with his gun," said Guess. Then he [Guess] went to join Crosby at the Mexican machine. Gomez, a blanket about his shoulders, had alighted. Guess saw an automatic pistol "sticking out from under the blanket," he said.

"I said 'stick 'em up,'" said Guess. "The gun raised up. I shot him twice."

"Then I heard a noise in the car. I shot my light in. The third man was coming out with a gun.

"It looked bigger then than it does now. I shot him. It looked to me like I was in danger. I shot from the hip."

Asked on cross-examination why he had not driven his car up to the Rubio machine instead of letting Crosby go up alone to question Salvador, Guess said "two or three officers had been killed around here by driving up in front of a car."

Guess said he took a second gun, a double barreled pistol, from the tail of Emilio's sweater. Two defense witnesses, F. B. Albro and Howard McKinsey, testified they saw Guess reach in the Mexican car and pick up the pistol, but their companion, Earl Benton, said Guess took the weapon from Emilio's pocket.

The defendant said Matt Alexander, city policeman, picked up an automatic pistol from near the body of Gomez.

VETERAN HEAD OF DOG POUND GETS DISCHARGE

William F. Stuart, superintendent of the city dog pound for 28 years, was discharged yesterday by the civil service commission. He had been under suspension since April 10 when charges were referred against him of being absent from duty without permission and of alleged mismanagement and mistreatment of the animals in his care. He never received a copy of the charges and he was not present at the trial which ended in his dismissal.

The evidence on which the ouster order was based was that at the time of his suspension he failed to turn $595 over to the city treasurer and it was necessary for the city to withhold his pay checks.

The finding also took into consideration a comparison of earnings at the pound, which showed that in May, 1926, Stuart collected only $303, where as in May, 1931, Lieut. Albert Mikes as acting poundmaster collected $909. This was considered proof of Stuart's inefficiency and mismanagement.

Wallace M. Bennett, veteran employé of the pound, explained the difference in the amount of collections by saying that as long as he had been employed there, under four poundmasters, the customary fee of $6.50 required to secure the release of a dog was frequently waived as a political favor.

Stuart was appointed an operator in the police department in 1894 and discharged in 1897. He was reemployed in 1901 and in 1903 was transferred to the pound.

CONVICTED TAX FIXER TRAPPED; FACES PRISON

David Beyers, convicted tax fixer, who could not be found for the past 16 days for commitment to the penitentiary, was arrested when located at the same old racket of so-called tax adjusting. He was turned over to the sheriff's office for transportation to the penitentiary on a 1 to 10 year sentence, which was imposed months ago, but which was appealed to the Supreme court and recently affirmed.

DAVID BEYERS.

The arrest of Beyers was brought about by the vigilance of Otto C. Woerner, chief clerk of the county treasurer's office. Beyers had sent a messenger to pay into the treasury several checks on some properties, which he was representing as tax adjuster. It was noticed on the checks that the "money was to be for full taxes" whereas Beyers' messenger was only making part payments on some properties. The clerk suspected he pocketed some of the money given him by clients.

Sergt. Joseph J. Carroll, personal bodyguard for State's Attorney Swanson, and Policeman John MacDonald of the treasurer's office forced the messenger to lead them to Beyers.

SET EDWARDS DIVORCE CASE FOR TRIAL FIRST WEEK OF OCTOBER

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Although the counter suit for divorce brought by William ["Big Bill"] Edwards against Mrs. Norma Edwards has been referred to District Attorney Frank H. Coyne of Westchester, Mrs. Edwards' counsel today insisted that "Big Bill's" suit go to trial.

Albert M. Bailey, appearing before Supreme Court Justice Graham Witchief in White Plains for Mrs. Edwards' counsel, Lee Parsons Davis, said it would be an empty victory for Mrs. Edwards if her husband's suit were dismissed.

As his request, Justice Witchief set the case down for trial the first week of October. Yesterday when Thomas Wendstrom, alleged self confessed corespondent and principal witness for Edwards, failed to appear in court, Justice Witchief referred the case to the district attorney.

APPEALS COURT AFFIRMS VICTORY FOR GOV. LESLIE

The United States Circuit court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the ruling of Federal Judge Fred L. Wham in dismissing a $60,000 damage suit brought against Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana and State Senator J. Glenn Harris, leader in the Indiana legislature, by Attorney Otto Gresham, former counsel for the Indiana state highway commission.

The suit was based on charges that Gov. Leslie, at the time he was speaker of the Indiana house of representatives, and Senator Harris had refused to institute impeachment proceedings against Circuit court judges of Marion county, Indiana, who were accused of entering "false and illegal indictments" against members of the Indiana state highway commission. The dismissal of the suit was based on an Indiana Supreme court decision which held that the state legislature had no authority to impeach Circuit court judges.

WALKER WAGES WAR ON RACKETS; U. S. HELPS HIM

Pledges to Rid New York of Gangsters.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Federal men and city authorities, the latter working under the generalship of Mayor James J. Walker, hurled forces into three different fronts today in a redoubled effort to uncover income tax evasion by underworld leaders and to exterminate liquor racketeering along the river front and in the Bronx as well as racketeering in the garment industry.

Following a conference in the city hall with clothing manufacturers and heads of the thousands of union employés in the industry, who declared that they were being victimized by an organized blackmail system, the mayor promised that every ounce of power in the city administration and every man in the police department would be used to rid the city's industries of gangster rule.

Coincidentally, the organization of a special "flying squad" of customs agents to wipe out a gang of "strong arm" men and other thugs who have been intimidating truck drivers into spiriting liquor away from the piers was revealed by the federal authorities.

Raid Beer Baron's Headquarters.

The third phase of the war against gangdom centered in the Bronx, where District Attorney McLaughlin, with two federal agents and other investigators, swooped down on the headquarters of Dutch Schultz, alleged beer runner, and confiscated papers and ledgers which are expected to show to what extent Schultz has been evading income taxes.

The city hall conference took place in response to a quiet summons by Mayor Walker. The mayor promised that any manufacturer or employé who would help by giving testimony against racketeers would be protected against violence, if necessary, to the extent of having a patrolman sleep in his home. At the mayor's suggestion, a committee of manufacturers and employés will be appointed and within a few days they will confer further with Police Commissioner Mulrooney and his associates to formulate a plan of campaign.

Addressing the conference, Mayor Walker said in part:

"I know the difficulty of getting men to testify. Why should an assaulted man take the chance of testifying when some organization is subsidizing the guerrillas?

"But the biggest thing that has been done in this town in a long while is your determination, on both sides, that you will not pay one dollar of tribute to any gang leader or guerrilla.

Pledges Protection.

"For that pledge I give you this pledge in return. That every ounce of strength, every bit of resource, every policeman in the police department from the commissioner down to the last appointed man, is at your command to protect your lives and property.

"You stop the paying and help us and we will drive them out—and won't be gentle about it, you can depend on that. You can take this notice today—after a conference with the police commissioner—I am speaking for him on his authority and request; that not only they will not be gentle, but they will be ruthless and that any man or guerrilla who says that he has any political influence in this city that will affect the mayor or the police department is a liar."

Lieut. Parodi to Command Maxwell Street District

Lieut. Philip Parodi, who has been acting as a bodyguard for Mayor Cermak, was put in charge of the Maxwell district yesterday as acting captain. He succeeds Capt. Matthew Zimmer who heads the new automobile detail. Three lieutenants were assigned yesterday to Zimmer's new command, Maurice Wall, George Tedling and John M. Kelley. Other lieutenants transferred were Michael Golden and Joseph Pieroth to Maxwell district, Patrick Bonner to Wabash avenue and B. J. Cohn to Pekin.

PROSECUTOR BELIEVES STARR WROTE NOTES; BUT DOUBTS SUICIDE

New York, June 25.—(AP)—After his aids had questioned the mother and sister of Starr Faithfull separately nearly all night District Attorney Elvin Edwards of Nassau county announced today his belief that letters submitted to the grand jury by Dr. G. Jameson Carr of the Cunard liner Franconia were genuine.

The prosecutor asserted, however, that while the letters seemed to indicate the girl had decided to commit suicide when she wrote them, he was unable to reconcile their tenor with evidences of mistreatment on the body of the girl found in the surf at Long Beach June 8.

"Even though she threatened suicide," he asserted, "the bruises on her body, the missing underwear and coat, and the presence of a drug in her organs impel me to the theory of foul play.

"We still are working to establish whether she was murdered or drowned herself, which latter, under the circumstances developed, is far from credibly established."

Mrs. Helen McGregor Faithfull and Elizabeth Tucker, her daughter, were interrogated by Police Inspector King and Assistant District Attorney Martin W. Littleton Jr., after which it was stated that, while Mrs. Faithfull and her husband, Stanley E. Faithfull, Starr's stepfather, declared the letters forgeries, Miss Tucker expressed the belief that Starr wrote all three of them.

REPORT $2,000 RANSOM PAID TO LEVIN KIDNAPERS

A ransom of $2,000 was reported last night to have been paid to kidnapers for the release of Samuel Levin, wealthy oil filling station owner. Levin returned home shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning, ending a captivity of four days.

He was questioned by Chief of Detectives John Norton and denied any tribute had been paid to the abductors. Earlier Levin's attorney, William J. Robinson, asserted not a dime had been paid. Reports last night indicated, however, that the kidnapers whittled down their $5,000 demand and compromised on $2,000, which was paid. In his story to Norton Levin said he had been blindfolded during his entire imprisonment.

The men told him they knew he had money, Levin said, and they asked him the names of some of his friends through whom they might negotiate for his release. He said that among others he gave them the name of Max Glasser, who was held by Chief Norton when he notified Robinson of the message he received. Robinson was holding $6,000 of Levin's money and he was instructed in a letter to give it to Glasser, who would pay it to the kidnapers through some third party.

Levin's statement vindicated Glasser and Chief Norton said the case was at an end, without further explanation as to Levin's being released. Glasser was released last night.

The 20 R. O. T. C. units in Chicago have a total enrollment of 5,500 cadets. The four schools in the honor class have a total enrollment of 1,508 and the seven excellent units have a total of 1,458, giving the Chicago units a student percentage of 53.92 on the honor or excellent lists.

JUDGE ACQUITS EX-CONGRESSMAN OF FRAUD CHARGE

Former Congressman Charles S. Wharton, who served a term in a federal prison for complicity in the Evergreen Park mail train robbery four years ago, was found not guilty on a charge of embezzlement yesterday by Judge Joseph David in Criminal court. Wharton was arrested on the complaint of a woman client, Mrs. Cecilia Ware, who accused him of keeping a $10,000 necklace. Judge David said the case was a matter for the civil instead of criminal courts. Wharton obtained the necklace in a legal action for the women and kept it.

TAVERN KEEPER SHOT TRYING TO OUST PATRONS

William Dowgiallo, proprietor of the Horseshoe tavern, 4 miles east of Elgin, was shot four times and critically wounded early yesterday while trying to expel two unwelcome customers. Dowgiallo's wife said the shooting was done by Fred T. Hansen, a giant blacksmith living in St. Charles, who was accompanied by a man known only as Barney.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning, Mrs. Dowgiallo said, the two men entered the roadhouse, laid a roll of bills and a pair of dice on the counter and offered to gamble for a drink. When their proposal was rejected the men became quarrelsome. She said, and were ordered out. They refused to go and Dowgiallo threatened them with a shotgun. Then Dowgiallo laid down the gun and "Barney" grabbed it and pulled the trigger, Mrs. Dowgiallo said. The gun, however, was unloaded. Then Hansen, the woman asserted, shot Dowgiallo four times with a revolver. The pair fled in an automobile. Dowgiallo was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin.

How to SUNBATHE HEALTHFULLY AND avoid SUNBURN

1 In the beginning, expose yourself to direct sun-rays for a short time—until your skin has become accustomed to the sun. In small doses the sun refreshes and benefits. In large doses it burns.

2 To have a safe, comfortable sunbath never expose your skin to the sun while it is wet.

3 While nothing in the world will positively prevent a burn if you expose yourself carelessly, you can avoid an ordinary burn and lessen a bad burn by sunbathing with the skin dried off and protected with an application of Nivea Creme before and during exposure. This precaution will assure you a fresh, healthy and invigorated skin.

4 When you have not taken these precautions and a sunburn or skin dryness develops after exposure, apply Nivea Creme—it will quickly soothe and cool your skin.

5 Druggists, department stores and chain stores will supply you with Nivea Creme.

PUT 9 MILLIONS IN CIRCULATION WITH NEW AUTOS

Nash to Announce Details This Week-End.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., June 25.—[Special.] In his shirt sleeves, in his modest office within hearing of the plant's machinery, Charles W. Nash, automobile manufacturer and leader in the nation's big-car industry, this afternoon set in circulation to produce four new types of cars which will be formally announced this week-end.

C. W. NASH.

As he talked, in bursts from an open window beside the chug of a switch engine on the company's private tracks shunting gondolas of coal, Illinois coal for the blast furnaces, box cars of Ohio and Pennsylvania plate glass, flat cars of Arizona hard wood, shifting to delivery platforms the material that will go into a modern automobile.

Across another part of the plant could be heard the authoritative voice of a foreman directing laborers in loading the new cars onto highway trailers and into railroad cars for shipment to all parts of the United States and many other parts of the world.

New Cars Involve Labor.

"Now you'll have writer's cramp signing Nash company checks before we get out this new model," said Mr. McCarty.

The writer's cramp now signifies preparations for material," replied Mr. McCarty, vice president of the company.

"We call this an industrial enterprise because we are going to introduce new cars," he explained to his interviewer, "slowly to supply the dealers with cars without selling a car to the public. The Nash company will put no money in circulation.

"Almost all of this money goes directly for labor. The material that goes into an automobile is of little value in its raw state. The steel, for example, is of little value as ore as it comes out of the ground. Below the surface of a Michigan hill. It becomes valuable when it is mined, smelted, refined, and cast and tooled, each process involving labor. The same is true of the copper of South America, the cotton of the fields of the south and the copper in the hills of Arizona, Montana, and Michigan.

1,500 on Pay Rolls.

"The production of the new car will cause the Nash company to meet additional pay rolls directly at its plants in Racine and Milwaukee as well as here in Kenosha. The number of our employes has doubled in the last sixty days. We now have over 1,500 names on our pay rolls, a number almost that many families. Orders are coming in better than we anticipated, and if these continue we'll have to employ more men very soon, and we'll have to order more material, which likewise will employ more men in mines, mills and farms in almost every state in the union.

"It's obvious that we have selected a good time to introduce new models, because as it does the expenditure of new money, because we believe the public is ready to renew normal buying. We're not a charitable organization spending money and employing men merely to hasten the return of general prosperity. We're in this enterprise because we believe there's a market for an improved product, properly priced and aggressively merchandised, returning a reasonable profit to the producer."

The details of the new Nash will be made public with the formal announcement this week-end.

PITTSBURGH MAYOR, OUSTED CITY OFFICIAL INDICTED FOR FRAUD

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 25.—(AP)—Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, discharged head of the city department of supplies, were indicted today by the Allegheny county grand jury on charges of misdemeanor in office.

Three indictments were returned against the mayor and the former supplies director. One was a joint indictment against them; one named Kline on three counts, and the other named Succop on one count.

The grand jury was still in session in its investigation of city purchasing methods. It heard charges that contracts were let to other than low bidders for city supplies.

The mayor and Succop probably will be arraigned at the September terms of court. Conviction on each count provides a maximum penalty of one year in jail. Similar cases in Cambria and Luzerne counties resulted in ousting of public officials from office as well as jail sentences and fines.

GRAIN MEN OPEN WAR TO GET U. S. OUT OF BUSINESS

Expect Organization to Be Nation-Wide.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The first unit of what its leaders expect to soon become a nation-wide federation of business men to "get the government out of private business" was formed by a group of Chicago grain men in the Board of Trade building yesterday.

Chiefly concerned with operations of the federal farm board, the newly formed federation is to be incorporated immediately, according to James E. Bennett and R. I. Mansfield, grain merchants, who addressed yesterday's massmeeting. A tentative constitution and by-laws was drawn up and approved.

"This is but the opening gun in a fight which we expect to take at least four years to show results," declared Mansfield. "We have been assured by bankers, railroad executives and many other business leaders of active support in our campaign to confine the government's work to its proper sphere of executive, legislative and judicial activity."

Another unit of the federation is to be formed among live stock, dairy and poultry commission men here, according to Charles A. Wilson, president of the Chicago Live Stock Exchange. Other units will be formed in St. Louis, Denver and other cities within a few days, it was announced.

Rural bankers, insurance men and farmers not in sympathy with the farm board's policies are indicating readiness to participate, speakers declared.

Among the purposes of the federation, as divulged in the constitution adopted yesterday, are those to "oppose autocracy and bureaucracy in government as a menace to the business structure of the nation" and to "oppose future legislative proposals against the interests of all private business endeavor."

RAILROADS PRESS DEMANDS FOR FREIGHT RAISE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The railroad advised the interstate commerce commission today that they were not fooling last week when they asked authority to increase all freight rates and charges 15 per cent, with exceptions only to preserve existing differentials.

Though having in effect been invited by the commission, by its order in the increased rate case of last Saturday to submit a list of commodities that would not be subjected to the proposed increase, the railroads declined to depart from their original proposal for a general increase.

A resolution unanimously adopted at Chicago yesterday by the authorized representatives of the carriers in the eastern, western, southern, and mountain Pacific groups, containing the reply to the commission's request for more light on the original application, was transmitted to the commission this morning.

Effective on All Traffic.

After the 15 per cent increase became effective on all traffic, said the railroads, adjustments would be made. They said in their resolution that "experience has shown that where any general change in the entire rate structure of the country is authorized and becomes effective it has subsequently been found to be necessary to make changes and readjustments, in some instances reductions, to meet competition and other situations." Such changes where found necessary, said the railroads, would be made as promptly as possible after the proposed increased rates, if approved by the commission, became effective.

The railroads said they were prepared, if the authority sought were granted, to make effective increases of all existing freight rates and charges of 15 per cent, including joint rail and water rates and charges, with such adjustments in the case of coal, coke and certain other commodities as would preserve existing differentials.

The commission further was advised that the carriers did not propose to make any specific exceptions of any commodities, "and that the carriers are prepared to make increases of the measure proposed in all existing rates on grain and grain products, cotton, other agricultural and horticultural products, including live stock, nonferrous metals, iron and steel articles, petroleum and its products, lumber and automobiles, and in all existing class rate." These commodities specifically were mentioned in the reply because the commission had inquired whether the railroads were prepared to increase the rates on them if the authority were granted.

Water Routes Concur in Plea.

All internal rates and charges also will be increased 15 per cent if authority is granted, said the carriers. Water lines having joint rates with the rail lines have concurred in the application for permission to increase the rates, according to the railroad's reply.

The carriers' reply was signed by J. J. Pelley, representing the eastern carriers; H. A. Scandrett, representing the western carriers, and W. R. Cole, representing the southern group.

If the commission decides that inquiry order has been answered, then the issues will be joined and the proceeding will go forward on the basis of the original petition and the reply resolution reinforcing the original request.

The commission plans to hold hearings on the petition.

Farmer Found Dead from Marsh Gas in Water Tank

Albert Scharringhausen, 50 years old, a farmer of near Arlington Heights, was found asphyxiated yesterday in a water tank which he had entered to paint. The tank was in Scharringhausen's barn and had been closed for some time. Supposedly marsh gas had generated from a few inches of water and a quantity of leaves which had been in the tank for several months.

These mild tobaccos need no parching

CIGARETTES are sometimes made of rank, strong tobaccos that have been parched in an attempt to reduce their sting and bite.

Camels, however, are a blend of choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos that give off cool, mild smoke together with all that delightful flavor and aroma that would be lost by parching.

To preserve every vestige of that flavor, the natural moisture is air-sealed-in by an outer wrapping of moisture-proof Cellophane called the Humidor Pack.

This not only keeps Camels factory-fresh, but it excludes dust and germs as well.

If you are not a Camel smoker, why not switch over to this brand for one day.

GALS! BY EATING WATERMELONS YOU CAN REDUCE

O! What a Feast They Are for July Fourth.

BY VIRGINIA SCHMITZ.

Banjos, darkies, hot sun pourin' down, the Fourth of July, and a bath tub. Add them all together and they spell watermelon.

The banjos and the darkies are for local color; the sun for a goad, the Fourth is the right day, and the bath tub the perfect location or props. Just bring on a watermelon and a capable, wide mouth. There won't be must left of the watermelon.

Perhaps one should add to the list of necessities a good sharp knife to split the melon up into pieces that just fit the face; they say it's good for the complexion — watermelon, that is.

Sad Turn of Civilization.

It is one of the saddest turns of civilization that under ordinary circumstances one must eat watermelon at the table, behaving as though in the presence of kings, though I'm sure that all kings who have a taste for watermelon eat theirs with their faces.

But to eat a watermelon with a knife and fork, sometimes a spoon as well, is a hardship that any one who savors the full flavor and ecstasy of eating one en deshabille can hardly undergo.

At least, if one must go through such difficulties to down it, some one should invent an automatic seed expeller so that half your time isn't expended in daintily disarranging the things.

Of course, Burbank should have spent his time on making the watermelon seedless instead of devoting so much time to oranges. After all, it's a comparatively simple matter to clear the seeds out of an orange, but a watermelon!

Jumbo of Melon Family.

Somehow or other the jumbo of the melon family, though it may appear in northern markets earlier, seems meant for the Fourth of July and Fourth of July picnics. There and then under the sweltering rays of the Chicagoland sun literally thousands of Chicago children eat their first watermelon of the season.

And eat it not in the grand style, happily, but on the hoof. There is your official opening of the season of real summer, of vacation time, of watermelon time.

Occasionally, it is sad to relate, after waiting all winter for this grand day, some child here and there, and even perhaps some adult who ought to know better, will imbibe too freely of the watermelon and the picnic or dinner at home, as the case may be, will break up quickly, retiring in favor of the physician.

Don't Eat Too Near Rind.

This is not to say that watermelon is an unhealthful delicacy. Quite the opposite, in addition to being a delight to the gals on reducing diets. But eating too near the rind in an attempt to get all that can be gotten, or eating too much, as in the case of anything else, is apt to prove generally uncomfortable.

But since there will be no watermelon that will taste as good as that first watermelon of the season, what does it matter if one has to pay the piper or the doctor bills? Eat, drink, and be merry, for this is the opening of the watermelon season.

Beef Defeats Banana in Test Decided by Cycle Race

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, June 25.—The question of beef versus bananas has been settled with bicycles and peace reigns again over Denmark, which for a time threatened to be split wide open over the issue. Beef has won, and the butcher who championed the food of his choice and that of his customers has a silver cup to prove it.

It was like this: For some time the press in Copenhagen had been discussing the question of whether meat or vegetables was more important to the human physique. Prof. M. Hindhede, an eminent scientist, who is also a sworn vegetarian, published articles declaring that meat eaters were slowly digging their own graves and that vegetables were the all important element.

He was having things pretty much his own way when suddenly there appeared in the arena a butcher, the president of the butchers' union, and this gentleman told the world that Prof. Hindhede was full of hops, or vegetables. Furthermore, he asserted, vegetables made good decorations, but when it came to nourishment give the people meat.

Suggests Bicycle Test.

Then the newspaper Politiken came along with a practical suggestion.

We won't get any place arguing like this, said Politiken, in effect. Let's test the thing out, and since everybody in Denmark rides a bicycle, bicycles would be the proper medium. The superiority of meat or vegetables resolves itself into a question of how much vitality it gives the eater. Let a representative of each side enter a race, which we will sponsor, and the winner gets a silver cup plus acknowledgment that his favorite food is the better.

Now the president of the butchers' union had a typical butcher's physique, while Prof. Hindhede was no longer young. Hence a race between them wouldn't be fair. But the professor had a faithful assistant, and upon the latter fell the task of upholding the superiority of fruit and vegetables.

Training for the great bicycle race began, all Denmark enthusiastically taking sides and encouraging their favorite breakfast food. The contestants were soon dubbed the beef and the banana, respectively, and all was tense on the day of the race. No less than 50,000 Danes lined the course, which went 25 kilometers in one direction and the same distance back.

Banana Rider Upsets.

Paced by 500 riders, the two opponents started early one morning, and for the first 49 kilometers they were so close it looked as though the superiority of beef over bananas would never be decided. If one took a spurt the other did likewise, and under no circumstances could the vegetables overcome the meat, or vice versa. But one kilometer from the finish line the banana got too ambitious. He made a desperate effort to gain the lead, but in doing so collided with one of the pacers and was upset. He regained his wheel, but not soon enough to catch up with the butcher, who sailed across the finish line a winner amid the deafening cheers of the meat eating clan.

Flanked by 100 butchers in white linen clothes, the victor marched to a splendid lunch in his honor, where the assembly partook of Denmark's most luscious cuts of meat. The luncheon was marked by the absence of bananas.

But victory was not yet complete. A corps of physicians examined the contestants and pronounced the butcher in fine condition after his gruelling ride, while the professor's assistant was not quite up to par. The result was broadcast over the radio, and with the issue settled Denmark becomes once again peaceful, if slightly more carnivorous.

TESTING OF FOODS BY MECHANICAL MEANS MAKES FOR SPEED

Testing of foods by mechanical means has added speed and certainty to the industry that handles much of the food staples in the United States, the federal government's department of agriculture has discovered. Many different types of apparatus have been developed for these tests.

A saccharimeter, for instance, measures the sugar content in grapes. A sugar acid test is used to ascertain the maturity of citrus fruits, while a specific gravity determination indicates the maturity of cantaloupes.

Canned fruits and vegetables are being graded by means of a pressure gauge which shows the vacuum condition of the can, the federal men report. Hydronometers test the density of sirups, salinometers are used on brine solutions and penetrometers find the consistency of such products as canned pumpkin.

Other mechanical devices measure the maturity of canned corn. A fruit pressure tester determines the maturity of plums, apples, and pears. The colorimeter denotes the color in honey and in other similar products where color is an important quality factor. Flavor and odor have been naturally difficult to measure in mechanical tests, according to the department of agriculture, but predictions are that even these factors soon may be determined by mechanical means instead of the slower and less uniform method that depends on judgment and skill.

GOLFING MAKES HIM ASK FOR HAM ON RYE

Stars or Not, They Eat a Lot.

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

Golf is credited with having done much for the public, golf widows excluded, in the way of furnishing recreation and exercise and developing sociability, good sportsmanship, and general well being. It should come in for just as much acclaim in the matter of developing appetites. A golfer after his eighteen holes eats twice as much as the man who doesn't play.

The business of walking steadily around the course, stopping every 200 yards, more or less (mostly less), only to take another poke at the ball, trudging up the steep hills, running down the other side, hunting for lost balls in the rough, blasting in the sand pit, losing a ball and a stroke, as well as getting wet feet, at the water hole, is enough to make any one shout for raw meat.

Using Up Energy.

A few dubbed shots, followed by a little legitimate profanity, help to use up the store of energy as well as to ruin a good disposition. Then, after the ball has been shoved into the cup of the eighteenth hole, how blissful it is to sit on the terrace and talk it all over—every stroke. How often the score card reads 96 when it could easily have been 93. Three strokes just thrown away.

And what does this golfer eat?

In the first place the eating problem seldom presents itself until after the ceremony of the 19th green. When he at last calls for food it is something plain and substantial and plentiful.

Wants Plain Fare.

Anchovies and caviar mean very little to the man whose mind is dwelling favorably on ham—baked ham—on rye bread, with mustard, a pickle and a glass of cold milk; we hesitate to say just how many "baked ham on ryes." Sardines, Swiss cheese and fried ham and egg sandwiches with good, strong coffee come in for their share of popularity as well. As you have guessed, there is nothing very elegant about what the golfer eats or how he eats it. The point is that he eats, and isn't too finicky about it.

After his lunch he may or may not play more golf, depending upon how much grass there is to mow at home, how his business gets along without him or the temperament and disposition of his golf widow.

THE EGG IS KEY TO ALL FRENCH COOKERY, SAYS GALLIC CHEF

"The egg is the Atlas that supports the world of gastronomy and the chef is the slave of the egg," declares a French chef who recently gave his ideas on cookery to Prof. J. C. Huttar, of the New York state college of agriculture.

According to the chef, the omelette, is the masterpiece of French cookery, but the egg also is used in many forms. It is "the soul of a vol-au-vent," creates a sauce that is found in pie crusts that are fit to eat," the foreign chef stated. He concluded with the statement that if all the hens in the world committed suicide, every French chef worthy of the name would fall on his spit, for the egg is the cement that holds all castles of cookery together.

EXPECT DECLINE IN PRODUCTION IN PORK IN U. S.

Pork production in the United States and Canada is expected to go below last year's level while practically all European countries except Denmark have a production trend upward, says the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States department of agriculture.

Hog slaughter and bacon exports in Denmark were larger in April than a year ago, but the rate of output has been declining in recent months, according to the bureau. In Germany and the Netherlands, however, "pork production shows no signs of declining." The bureau expects that hog slaughter in the United States for the remainder of the current marketing year will be somewhat smaller than that of the corresponding period a year ago.

The demand for American cured pork products in British markets is reported "restricted by record receipts from Denmark, supplemented by increasing quantities from other European countries. The Russian lard markets during May continued further under pressure from Russian supplies."

SLICED PICNIC SHOULDER GOOD FOR COLD MEAL

Cold sliced picnic shoulder can be used as one means of getting a cold meat during summer for the meat part of a dinner. This can be prepared the day before, cooking cabbage with the shoulder in the latter part of the cooking period and serving the vegetable as one of the hot vegetables for that day, according to the bureau of food economists.

Picnic shoulders, like many cuts of beef and pork, are cheaper now than they have been in years and they have this advantage, of being the least expensive meat for cutting out the budget planners have decided. Potato salad is described as an excellent companion for the shoulder. In addition to being an old favorite, it also is inexpensive.

SIMPLE MENUS MARK DIET OF ENGLISH RULER

Prince of Wales Follows Father's Example.

BY ELIZABETH CRAIG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—In spite of the fact that His Majesty the King, His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and Premier Ramsay MacDonald can command could wish for, they prefer simple daily menus, a little, but well there is of it perfectly cooked.

King George has rather a delicate digestion. In fact, so delicate is his digestion that when he goes visiting, a list of the foods he is allowed to eat is sent on in advance by the doctor of his physicians. Unlike his father, King Edward, who was fond of anything savory, King George has a preference for sweet dishes, puddings, creams, sweet puddings and pastries. The prince both breakfasts and lunches at home. When visiting friends he always breakfasts in his own apartments, choosing from a menu which has been submitted in advance to the master of the household and planned, just as happens when royal visitors are breakfasting at Buckingham palace.

Always Fresh Fruits.

Fresh fruit always figures in his breakfast menu. He eats very lightly when at home at his first meal of the day, but when at Balmoral where he is awakened at 7 o'clock by the pipers of the bagpipes, generally piping the air "Hey Johnnie Cope, are ye waukin yet?" and then has a cold bath he orders a substantial breakfast, starting off with oatmeal porridge and following with grilled mountain trout, which he has often caught himself on the previous day. The queen and other members of the royal family always breakfast together at Balmoral.

King George is only supposed to eat two cold dishes and that is a dish of curried eggs. The recipe for cooking these is jealously guarded, in case it gets astray, by every royal cook, and by every hostess he honors with his presence at lunch or dinner.

To prepare these cutlets, trim and cook one lb. in a mixture of raw egg and dried breadcrumbs. Turn on several times in this batter until the cutlets are well coated, then place them gently in a deep drying pan containing a little smoking hot mutton fat of the finest quality, and cook for two and a half minutes on one side, then remove and drain them carefully on paper, and serve at once. They must be cooked just at the time. The king finds them unpalatable if either undercooked or overcooked, and by the way, as his cook is said to be somewhat of a gastronomic autocrat he probably has nothing to say if they are not to his taste when they are served at luncheon or dinner which is the custom when he is entertained by any of his relatives.

Turkish Wheat Hunting.

The only time the king patronizes anything British food is when he is "at home" in the highlands. After hours' deer shooting, or deerstalking, he breakfasts with other members of the royal party for luncheon, on venison and other meat pasties and in the appetizing luncheon served out among the heather on the slopes of the Grampians or on the banks of the Dee.

When King George entertains, whether it be to lunch usually served at 1:30, to tea, at 5 or 5:30, or to dinner which is seldom served before 9 o'clock, his good taste is shown by its discrimination. He rarely orders a elaborate meal. But when it is served on exquisite Sevres china, or on the gold plate, used on state occasions, the meal is one that is always remembered by those who are honored with his invitations.

When royal visitors are entertained at luncheon or dinner either at Windsor or at Sandringham, finger bowls are placed before only the royal visitors. The guests have to do without them. The origin of this custom dates back to the days of the pretender when it was the custom among those who sympathized with him to drink to the health of the king. This they invariably did by holding the glass over the finger bowl containing the water, thus signifying "to the king over the water."

As for the prince of Wales' taste in food, he is very abstemious. Like his royal father, he breakfasts very early. Often he rises at 6 a. m. and clad in "shorts," racing vest, and running shoes, he makes for Buckingham palace grounds, and, rain or shine, may be seen getting up an appetite and keeping himself fit for the heavy demands made on his strength by the British empire. When he has had his exercise, he returns home, has a cold plunge bath, then sits down to breakfast which generally consists of two boiled eggs, toast, orange or tangerine marmalade, and tea.

Prince Cares Little for Food.

"It is not much fun thinking out a menu for the prince," a society hostess once said to me. "He eats and drinks so little, and is so simple in his tastes. Mon. Herbodeau, who often superintends dishes presented to the prince when he lunches quietly with his equerry at the Ritz, told me once after much coaxing that he was very simple in his tastes. "A little grilled sole or a little chicken. That is about all," he said.

His royal highness cares little or nothing for food. He is a very small as well as a light eater. All his intimate friends know this, so do not try to weary him with long-drawn-out menus when he honors them with his presence at meals. When he entertains his brother officers and men friends at lunch or dinner at his club or a restaurant, or at St. James' palace, they know not to expect either a long or an elaborate menu. The prince usually hurries over his food, and his luncheon party menus are light and short to allow his highness to spend as little time as possible over his meals. With appointments booked for him sometimes nearly all day long he cannot give the time to long meals if he wanted to.

The prince lunches and dines as a rule off cutlets, cold cuts, fish, fruit, and sometimes an American club sandwich when he can get it. Like the king he drinks very little with his meals, perhaps a small quantity of light wine, or a small whisky and soda. When he is lunched or dined, he goes through the wine course like any ordinary guests, but is abstemious all the time.

Premier Another Light Eater.

One characteristic of his royal highness is never to allow lunch to be kept waiting for him. If he is detained he is quite annoyed when he finds a meal has been put back on his account. "I told you not to wait for me if I was late, and I should have been annoyed if you had not gone on with it," is what he always replies to excuses from his suite for starting.

Like the king and the prince, the premier is a light eater. He rises early and works before breakfast when he has a good meal of which oatmeal porridge, fruit, and coffee are the principal ingredients. When working, he eats a very light lunch, reserving his appetite for dinner when he has more leisure to enjoy eating. For our prime minister is a bit of an epicure. He has little taste for solid fare, or for some of the substantial dishes known as solid British fare.

Generally speaking, Mr. MacDonald prefers the Scottish cuisine to the English and the French to the Scotch. When he orders a luncheon or dinner he usually chooses several light and interesting dishes in preferance to one or two solid ones. He also likes a little light wine with his meals.

Only when he is in his native air where Finnan haddies, smoked haddocks, kippers, and beef taste better than they ever do south of the Tweed does he enjoy substantial meals. But then hunger is his sauce.

INFORMAL ROYAL GATHERING

King George of England shows a preference for sweet dishes, but he and the royal family also favor simple menus. His majesty is seated at a table with Queen Mary, Prince George and Princess Victoria.

PINEAPPLES FOR EATING, NOT FOR THROWING, ARE IN Fruit Has Much Culinary Versatility.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

There are any number of words that mean the same thing to all of the people all of the time, but there aren't many that have the chameleonic characteristics pineapple has.

If you were to say "Pineapple!" suddenly to a sweet, plump little lady of the mohair sofa, wax flowers and stuffed birds under glass domes on the parlor table, of the leg o' mutton sleeves and beau catchers decade, doubtless the mental image evoked, together with gentle sighs and delicate blushes, would be a highly prized and intricate crochet pattern for lace "trimming" daintily stitched on wide petticoats and other garments of a nineteenth century trousseau.

Mention the same word to some one who is a bit of a romanticist and you have probably furnished him a magic carpet transport to a silvery crescent beach under the velvet night of the isles of the Carriby, where black feathery fronds of cocoanut palms bend above moonlit water, and a slim native bacchante, hibiscus blooms in her hair, offers a cup of pale liquid that has the fragrance of anana and a power to bring golden dreams.

Another Product Altogether.

I am told that pineapple to the boys and girls of hoodlumdom has quite another connotation. All of which would bespeak a fruit of remarkable versatility.

Anana is the correct appellation for formal discourse. Pineapple it is only by reason of its resemblance to a pine cone. Dr. French mentions an amusing mistake arising out of the name which was made by the Journal des Débats when the Paris newspaper, in giving an account of a banquet at the Mansion house in London, indulged in some uncomplimentary remarks about the voracity of the English who could wind up a lord mayor's dinner with fir cones for dessert.

This, of course, is the fresh pineapple season, but fortunately here is a tropical fruit that loses none of its excellence in the hands of canners of quality products. All the year it is abundantly available in thick, luscious slices, in "fingers" ready for salad, in honey-sweet crushed or shredded forms to work wonders in cool beverages, sherbets and fillings.

Culinary Scope Limitless.

For any meal its scope is almost limitless. It adds the decorative refreshing touch to the platter of cold meats—tongue, veal loaf, chicken—for instance. In the capacity of garnish for ham and lamb it is well known, but it is as perfect an accompaniment to pork, steaks, duck, squab and other fowl and game, either sautéd and served in slices or made into sauce.

Distinctive flavors can be obtained by combination with other fruits. Try serving the breakfast grapefruit some time with the center filled with crushed pineapple or with wedges of pineapple inserted between alternate sections of grapefruit.

An unusual salad can be made by scooping out a tomato, and filling the shell with crushed pineapple dressed with mayonnaise and garnished with small pink shrimps. Another delightful salad consists of pineapple and orange arranged in alternate slices on a crisp lettuce leaf; it should be served with French dressing made with lemon and pineapple juice.

The cook who appreciates artistry in desserts will find a worthy field for her endeavors in fashioning pineapple cups. Small fresh fruits should be halved, the centers removed and cut into small spheres with a potato-ball knife and replaced in the cups with whipped cream.

When selecting fresh fruits it is well to remember that, while credited with digestive properties and medicinal virtues, pineapple should not be eaten unless fully mature; juice of the unripe fruit is caustic and likely to irritate the coating of the stomach. Though not a conclusive proof, a uniform yellow on the smooth surface ordinarily indicates ripeness.

To procure maximum excellence of flavor, slices of the fresh pineapple should be packed in a glass container and allowed to remain in the refrigerator for at least 24 hours before serving.

Alien Vegetables, Dasheens and Chayotes, Find Place on U. S. Tables

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—What vegetable for tonight?

Wearily you sigh and say:

"Let's see. We had carrots Monday, Tuesday it was peas, and Wednesday it was spinach. Last night we had beans. About time for carrots again."

But if you're an exploring epicure over at the government's home economics bureau here in Washington, you brighten up and say something like this:

"What about dasheens? Or some nice chayote? Bamboo sprouts'd be good for a change."

Ever Busy at Bureau.

For they are eternally busy at the bureau arranging debuts for foods that have hitherto hidden themselves in the soil of faraway lands. These foods enter this country through a sort of gastronomical Ellis island where officials of the department of agriculture give them various tests. Once welcomed to these shores they are first grown under special supervision.

Presently they are sent to the home economics bureau where calorie conscious ladies with Ph.D. degrees boil the products and bake them, and evolve recipes that may be sent to the housewives of the nation.

One such immigrant food that has taken out naturalization papers is the dasheen, or "potato of the south" which has made its way up from the tropics to the south Atlantic and gulf regions of the United States. It somewhat resembles a potato; can be baked and boiled and fried like a potato. But it has this esthetic difference. When nicely cooked, it turns a delicate violet shade.

Makes Fingers Itch.

Although grown in the south it is to be found in the northern market. By the way, if you're buying your first one, don't be alarmed if your fingers itch when you start to scrape the vegetable. The irritation comes from tiny crystals of calcium oxalate in the uncooked dasheen. When you're scraping the outer skin, just keep your hands wet with a solution of water and washing soda. That's not usually necessary when you are merely paring the vegetable.

BAKED DASHEEN—Moderate oven, about the same as for potatoes, although the time needed for cooking dasheens is usually a little less than that for potatoes of the same size. Those weighing more than a pound may be cut in half from top to base. When done, serve immediately, seasoning with pepper and salt and plenty of butter.

Cousin of Cucumber.

Another Americanized alien is the chayote, pronounced chi-ó-ty. It is a cousin to the cucumber and a kin of the climbing squash. Only it retains shape much better than the squash does when cooked, and so can be stuffed with great artistic effectiveness. Some chayote gourmets say it tastes like stewed oysters. It is a native of Mexico and Central America, and it is also popular in Paris and in Tokio.

CHAYOTE BAKED WITH CHEESE—Pare and slice the chayotes and place in a saucepan with a piece of salt pork. Cook until tender in just enough water to cook them. Season with paprika and salt.

When tender remove the slices with a skimmer and place in a baking dish. Prepare a white sauce, using water in which the chayotes were cooked and some milk. Pour this over the chayotes. Cover with grated cheese and bread crumbs; add bits of butter. Bake to a golden brown.

What about bamboo sprouts? You're quite mistaken if you think their only use is for chop suey or straw hats. They can be creamed and they can be used in salad. Coming originally from the orient, they demand a mild climate, and the government is encouraging their growth as a new southern crop.

Miss Rosemary Loughlin, formerly of the University of Chicago, is busy here at the bureau with jars and jars of them. Some are in salt water, some in salt brine. Some are spiced with ginger; some are tart with vinegar. For Miss Loughlin is carrying on an experiment right now to determine the best way to pickle and preserve the bamboo sprout.

More about that later.

IOWA PIKE'S PEAK HAS SUNDAY LURE FOR PICNICKERS

Historic Spot Loses None of Its Scenic Charm.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Picnic on Pike's peak!

There's sorcery in those words out in the Hawkeye state. Pike's peak is the Sunday sanctuary of Iowa where midland poets come to dream and flatland peasants to eat bananas.

Pike's peak itself is not of the prairies. Rising 500 feet above McGregor, Ia., it is at the hub of that small unglaciated section of the midwest comprising a corner of Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Illinois—oft termed "the Switzerland of America," by Midlanders. The section is characterized by great bluffs, deep valleys, swift flowing streams, virgin forests, with but few hints of the prairie.

Iowaland was discovered by white men on June 17, 1763. On that day Father Marquette and Louis Joliet with five voyagers in birch canoes glided out of the swirling Wisconsin upon the mighty Mississippi to view the towering verdured bluff which Lieut. Zebulon Montgomery Pike was to rediscover 131 years later. Like Pike's peak, Colo., this eminence was named for him.

The French soldier of fortune and the great missionary climbed a high hill on the Wisconsin shore, viewed the majestic panorama spread before them, gave thanks to God and claimed the land in the name of the king of France. Today after 280 years the conjury of this scene is unimpaired—each summer finds the motor caravans winding to this spot growing longer and longer.

Set Out for a Picnic.

I have been going there all my life. Let me take you up the steep and tortuous road from McGregor—two miles or so—for a picnic. We approach from the rear and suddenly through a clearing the whole river scene is disclosed.

First, though, we have a glass of lemonade—the icy water comes from springs brought up a hundred feet up the steep cliffside. Have a deviled egg and wrap yourself around some of that potato salad. Potato chips will do for picnics in Lincoln park but you need at least three varieties of the real old fashioned salad on the so-called Father of Waters. Incidentally, it seems wrong to call the Mississippi "father" or Ol' Man River. Why not the Mother of Waters whose broad bosom draws unto it a hundred, perhaps a thousand lesser streams? For countless ages it has nurtured the great valley of America.

Thanks to the Izaak Walton league, congress has come to recognize the river's great strength, fertility and beauty. It has set aside forever a stretch of 100 miles of this valley, with this point approximately at its center, as a fish, bird and game refuge. It has saved its lace work of green islands, its braided blue channels, its shimmering pools in which grow rare lotus blossoms, against the invasions of men.

Once a Happy Hunting Ground.

For uncounted centuries this spot, at the confluence of the Wisconsin and the Mississippi has been all that the Redskins could have imagined their happy hunting grounds. The river abounding in fish of a hundred varieties; sloughs with myriad ducks and geese fattened on wild maize; the woods and open country filled with deer, rabbits, squirrel and innumerable other animals that fell before the arrow, made it an Indian Elysium. Bee trees with honey, hillsides covered with berries, grapes, plums, cherries, walnuts, hickory nuts, butternuts—a year round feast. Pheasants too. The season is open only a few days in autumn now, so we have none of this, the finest of all game dishes, today.

But we have the first fried chicken of the season. Help yourself to a drum stick and a wishbone, and hook on to a sandwich spread with grape jam. How about some more lemonade? It gets hot enough in midafternoon here, but it will be cool before we leave.

Now look down on sunny Prairie du Chien across the river nestling against the Wisconsin hills. Today life is placid there, but a century ago the place was the most turbulent in the new northwest. "Old Zach," later President Zachary Taylor, held sway in his rough way over Fort Crawford, the guardian of a new region. Here Young Jeff Davis, as a lieutenant fresh from West Point, spent his days cutting logs [not splitting rails like Abe Lincoln], chasing Indians, and his nights wooing Sarah Knox Taylor, the fairest flower of Old Zachary's three.

A Historical Romance.

Col. Taylor did not choose to have his daughter live a life of hardship as his own wife had—trailing him from one frontier post to another. He forbade his daughter to see Young Jeff. They went on together, however, and Davis was transferred to a post in the southwest through intervention of Col. Taylor. But love found a way.

When I was a child I heard often the romantic, but untrue story of Jefferson Davis' return and elopement with Sarah Knox Taylor. At night he came to Fort Crawford, lifted his sweetheart through a window, which one may still see in its crumbled ruins, stole away with her in the night across the Mississippi to McGregor below us, where a sympathetic priest married them.

What really happened was this: Sarah and Jefferson wrote to each other, made plans to meet in Kentucky. Jeff resigned from the army, came from the southwest to St. Louis, met Sarah at Louisville, where they were married at her uncle's home.

On her wedding day she wrote a letter to her mother, asking her to seek forgiveness of her father. Sarah and Jeff moved to a plantation on the Mississippi near Vicksburg. But Sarah never saw her father again, for she soon became ill of a southern fever and died a young bride.

Let's try the field glasses. Perhaps we can see what remains of Old Fort Crawford today. No. It's too far, or I don't know just where to point. But there are a few walls still standing on St. Mary's college campus. It is an outsanding, historic spot—one of the few in the midwest associated with the early days of the republic.

Don't Forget the Lunch.

But back to food. We've got to get started on the tryfess—I'm not so certain of the spelling—but you know that old fashioned fruit salad. And pickles, we've been overlooking them. Sliced cucumber? Red beet? Whitney crabs? Peach? Watermelon? And try the baked beans. Once get behind at a picnic and you never can catch up. We haven't made a decent dent on that market basketful of sandwiches—dried beef, baked ham, cheese—the cheese from the neighborhood factory. Take one in each hand.

Ninety-nine years ago this month Abe Lincoln and Jeff Davis were on the same side of a war: They were chasing Black Hawk across northern Illinois and across the wilds of western Wisconsin. Black Hawk made his last stand against the white men at Bad Axe Bend, perhaps thirty miles up-stream. When he was finally captured it was Jefferson Davis who was assigned to take him down the river to Jefferson Barracks, whence he was taken east and exhibited, and also taken before President Jackson.

The defeat of Black Hawk opened up the trans-Mississippi country and there began shortly that great westward migration into Iowa, and Minnesota, which led to the ultimate settling of the entire northwest.

On such an afternoon there are strawberries and real cream and several kinds of cake—always one with chocolate frosting, not icing. Pie and more pie. And the lemonade hardly ever gives out. There may be other things to eat—there are in fact, but what of it. Finally comes the stage when you may believe you have been eating lotus blossoms instead of lettuce and you give yourself up to relaxation, and perhaps to sleep under the skies for a while.

SOUR LITTLE LEMON HAS WIDE FIELD OF USES ABOUT HOME

Few realize how valuable the sour little lemon is in the home. We all appreciate its value as a cold drink in hot weather and a hot drink when we have taken cold or when it is included in a delicious lemon meringue pie, but the lemon has many additional uses in the home. The juice of half a lemon in a glass of water taken a short time before breakfast every morning is very beneficial. Lemon juice acts as a stimulant in toning up a sluggish liver and in that way tones up the entire system.

Teeth treated regularly night and morning with lemon juice and water applied with a soft brush will show a noticeable difference in even two weeks' time, however particular one may have been in the care of them. Lemons are extremely valuable in the manicure, in a lemon rinse for cleansing and whitening the hands, and for the complexion when equal parts of glycerin and lemon juice are mixed.

REQUIRE MORE WHITE CHICKEN IN MEAT SALAD?

Cooking Secret Makes Dark Adaptable.

BY META GIVEN.

Mrs. F. P. writes: "My family and guests are fond of my chicken salad, but it is an expensive salad when only the white meat is used. I do not like the appearance of a salad made of both dark and white meat. Is there any way to extend the white meat of the chicken by using canned mushrooms?"

Because so many recipes particularly specify the breast of chicken or the white meat for salad and because we are so well satisfied with salad made according to those recipes many of us have come to think that only white meat is adapted to the making of a salad. But this is not true. The so-called dark meat has just as good flavor or better than the white. And its appearance is just as attractive if the chicken is carefully cooked.

Choose a roasting chicken or a boiling chicken that is not too fat. Dress, wash, and chill in the usual way, leaving the fowl whole. If there are thick layers of fat on the inside, peel these out and render out fat for other cooking purposes.

Wrap in White Cloth.

When ready to cook, wrap the chicken in a clean white cloth at least a yard square. Tie with string. Put the wrapped chicken into a kettle and cover with boiling water. Add the salt. Heat over a high flame until the water again reaches the boiling point, then reduce to a simmering heat and cook until the chicken is tender. The time required for cooking will depend upon the age and size of the chicken. A year old fowl weighing about 5 pounds should cook sufficiently tender in about two hours.

When the chicken has cooked this long, loosen the cloth on one end and test for tenderness by piercing with a fork. The chicken should cook only until tender, but not a minute longer. When tender, remove the fowl, leaving the cloth on until cool. When cool unwrap the cloth and put the chicken in the ice box and chill thoroughly before attempting to take the meat from the bones. There is a trick to stripping the meat away from the carcass. It should be removed in as large pieces as possible.

Meat Is Easily Removed.

If care is used the meat from the breast should peel off in two large pieces and that on the thigh and drumstick should be removed in one or not more than two large pieces. Separate the skin and gristle from the meat and add to the bones for soup making. Cut the meat into neat dice not smaller than ½ inch. All of it will be found equally white.

CHICKEN SALAD.
1 cup celery, cut in small pieces.
Lettuce.
Capers and celery tips for garnish.

Mix chicken and celery lightly with the chicken salad dressing. Serve on lettuce and garnish.

CHICKEN SALAD DRESSING.
½ cup vinegar.
5 egg yolks, slightly beaten.
2 tablespoons mixed mustard.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon pepper.
Few grains cayenne.
1-3 cup melted butter.

Obtain the stock by reducing liquid in which fowl has been cooked to ½ cup. Add vinegar, egg yolks, and seasonings to stock. Cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture begins to thicken. Strain, add cream and butter. Cool.

45 Pound Roast Makes 35 Dinners

When this rib roast of beef has been sliced up, 35 diners will eat prime quality, but not prepared from yearling stock. According to Desire Kiffer, chef in an exclusive downtown club, the most tasty beef consists of the select cuts from more aged animals, some home economics experts to the contrary. The roast weighed 45 pounds before it was on the fire.

NINE QUALIFICATIONS OF GOOD LOOKING GIRL ARE LISTED BY COLLEGE

Nine qualifications of a good looking girl were listed by the home economics division of the University of Minnesota to girls attending a recent junior short course in household management.

First on the list was a clear, smooth skin, rosy cheeks and red lips. Other points included bright, clear eyes without dark circles under them; smooth, glossy hair; strong, white teeth; firm strong muscles; good posture when sitting and standing; normal weight, from seven per cent below to 10 per cent above the weight considered normal considering height; happy, good natured disposition, and energy and pep for both work and play.

This recipe for good looks is merely the recipe for a 100 per cent healthy girl, according to the home economics authorities. They advocate three things for girls who want to be healthy and good looking:

First—Sleeping should be at night, at least nine hours of it with windows open.

Second—Play or work outdoors at least an hour every day.

Third—Eat three regular meals every day. Milk or cocoa is suggested instead of tea or coffee; vegetable other than potato instead of a second helping of meat; as much dark bread as white; dark breakfast food as often as light; green vegetable or salad daily; fruit dessert at least once a day instead of pie, cake, or pudding; oranges or tomatoes for breakfast instead of griddle cakes, sausage, and coffee; fruit, bread, and butter, or milk, for lunches between meals, instead of candy, pop, hot dogs, or ice cream.

BIBLICAL MANNA BEING STUDIED BY HEBREW SCHOOL

The Hebrew university at Jerusalem has been making a careful study of manna, the mysterious food product which the Israelites were sustained while wandering in the desert. Scientists at the university have concluded that manna contained sugar, glucose, frutose and saccarose and came from the sap of a species of tamarisk tree. The manna is formed when a tiny insect pierces the bark and causes the sap to exude and crystallize in white grains.

MOST DINNER MENUS REFLECT LOWER PRICES

Hotel Managers Tell of Food Bargains.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Managers of Chicago's popular eating places are agreed that they are giving the public its money's worth for dinners and luncheons, although a survey yesterday indicated that they were adopting various means of taking advantage of lower prices for meats, vegetables, and other foods.

One manager answered the question of whether lower prices were in effect by giving a definite "no" for a reply. It was pointed out that last week a meat parade told the public that wholesale prices were down about 25 per cent on many meats and that retail prices were from 25 to 27 per cent lower than a year ago.

"Our prices have remained the same. After all, the best meat is naturally the most scarce of cuts available to buyers, for we estimate that one per cent of a beef carcass can be served as prime meat, the rest being more moderately priced cuts," the manager said.

Find Another Result.

"On this high class meat the decline in price probably has been about 6 per cent from a year ago. I remember two years ago we served sirloin steaks as a service and even lost money on them at $2."

But let another hotel man describe the effect of lower priced supplies. It is the claim of a maitre d'hotel in one of Chicago's loop hotels that the management has never thought the time would come when table d'hote would be on the menu.

"Now we have to strive for volume, and that change which we thought would never occur has been one means of stimulating business. Patrons are even willing to sit on a stool at a lunch counter or disregard the matter of time if they can get luncheons and dinners for less. The finest people today eat at the counter.

Reduce Prices on Dinners.

"Meat prices are down. We have acknowledged that with a price reduction in dinners. Steak dinners are served at $1.50 and $2. In 1929 these same dinners at this hotel would have cost $2 and $2.50. The portions have remained the same size."

Some of those interviewed cited other costs which have not changed. Some said wages have remained as they were, along with the cost of replacing broken china and rent. Other hotel men answered that help had received one or even two cuts in wages in the last year.

Fruits and Vegetables Cheaper.

To get back to the sirloin steak dinner, around which the discussion centered, one manager looked at menus of two and three years ago. He found his hotel was serving the same quality now for $2, whereas in 1929 the dinners with sirloin as the principal dish had cost patrons $4 and $5 a year ago were priced at $3 and $4.

The hotel men agreed that the public was getting the full advantage of less expensive fresh fruits and vegetables, dairy and produce, and meats, either in the usual lower priced meal or in more generous portions.

FLOWERS FOR GIRL LED TO INVENTION OF ICE CREAM CONE

Millions and millions of ice cream cones are being consumed this summer without any one stopping to think just how the ice cream cone came to be. Well, like many other inventions, it was discovered more or less accidentally. You may not believe it, but this little bit of "straw" wrapped around the bottom of a five cent scoop of frozen milk did not make its appearance until 1904. The first ice cream cone was made at the St. Louis exposition that year. It happened this way. A young ice cream salesman in the habit of taking his "sweetie" flowers found it also convenient to take her ice cream sandwiched between two waffles at the same time. One day this "sweetie" found herself without a vase for her flowers. So she took one of the waffle sides of the ice cream sandwich, rolled it into a cone shaped vase, then put her flowers therein. Not only did it serve as a temporary vase, but it furnished the idea for the ice cream cone, so popular and convenient today. One single company now produces more than 100,000,000 cones annually.

CITY OF MEXICO BOASTS HOUSE MAIDS' MARKET

Jobless Gather Mondays to Meet Madam.

BY MARIA T. MARTINEZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—American women who become housekeepers in Mexico City are not long in discovering a new kind of market, a mart that functions but once a week, and is perhaps the only one of its kind in the world. Among women of the American colony, this is known as the "Monday Morning Maids' Market." It has been known to generations of Mexican housewives, for the strange labor exchange has been in existence for several centuries.

Direct action is the basis upon which this unique labor exchange operates. There are no fees and no waiting—on the part of the patronesses—no red tape; just a matter of getting there before 8 a. m., making your selection, and taking them home with you.

As dawn breaks each Monday morning, women of the servant class of all ages may be seen making their way through the dark and chilly streets to the corner of two of this city's principal thoroughfares—16 de Septiembre and Bolivar streets. There they wait until madam comes on foot, or drives up in her car.

Sit Before Shuttered Doors.

There they patiently stand or sit before the shuttered doors of the stores—each of them wrapped in shawls that reach to their aprons, but do not quite conceal their long hair done in pigtails down the back.

The younger women chatter like magpies as they wait, each anticipating what the day may bring forth for her. The older women are usually silent, except for mumbling prayers to their patron saints. No "kidding" with policemen, newsboys, street car conductors, or bus men, for them. They are intent upon getting that job this morning. If they fail it will mean perhaps another long week of wondering where meals are coming from. The custom in Mexico is to engage servants on Monday morning. Seldom if ever are new household workers hired on any other day. Hence the justification of the market.

Newsboys who sell tabloid newspapers and peddlers of candy do pretty well at this market. Some of the waiting girls show business acumen. One will invest a whole five centavos [about two and a half cents] in a tab, and after she has looked at it, rents it to others at two centavos each. That most Mexican servant girls are a bit modern, is demonstrated by the frequent use of powder puffs by these job hunters.

Prospective Mistresses Appear.

As seven strikes, the waiting throng becomes animated. A few minutes later prospective mistresses appear. Unlike other Mexican markets, there is little or no bargaining. There are, however, incipient spats between girls who happen to attract the lady's attention at the same time. Nevertheless, within a few minutes, you can pick out your new cook, chambermaid, waitress, girl of all work, or kitchen helper, and be on your way home. Some women engage a whole feminine household staff in a few minutes. Others are not so easily pleased. The market ends promptly at 8, for at that hour the street begins to be crowded with people hastening to work in offices and stores. Job hunters who have been unsuccessful scatter, awaiting the next Monday.

REPORT VITAMIN B IMPORTANT FACTOR IN MENTAL GROWTH

Two scientists of the Sprague Memorial Institute, University of Chicago, have discovered that normal mental development depends largely upon the presence of a sufficient amount of vitamin B in the diet. They claim that a diet deficient in this important vitamin during infancy may be the cause of backwardness in learning ability in children and adults. Home economics specialists in nutrition at Iowa State college say a shortage of this all important substance in the diet of babies may cause fretfulness. If your baby is thin, scrawny, fretful, lacks a hearty appetite and fails to grow, look well into the vitaman B content of the youngster's diet, they advise.

FOUR NEWSPAPERS GAGGED IN CUBA BY CENSORSHIP

HAVANA, Cuba, June 25.—(AP)—The government clamped a censorship on four Havana newspapers today in retaliation for repeated criticism of the administration. The dailies affected are Diario de la Marina, El Mundo, Informacion, and El Pais, all of which were suspended entirely several months ago, but later were permitted to resume publication.

One of the censors said El Pais was the only journal which had offered serious objection to censorship. The secretary of the interior characterized the government's move as not constituting an actual censorship, "because the censors who have been appointed will act merely in an advisory capacity, giving counsel merely on dubious stories."

Rafael Angullo, president of the Cuban Press association, said tonight that organization would carry a protest direct to President Machado against imposition of the censorship. He characterized the government's action as "overstepping of authority."

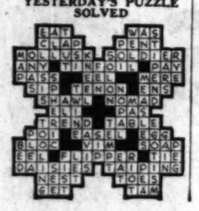
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



Vacationers . . .

Arrange now for a safe milk supply

YOU and your children, of course, will drink lots of milk and eat fresh vegetables during your vacation. That is the way to capture the benefits of sunshine and fresh air.

But be sure that your milk supply comes from inspected cows and is pasteurized. A great deal of milk sold to vacationers comes from unsupervised herds and is not pasteurized.

If you will spend your vacation at or near one of the points mentioned at left, you can enjoy the full security of safe, delicious pasteurized milk—also from the same source you can secure delicious butter and cream, fresh flavory eggs, thirst-quenching buttermilk and flaky cottage cheese.

Clip the coupon and mail it or put it in an empty milk bottle for your Borden Milkman, or phone Franklin 3107, giving your vacation address and when you arrive—and we will see that service is arranged.

If you are spending your vacation in regions not covered from these points, it is quite likely that we can give you the name of a reliable milk dealer.

New Rosman Novel Depicts Slighted Child

Tar Baby's Tragedy Is Feature of Book.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

ALICE GRANT ROSMAN, the English writer who has endeared herself to thousands of American readers with her first three books, "The Window," "Visitors to Hugo," and "The Young and Fair," has added another to her list of successes in "The Sixth Journey" [Minton Balch], published today. It is a novel whose appeal lies not in its style, though that is bright and sprightly, but in its very human characters which are portrayed so vividly that they are bound to linger in the memory for many a long day.

ALICE GRANT ROSMAN.

Mrs. Rosman is interested primarily in people. She loves and understands them; she sees their frailties and smiles at them. Her pen is never dipped in the acid ink of satire. If she can draw a beautiful and sensitive portrait of a child, sometimes an author seems unable to accomplish. Too many youngsters in books are preternaturally brilliant, or altogether too angelic to exist, or so artificial that they seem puppets rather than children.

Judy Falconer in "The Sixth Journey" really lives. Here is a child that can stand beside Anne of Green Gables and Lady Jane, and if we have never made their acquaintance we have missed a great deal in your youth. Like Heidi and Beppo and the Little Lame Prince they are beautiful enough to hundreds of grown ups to be not too far away from the wonder of their childhood to remember with vividness many of its great delights.

But "The Sixth Journey" is not, of course, a book for the young. It is only has a quite remarkable picture of a young girl in it. This Judy Falconer and theme of the book [and is the reader by far the most essential, while the other is concerned with the romance of John Falconer, famous English architect, and Mary Revel, a woman who devotes 10 years of her life to her war cripple brother and at his death returns home to find herself almost a stranger in her own home and dubbed 'old' by her ultra modern stepsister and sister.

John Falconer is the father of a little girl whose mother he never married. The latter was a music hall entertainer and their brief affair was one of the many brought on by the madness of the war. He does not even know about the existence of the child until four years later when he has married to an exquisite, but frosty Englishwoman named Sylvia. Sylvia finds out about little Judy first, and insists on adopting her. She's one of those imperious, managing ladies who does not seem to get a powerful lot in life until she has Judy call her father's identity a secret from her. He is merely "Uncle John" to the child.

The four youngster is shunted back and forth among the relatives. Sylvia dies and when John announces his intention of marrying Hilary Revel, Judy is sent off to the country to live with a devilish cruel nurse, named Ann. To me, the father never had been close to his own child. He never had had her when she was a baby and his family saw to it that he never really had her later, for they bitterly disapproved of her father and passed the hatred on to their daughter. Fenced about by relatives, John Falconer allows things to happen to his child that would make most parents' blood run cold.

In the end a crisis is bound to occur, and does. What it is I'll leave to you to discover, for this makes the most exciting reading in the book. The sixth journey is the last Judy makes and the first happy one in her life.

There's one jolly person in the novel—Prue, a cousin of Judy's, who stands by her when Aunt Gertrude makes her miserable. Prue is quick to recognize the glint of a wolf's eye in a sheep's woolly pate. She is a passionate lover of the truth and a despiser of cruelty in any form. It is she who tries to arouse Hilary and John to action. It is she who steals away to see Judy in the country and takes her oranges and a 10 shilling note. It is she who is the real gentleman of the book, so to speak.

Appealing, too, is Hilary, with her idealistic ambition of not "managing" her fiancée as he has been "managed" all his life by women. Feeling that she, perhaps, was wrong in taking her invalid brother away from the family so they would not be saddened by his suffering, she decides after his death never to interfere with destiny's little plans again, and it is this reluctance to intrude in the life of another that makes her hesitate when Prue tells her of Judy's situation.

Does she interfere, and is it too late to be effective? Read "The Sixth Journey" and find out for yourselves. You'll like this novel with its pathos and its lighter side.

The story appeared first as a serial in THE TRIBUNE.

"BAGDAD ON HUDSON" TAKES LEAD FOR OUTSIDERS' WEDDINGS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Among the people who come to this town for reasons best known to themselves, may be found a lot of love birds. In fact ten thousand out-of-town couples come here every year to get married. It was revealed at the license bureau here today that New York is the greatest marrying town in the world for everybody except the home folk.

The local demand for marriage licenses accounts for less than two-thirds of the business. This city never has been noted as a matrimonial center for local residents. Most young men in New York find it hard enough to support themselves and most of the girls are independent.

The trains and boats and busses, however, bring their daily loads of romantic young people eager to be shown the way to the license bureau.

In the last twelve months 10,472 couples flocked to this town to get hitched. Approximately 30 per cent of the ceremonies were performed in the Little Church Around the Corner, made famous by fiction writers. In the past the little church got an even larger percentage of out-of-town wedding parties. The municipal chapel, hotels and some of the other open-seven-days-in-the-week churches are cutting in on the marriage business, however, and the little church will have to look to its laurels.

Middle westerners lead the list of couples coming here for matrimonial purposes, according to hotel managers. A lot of them from the small cities and towns, it was explained, can escape notices in their home town papers. On the other hand some of them like to have it recorded in the paper that they were "married in New York." At the Hotel Astor it was recalled that one season the hotel took care of a dozen graduates of one western university here for matrimonial purposes.

The distance record for this season was won by a couple from Japan. They travelled all the way to Manhattan to get married. Buffalo may hold honeymoon records on account of Niagara Falls but New York has a safe lead on out-of-town weddings.

Concerts Urged as Way to Stir Public's Spirit

Mayor Calls Notables to Meeting on Monday.

In an effort to obtain support for a series of municipal band concerts in Grant park this summer Mayor Cermak yesterday planned the formation of a civic commission whose members will be asked to raise funds to support the concert program.

V. J. GRABEL.

In his letter to 40 public spirited citizens who are asked to accept membership on the commission, Mayor Cermak expressed the opinion that the concerts will prove of great value because of the anxiety in our present economic situation generally.

"Entirely aside from the art, cultural, and educational side of the project, the whole plan seems to me one of greatest importance from the viewpoint of public policy, the mayor said. "In these times, many thousands need any and all the cheer that can be given, to the end that public spirit and morale may be maintained at a high level."

The Chicago Band Concert association which is sponsoring the plan announced yesterday that a 70 piece concert band is now rehearsing under the leadership of Victor J. Grabel and that the band would be able to start the concert season in ten days.

A site for a band shell has been provided by the south park commissioners south of Buckingham fountain and north of the Field museum. There, the commissioners plan to erect a band shell and seating facilities. According to the present plan 40 concerts would be given during the summer. The concerts would be held four evenings a week between 8 and 10 o'clock. It is understood that $65,000 is necessary to assure the carrying out of the concert series.

Mayor Cermak asked persons invited to become members of the commission to meet in his office Monday afternoon at 4 p. m. to devise means of raising the necessary funds. Invitations were sent to forty civic leaders including Max Adler, Benjamin F. Affleck, Knowlton L. Ames Jr., Herman Black, Leon V. Becker, Britton I. Budd, Robert F. Carr, Judge Marcus Kavanagh, Philip R. Clarke, Rufus C. Dawes, Clyde H. De Acres, Charles H. Dennis, George W. Dixon, Milton Florsheim, Homer Guck, William M. Cahn, John A. Holabird, Edward N. Hurley Sr., Edward J. Kelly, Benjamin F. Lindheimer, Chauncey McCormick, Harold F. McCormick, Col. Robert R. McCormick, Judge John P. McGoorty, Stuyvesant Peabody, Col. A. A. Sprague, Elmer T. Stevens, Frederick A. Stock, Silas H. Strawn, S. E. Thomason, Melvin A. Traylor, Ezra J. Warner, William Wrigley Jr., and Oscar Mayer.

Sally Selects 100 Boys and Girls for Season's First Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Your letters have been read, boys and girls, and the hundred winners who will receive invitations to our White City party have been selected. There were a number of really excellent letters whose writers made it quite clear to me that they would have reveled in such a party but cannot send them invitations because they didn't follow the rules.

In one case, the writer failed to give me her address; another signed only his first name; and there were several who neglected to tell their ages. I cannot invite them to our party, because of this and I am extremely sorry, for many of them were such good letters and the boys and girls who wrote them were apparently very eager to attend. In writing for future parties be sure that you do not neglect these items—name, address and age—for they are important.

The names of the winners will appear in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE and with them will be news of another exciting party.

LAKE BREEZE HELPS SINGERS TO PRESENT 'AIDA' AS MASTERPIECE

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The justly famous lake breeze did its act of kindness to Ravinia late yesterday afternoon. So the Ravinia company responded in the evening by putting on one of the best "Aïda" performances it has been the fortune of these ears to hear.

As far as the soloists were concerned, there was just about a perfect balance; more than that, a balance of brilliancy. Elisabeth Rethberg's voice in the name rôle was all velvet; that of Giovanni Martinelli as Radames was a mellow trumpet that resolutely kept itself within the limits of good tone making and hence was superb singing.

And there was Ina Bourskaya as Amneris, visualizing in flesh and blood a picture of ancient Egypt, singing the Verdi music as though it were a vocal rhapsody and adding to both picture and song the bit of fire which is her own personal secret. Likewise there were stirring performances of those other rôles which occupy the stage for less time, but yet are of high importance, Giuseppe Danise as Amonasro, Virgilio Lazzari as Ramfis, Louis D'Angelo as the king, great artists all and at the top of their several abilities.

It has not been forgotten and it should not be that there was a great dual vitalising force down in the orchestra pit. One part of it consisted of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the other of the conductor, Gennaro Papi. The orchestra did its bit by playing with a beauty of tone that I have never heard equaled in any "Aïda" performance for twenty years back. Mr. Papi did his by directing a performance for which in shrewd estimate of musical possibilities, in brisk yet suave realization thereof, it is necessary to hark back to the days of Toscanini.

Chicago Sales of Clothing in Year Are Told

$156,554,792 Total for Ready Made, Tailored.

From head to toes, exclusive, Pa Dearborn is at last paying as much for his own sartorial outfits as he always has for Ma Dearborn's. Statistics cited by the Association of Commerce show that by the last available annual figures, women's ready to wear shops turned in a total of $69,675,512 in sales, while the corresponding establishments for men did a business of $86,897,280. All this probably includes sales to those thousands of visitors who shop in Chicago.

Sweet sixteen or perfect forty-four, Ma Dearborn and the girls manage to find costumes to their liking, all ready to don, whereas masculine vanity prompts Pa Dearborn to patronize his own tailor whenever his finances permit, in preference to wearing ready-made apparel. This tendency would appear to be proved in the total of $16,990,000 men spent in this community for tailored clothes during the year, while the dressmaking bills for the feminine contingent were only a mere $492,000.

Just here, however, the balance begins to swing the other way. For when it comes to millinery, Ma Dearborn's bonnets account for an annual expenditure of $8,100,000, while pa's hats use up only $2,205,000. It's the same with shoes. Women in Chicago are paying $9,260,000 to pound the pavements, while the men's pedal requirements amount to only $2,400,000.

Mountains of silk hosiery and frothy lingerie vended each twelve months by the stores of the city make the scales wobble still more in favor of the men. And when the annual feminine purchases of furs are piled on top of that there isn't much left of the excess pa rated through his indulgence in tailormades.

Discovery of Lake Geneva, 100 Yrs. Ago, to Be Celebrated

The 100th anniversary of the discovery of Lake Geneva, Wis., will be celebrated with a historical pageant today and tomorrow. The pageant, to be presented in eight episodes, will start at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Fontana, Wis. There a boulder on the lake shore marks the site of Chief Big Foot's Indian village 100 years ago. At 4 o'clock the scene will change to the Big Foot Country club nearby. There the dedication and unveiling of a historical marker, a gift of the Big Foot Country club to the Historical society, will take place.

Characters of a century ago to be depicted will include members of the John H. Kinzie party, as described in Mrs. Kinzie's book, "Wau-Bun," frontiersmen, traders, and missionaries. Visiting Indians will reënact the ancient ceremony of worship.

Tomorrow evening there will be a parade of yachts in charge of William Nelson Pelouze and Ernst C. Schmidt, and an address by Dr. Charles E. Brown, director of the State Historical museum at Madison, Wis.

Among the Lake Geneva summer colonists assisting with arrangements for the pageant are Mrs. Robert Tarrant, chairman, Dr. Otto L. Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartholomay.

Los Angeles Banker Heads Templars; Help Hoover Uphold Laws

Minneapolis, Minn., June 25.—(AP)—Perry W. Weidner, Los Angeles banker, today was elected most eminent grand master of the Knights Templar for a three year term, succeeding William L. Sharp, Chicago. Weidner has been right eminent grand master since 1928. Harry C. Walker, Binghamton, N. Y., was elected to succeed him to this post, while the position he vacated, grand generalissimo, was filled by Andrew D. Agnew, Milwaukee. Informal approval was given San Francisco as the site for the next triennial encampment in 1934 with its formal designation expected Friday.

A telegram pledging the support for the laws and institutions of the nation was sent to President Hoover late today by Knights Templar. The telegram follows:

"The grand encampment of Knights Templar, in triennial conclave assembled, herewith transmit to you, as chief magistrate of the republic, its sincere and unqualified expression of loyalty and fealty.

"We pledge ourselves anew to support of laws and institutions of our country and those vested with authority thereunder. It is our belief that America's true destiny may be achieved only if loyal citizens everywhere entertain a sense of individual responsibility for the attainment of that destiny. In this spirit, Templary rededicates itself in devotion to America."

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—Eddie Cantor's never been to Europe. So when the boss at United Artists thought it might be a good idea for him to appear personally with his new picture, "Palmy Days," in London, Berlin, and Paris Eddie thought so, too. The misus and the little Cantors will stay home, because Eddie will be making five appearances a day and will have to hustle back here for another talkie in early autumn. He leaves in about four weeks. Charlotte Greenwood is his lead in "Palmy Days."

While jumping contests between frogs and horned toads are enlivening the layman in this section Charlie Bickford and M. G. M. are putting on a contest of their own. The red headed actor jumped from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer last spring after a huffy session over a story executives wanted him to make, then became reconciled and rejoined the studio. This week Charlie got huffy again and his contract has been dissolved, with mutual feelings of relief. Bickford will either join another studio, stick to his garage business here, or take a cruise on his yacht, and if the weather continues at the 95 point in Hollywood for a fourth successive day it is almost a cinch the yacht will get the call.

Another of the Eaton family follows Doris, Pearl Mary into films. He's young brother Joe, just signed to play in "Are These Our Children?" at Radio Pictures studio.

John Farrow is trying to interest producers here in making a film which would show pre-historic men of 20,000 years ago in adventures and romances.

Warner Brothers is going to run what it tentatively calls "A Radio Newsreel of Hollywood," a 52 week serial broadcast, which will have a continued story running through the series, with the purpose of interesting and educating the public in making talkies. All the Warner and First National stars will get into it, from Arliss and Barrymore to Joe E. Brown.

It isn't often that Mary Pickford's and Joan Crawford's views coincide absolutely, as of course the case with stepmothers and stepdaughters the world over, but there was an exception this week. Mary and Joan found the same vehement expressions of denial and distaste to greet the rumor that a little stranger in the home of Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Joan might shortly be calling Mary "grandma."

When Mrs. Helene Lubitsch secured her final divorce decree from the director yesterday she was questioned about rumors of her engagement to wed Hans Kraly, scenarist, with whom Ernst Lubitsch had a fist fight over Mrs. Lubitsch last year. At this stage it developed that Kraly is not divorced from his present wife in Germany, and Mrs. Lubitsch said, "Mr. Kraly and I talked the matter over a few days ago, with the result there will be no announcement of an engagement." Lubitsch said he did not care to discuss the reports of his betrothal to Ona Munson, recently divorced from Eddie Buzzell, the comedian.

John Gilbert goes cowboy in his next film for M-G-M, "West of Broadway," which Harry Beaumont will direct and which will use El Brendel for comic relief.

With a bench warrant still unserved on her for busting the window panes and conservative Sunday evening dinner of her ex-husband, Luther Reed, and his host, Jocelyn Lee has departed for Hawaii. She got out of Cedars of Lebanon hospital ten days ago, following an abdominal operation.

Rita Stanwood voluntarily retired from the screen and stage about ten years ago and to Hollywood became Mrs. H. B. Warner. Now she's back on the talking screen in a part in RKO's "The Sphinx Has Spoken," under her old screen name. She was an old Triangle actress.

BEG PARDON!

Mrs. Victoria Rusek, principal in a divorce action in the Superior court, does not live at 4358 South Maplewood avenue, as was stated in a recent item, according to Stanley Prihodski, owner of a pharmacy at that address.

An item, reporting the rescue of four persons from a speed boat which caught fire in the lake near the docks of the Edgewater Beach hotel, said that the wrecked boat was owned by the Rapid Water Transit company. A. Hughes, secretary of the transit company, said this boat did not belong to the company. One of the company's boats went to the rescue of the other craft and aided in removing the passengers.

Church Merger Ratified for Million Persons

Congregational-Christian Union Now Official.

Seattle, Wash., June 25.—(AP)—Formal action which merged the Congregationalists and the Christian church, with a combined membership of more than a million, was taken at a joint convention here late today.

A new constitution providing for the union was approved at separate assemblies. The united group will have the congregational moderator and the christian president at co-moderators.

The Rev. Carl H. Patton, D. D., proctor of the First Congregational church, Los Angeles, was elected moderator of the National Congregational council and thereby becomes co-moderator of the newly formed union.

The majority of the Christian churches involved are located in the states of the Mississippi valley and the southeast. The churches affected total 6,670 in this country, with a communicant membership of 1,050,000 and a constituency, including adherents, of about 3,000,000.

The foreign missions of the two groups already have been merged under the American board of commissioners for foreign missions. The missions are in 16 foreign countries, where 850 American missionaries and more than 6,000 nationals are employed.

Those who led the negotiations for the union believed it was the beginning of a new trend in church life and will be followed by other mergers. They hoped other denominations will join with them to form a group large enough to warrant the use of the name, the United Church of Christ in America.

An announcement said the convention would consider current world problems from a religious standpoint and afford churchmen "opportunity for free discussion of religious problems without fear of being unorthodox."

"The Church and the New Internationalism" will be discussed by the Rev. Fred B. Smith, LL.D., New York, moderator of the national council.

First seminars will be held tomorrow, devoted to problems relating to the individual, the church, the community, the nation, and international relations. The council will meet Thursday and Friday next week to consider the findings of the seminars.

The Rev. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn, N. Y., will address the convention on "The Mission of the Republic" tomorrow night.

Educators to Test Films' School Value in Washington, D. C.

The value of sound pictures in the education of children will be given its first thorough test on July 6 in Washington, D. C. A teacher and a grammar school child from each state in the Union and from the District of Columbia will assemble for the test, which will be conducted by the United States commissioner of education at the suggestion of President Hoover.

According to federal authorities, educators generally have been aware for a long time that the motion picture with sound offers a great opportunity for improved methods of teaching. As they explain it, however, there had until recently been no cooperation between producers of pictures, who knew the technique of manufacture, and the teachers, who knew what should go into pictures, but nothing of how to make them.

Harley L. Clarke of Chicago became interested in the problem. As president of the Fox Film corporation, Mr. Clarke had prepared a set of experimental films. If they prove successful in the tests that have been arranged, Mr. Clarke promises to place all the resources of his concern back of a series of pictures that will meet with the approval of educators.

Mr. and Mrs. Maturi were married in Palermo, Sicily. Their children were born in America.

CITY AND COUNTY OFFICIALS LEARN HOW TO TALK VIA RADIO

Mayor Cermak and several other city and county officials learned in one lesson yesterday how to overcome "mike fright" and cultivate an appealing radio manner. Their course of instruction is part of a program of municipal broadcasts which will be heard in the future over station WENR of the National Broadcasting company.

Civic betterment is the aim of the radio series. Twice a week various public officials will broadcast speeches to acquaint the public with the workings of their local government. In preparation for the series the speakers gathered yesterday in an NBC studio in the Merchandise Mart to learn from seasoned broadcasters what to do and what not to do when confronted by a microphone.

"Be natural, avoid oratorical bunk, and give at least an imitation of spontaniety," were the cardinal principles of radio speaking listed by seasoned broadcasters. "The public likes to hear facts briefly and interestingly told. The radio will bring you a wide audience. Holding the listeners will be up to you."

Yankee Music Grips Chinese; Men Revolt

[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PEIPING, June 25.—Shakespeare started something when he wrote the "Taming of the Shrew" and Gilbert did something more when he composed some dialogue and ditties for which his confrère Sullivan banged out some tuneful music and they called it "The Mikado." But both these may be put into the discard if composers and authors of the present jazz age will study the effect on the modern young Chinese since the Kuomintang [Nationalist party in plain English] got on the job and would try to westernize far Cathay overnight.

The younger women with bobbed hair and a knowledge of modern dancing and the western returned students with a doctor's degree so easily obtained in some of the American schools that call themselves universities have the floor and stay out late at night to hold it. And even among those men who fought so oratorically to champion Sun Wen and put the Kuomintang on the front pages of most of the world's press are now heard to chant:

Oh, you Pitti Sing!
I wed you with a ring
And all the decorations of the west.
Yet now you feed me hash
And hourly dik for cash
And rifle all the pockets of my vest!

You silly Ph. D.
What are you now to me?
You're a year behind in everything you dance.
You wed me in a night
And next day you were tight.
Pay up or next I'll have your pants!

The papers are filled with it day after day. China was lately a Sun worshipper. Now Sun Yat Sen is but a memory in a mausoleum. Women have the day. All of this has led to the formation in Hankow of a "No Wife" society. It has been regularly organized by a chartered accountant named Fan and he is gaining recruits every day. Fan got so fed up with the married life he had he effected a separation from his wife and decided to form this new society so all those who are suffering from domestic tyranny may join him and cooperate in a new China-wide project.

The statement of the newly formed association says modern women are "like serpents and lions" and extremely difficult.

FARM AND GARDEN

MINERALS FOR CATTLE.

For some time, Prof. Henry of Wisconsin and others studying the effect of feeds upon productivity of dairy cattle and hogs have issued reports proving that expensive complete mineral mixtures are a waste of farmers' money

Now another report has been issued by C. F. Huffman of Michigan State college, whose investigations show that "the need for mineral supplements for dairy cattle fed under normal Michigan conditions has been greatly exaggerated."

Especially do they show that there is little need for mineral supplements which supply calcium even though feeds such as timothy hay and other low calcium roughages are used. Cattle are able to utilize the calcium from their feed more efficiently than was formerly believed, Huffman declares. Complex mineral mixtures may even be harmful when fed a long time.

When plenty of good quality roughage, such as legume hays, are fed with protein concentrates like linseed oil meal, cottonseed meal, soy bean meal, wheat bran, or gluten feed, calcium and phosphorus need not be added in mineral supplements. Free access to steamed bone meal and salt, equal parts, will make up for phosphorus deficiency when these protein concentrates are lacking.

Grandpa is very near sighted.
F. S.

It was the day of a circus and every one was talking about it. There came a lull in the conversation in which 3 year old Buddie announced to the family: "When I go I'm going to ride on the bumpy-horsies!" L. S.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

She'll Understand.

"Dear Miss Blake: We've only met, and love each other very much. She wonders why I don't take her out. Do you think it is all right to tell her of my unemployment? BOB."

It's the thing to do, Bob. Then she will understand your position and won't expect you to take her out until you find employment.

Penurious Men Can Make Married Life Miserable for Wives

BY DORIS BLAKE.

I wonder how it is that men can achieve the age of marriage and yet not understand that marriage has a money side to it. I can't figure out how men can marry today without realizing that a women will not stand for the no division, no dole system of earlier matrimonial record.

Week upon week there comes letter after letter the gist of which is "he never gives me a penny." There are a dozen of them before me as I write this. The wonder to me is that women stick around long enough to sit down and write about it, what with all the walking out of homes that's going on. However, that is explained generally by the presence of small children on the scene. Too, there are women who take their marriage vows for all that is in them. They marry to stick, and stick they do.

This male behavior about money must have its origin somewhere back in the earlier days of man. There are any number of households where young men's donations to the family budget are not exacted, though the girl wage earners in the same household may be taxed heavily enough. I have a feeling that this exemption from financial responsibility has something to do with the making of husbands who expect their wives to manage on nothing a year. Mother never hounded them. Why should this woman?

Certainly it isn't reasonable to believe that a grown man expects a house to run along without funds. Nor is it reasonable to expect a wife to be content with a roof over her head and never a nickel she can call her own. What is their idea of domestic happiness—these men? Or don't they care whether they come home to a smiling wife or a disappointed looking one?

A Perfect Ensemble for Evening in Town

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The question of choosing smart evening clothes is infinitely more difficult, in one way, for the "lady commuter" than for women who can run home between functions to slip into another dress; in another way it's easier, for the very limitations of the train or car journey, strip the sartorial decks for action, as it were, and necessitate a simplicity of costume and detail that is smarter, this season, than any amount of falals and flounces.

The vogue for runabout evening ensembles with their ankle length skirts, their sleeved gowns, or extra jackets and their tailored looking coats is a godsend to the woman who comes into town in the afternoon and stays to dine, go to the play and dance.

A perfect ensemble for such is sketched today. Worth designed it for the Duchesse de Nemours, so much admired for her chic and beauty. It's in black crêpe Françoise, that opaque georgette with tiny invisible checks in the weave. The skirt has a fan of plaited fullness let into the front below the down curved hip yoke. The waistline is cleverly softened, without losing its tailored effect, by an incrusted bowknot. The décolleté is very high in front while in back it becomes crossed suspenders ends that are fastened to the skirt by jeweled rings.

This décolleté is masked before dinner by Worth's pocket size bolero of white chiffon all covered with dull white pin head beads, so supple it can be tucked into handbag or pocket.

The outside fitted jacket with its simple band border and slightly puffed sleeves may be in crêpe Françoise to match the dress, or in black velvet or satin, or again in a contrasting color.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

First Encounter with Neighbor.

On Saturday evenings, I come home from work about 10 o'clock. On this particular night it was pouring down rain. I was running along, not paying much attention to where I was going, because the street was familiar. In front of the house next door to ours a car stopped and two men jumped out. It was so sudden that I hesitated. They came towards me, and one of them said, "Don't be afraid, lady; nobody will hurt you."

Having heard that this phrase was used in holdup cases I became suspicious and yelled at the top of my voice for my father. When he came out, I was introduced to the new neighbors, next door. M. P.

Wise Parents Don't Take Child's 'No' Too Seriously, Says Scribe

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"My little girl say 'no' so much when I ask her to do something. What can I do about it?"

I suppose we all have our favorite stories and I have one that always pops into my mind when I hear this complaint from mothers. We had a favorite uncle who was a devoted motorist and whose lot was not a happy one in a family of young people who didn't care much for automobiling. So, when he'd say on Sunday afternoons, "Who's going riding?" the only amelioration of our misery lay in going to some spot that we thought might have interest.

"Let's go to Pompton lakes past Aaron's Burr's house," we'd say.

"Aaron Burr's house? Why there? No, we can't go there this afternoon. I had thought of going to Suffern. No—we can't make Aaron Burr's house today."

Having learned our lesson, we'd drop the subject. But later in the day, having settled ourselves in the car, we'd hear, "Now, I think the best route to the old Burr house is..."

His first reaction to a new suggestion was "No." Given time to work, however, the suggestion almost always bore fruit.

Use these tactics with your small son or daughter when those small soft lips form the dreaded "No." Don't take it so hard. Three-quarters of the time ignore it. Go ahead on your way and in a few minutes you will probably see hands being washed, play being left for luncheon or the first move being made toward putting dolls or trucks away for the day.

Don't take issue with those "No's." They don't usually mean much except "Wait a minute."

Ignore them—wait a little while and your repeated request will probably be complied with.

If you are having difficulties of this sort with your small child, the best let on "Obedience" or the one on "Stubbornness" might help you.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
Seeks New Suit.

"Do you think you could find a suit, size 38; shirts, 14½; shoes, size 9; socks, 10½ or 11, for me? I have been out of work for some time and have been in the hospital. If my clothes were not so shabby perhaps I could get something to do. R. R."

This is a very urgent need which I hope can be supplied immediately. The poor fellow is so discouraged about the misfortune he's had and I think he'd be cheered considerably if he had presentable clothing to apply for work.

Aldis Family Gathers for the Summer

BY THALIA

THE Aldis "compound," always one of the pleasant places in the summertime, is populated and active these days. The personnel of the miniature colony this year includes the Arthur T. Aldises who are occupying the Playhouse, the Graham Aldises and their family who are in the "Big House." Mrs. George Dickson and her children in the Hollyhock, and the Ralph Milmans who have the Redbird cottage this summer.

There also are Mrs. Aldis' niece, Mrs. Ernest Kilroe and Mr. Kilroe, recently arrived from India, and their children. The John T. McCutcheon cottage is immediately adjacent to the compound, and also the Charles T. Aldis place, which has in it the Irving Webbs. The swimming pool and tennis court are in constant use and there is much amenable sociability going on.

Mrs. Aldis has invited quite a lot of people to a party this evening that is to begin at a quarter to nine. The reason d'être of the affair is the showing of Mrs. Charles W. Hubbard's Chinese puppets and, as they are given in shadow silhouettes, the show won't go on until after dark. Mrs. Louise Aldis had a luncheon for the Kilroes last Sunday, too.

Mrs. C. W. Hubbard Does Arlington Park Landscaping.

Mrs. Charles W. Hubbard has done the landscaping of the Arlington Park grounds and description of the horticultural arrangements sounds lovely. Tubs Versailles boxes with black centers filled with yellow cannas scattered on the red tiled terrace and the grass between the Post and Paddock clubs and the clubhouse.

Lombardy pine, cedar, arbor vitae and clipped privet complete the additional foliage.

There also is a new lake to the left of the driveway on the approach to the Post and Paddock. Mrs. Hubbard has redesigned also, the gardens of Mrs. Johnston, Albert D. Lasker, John D. Hertz, and Max Epstein.

The races open next Monday with a card including among its 8 events a handicap race called "The Onwentsia." Mr. and Mrs. Laurance H. Armour are giving the annual directors' opening day luncheon in the exclusive Post and Paddock club. George Dent Jr. of Baltimore, father of Mrs. Ellis Wentworth and brother of Mrs. Stanley Field, Mrs. Honoré Palmer, and Mrs. Walter Keith, is coming on again this year to serve as steward of the meet.

Librarians Raise Million Fund and Hope for Another

New Haven, Conn., June 25.—[Special.]—The American Library association in conference today here completed the raising of $1,000,000 endowment fund. The final sum came in half an hour in subscriptions from floor and telegrams from friends all over the country. The association, it is believed, thus qualifies for another million dollars from friendly foundations. The American Library association headquarters are at 520 North Michigan avenue, Chicago. Three bankers of that city are its trustees. They are Harry A. Wheeler, George Woodruff and John W. O'Leary.

George B. Utley, librarian of the Newberry library, is chairman of the committee which completed the endowment plan. J. C. Bay, librarian of the John Crerar library, and Miss Mary B. Day, librarian of the Museum of Science and Industry, are members of the same committee.

The million was raised by consilding sustaining memberships of $25 to $500 a year as interest on their capitalized value at a ratio of one to 20, thus $100 a year membership was credited as a gift of $2,000.

The American Library association thus will be able to carry on promotion of library service for forty million rural people now without it. Adult education through special aid to adults borrowing from public libraries, book service to schools and hospitals and to special groups such as hospital patients, prisoners and foreign born.

Subscribers who sent in pledges today included Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed of Chicago, University of Detroit; A. L. A. trustees section, American Library institute; Edward L. Tilton of New York City, Templeton Crocker of San Francisco, Ralph Adams Cram of Boston, Northwestern university, Lincoln library of Springfield, Ill.; Newberry library, and the University of Chicago.

CARL F. GUENTHER WINS BEAUX-ARTS PRIZE AS ARCHITECT

New York June 25.—[Special.]—The twenty-fourth Paris prize of the society of Beaux-Arts architects was awarded tonight to Carl F. Guenther, 23 years old, of Cleveland, O. Philadelphia, Pa., June 25.—(AP)—A course on social problems of the day, such as cited by Pope Pius in his recent encyclical, is expected to be established in Catholic colleges and universities in the United States as a result of the adoption of a resolution today by the college department of the National Catholic Education association.

The resolution, introduced by the Rev. Bernard P. O'Reilly, Dayton, O., chairman of the college group, concluded:

"Resolved, the college department of the National Catholic Educational association appoint a committee on social studies and instruct its member to draw up a syllabus for a six semester course on 'social problems in the light of Christian principles.'"

Another resolution adopted by the college group favored "the reservation of a reasonable share of radio channels to educational purposes."

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. Iris has been separated for years from her dissolute husband, Marcel. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical aunt, the Comtesse de Castelmauron. Marcel is seen frequently with Suzanne Marly, an actress. Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood and his friend, Tommy Rostetter, conduct a private search for Clare.

Iris moves to her aunt's home and learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have reformed.

A letter is sent to Iris stating that Clare is being held for ransom. Her aunt offers to pay the sum asked if Marcel and Iris promise to become reconciled.

Alan meets Marcel and recalls having seen him at Le Touquet, hobnobbing with a coarse looking couple. Marcel calls on Alan in his hotel room. That night an attempt is made to asphyxiate Alan. He moves to Tommy's apartment.

Tommy and Alan suspect that Marcel, who is known to be heavily in debt, is the instigator of the kidnaping with the couple, known as Yetta and Pietro, his partners in crime, the motive being the ransom. Alan learns that the couple have a half-witted son.

Tommy sees Marcel leaving Suzanne Marly's home at the hour scheduled for him to deliver the ransom. Alan calls on Iris. Marcel arrives shortly after, badly beaten up, and declares that he was robbed by the kidnapers, who have not returned Clare. Tommy and Alan tell the story to the police. They return with the police inspector to question Marcel and find he has vanished. They leave to search for Yetta and Pietro in the neighborhood outside of Paris, where they are supposed to dwell, each taking separate routes. Alan finds the dilapidated dwelling they used as their hideout. It is deserted. The couple returns and Alan hides in the scullery off the kitchen. Marcel arrives. He says he hid the ransom in Suzanne's flat, and that she found it and won't give it back. Yetta tells Marcel that Clare is dead. The son of the couple has escaped from the house and Yetta plans to make a search for him before they make their getaway. Soon after they leave Tommy and Inspector Maupin arrive on the scene.

INSTALLMENT LIX.

IN PURSUIT OF THE CRIMINALS.

Tommy sprang into his seat, his face immovable.

The roadster slid over the rough ground, gathering speed as it turned into the lane.

"We'll drive straight to the village, monsieur," instructed Maupin authoritatively.

Tommy paid no attention. He sat hunched over the wheel, his brows knit in deep thought, and when he spoke to Charnwood, sitting next him, it was in a low, determined voice.

"There's one thing certain—we must lay hands on that boy, get to him before the others do if we can manage it. The matter's imperative."

"Is it?" Charnwood asked, mystified. "We've got complete evidence, surely! Besides, the creature's a half wit, you're not likely to get much out of him."

"You don't understand me. Half wit or not, do you want to see him fall back into their clutches?"

Charnwood began dimly to grasp the import of this.

"You mean he may have run away to escape ill treatment? I daresay you're right. They are a cruel pair of beasts! The foul hole they'd kept him in was enough to show them up. Come to think of it, they may have suspected he'd committed suicide. Lepin's clothes were wet, as if he'd been dragging the pond back there."

"Been in the water, had he? So they wanted to make sure . . . that clinches my argument. . . . By the way, what did the chap look like when you ran across him? Describe him to me."

"Tallish, or seemed so—thin, half starved, with a dead white face and something wrong with one of his legs. I couldn't make out what."

"Dark or fair?" Tommy fired at him.

"He had jet black hair, cut short."

"And his eyes—like Lepin's, were they?"

"Hardly. His are close set, the boy's were wider spaced. It was their expression I noticed. Stupefied, blank. I tell you he appeared half asleep, yet when I spoke to him he hobbled off as though the devil were behind him."

"Hold on—if I'm not deceived, that's it!"

Tommy nodded. "He's supposed to be suffering from petit mal—an ailment rather like epilepsy. Occasionally he has bad seizures, otherwise he's almost normal. The nuns told me about his case."

Tommy's words started a train of conjecture in Charnwood's brain. What if the boy had stolen upon his parents at some crucial moment, perhaps spied on them at the actual moment when they were engaged in dismembering the dead girl's body? If so, he might give away their secret to the first comer. Lepin's recent debauch—for it was plain he had been on a bout of drunkenness—could easily explain how the prisoner had got out. Indeed, this was almost certain what had happened, for had not Yetta declared that it was her partner's blunder which had brought trouble upon them? Naturally it was of the utmost importance to recover the dangerous witness before he could noise their infamy abroad, and it was equally true that what concerned them concerned de Bertincourt. . . .

As the glistening band of the Chartres road came in sight, Tommy swerved to the right and slowed down.

Half a minute later Charnwood touched his arm. "There—just ahead of us! Do you see that stile?"

The car swung to the roadside and stopped. Tommy leaped out, vaulted the stile, and stood looking eagerly about in the thick gloom. Charnwood joined him, but the inspector, visibly annoyed, remained in his place, calling out to inquire the meaning of the halt.

"Take the car, inspector," Tommy said. "Make your statement and come back for us. You may think me an ass, but if there's a chance of rescuing that boy, I'm going to take it."

The officer grunted as he slipped into the driver's seat. "Please yourself, monsieur—but I'm positive you'll have nothing for your pains."

With a loud buzz the car lunged forward to be swallowed up in the night. Tommy strode towards the center of the field, but shook his head despondently.

"I'm afraid he's right," he muttered. "They had twenty minutes' start of us, and if they've found what they were looking for, the business will be finished."

"Business? What business?" demanded Charnwood curiously.

Tommy was silent for a few seconds, then without taking his eye from the expanse before them, he uttered a single word.

"Murder," he replied, and closed his jaws with a snap.

"Murder their own flesh and blood?" Charnwood gasped incredulously. "You can't think they'd do such a thing?"

Tommy said no more, but his face showed that he was in deadly earnest. Charnwood began to catch some of his fire. If it was a question of saving a harmless human being from extinction he was in for the adventure heart and soul, welcoming it as a brief anaesthesia from the suffering he had endured ever since learning the truth about Clare.

A breeze had sprung up and swept away most of the mist, so that it was easily possible to detect a moving object. However, they encountered nothing. Without ceasing to scan the dark distances, Tommy explained in a few jerky sentences how he and Maupin had come to find the criminals.

"I got back to Nogent about eight, after no sort of success. That inspector chap was hanging on to the telephone at the station, and just as I came in he got news from this village here that a man named Hector Lepin was living in a big house, Clos Vert. We jumped into my car and buzzed along, but as the place was beyond our marked radius, the last person we expected to run into was yourself. . . ." He broke off and smote his thigh in annoyance. "What a fool I am! Don't you realize we haven't seen a sign of their car? What would they have done with it if—I say, is there any road leading into this where they could drive up?"

"There's the quarry, over beyond those trees. I should think there must be some kind of opening, though I couldn't see it before on account of the mist. Shall we have a look?"

"The quarry! Of course! We ought to have thought of it sooner. Quick, we'll make a dash for it!"

Neither spoke as they ran swiftly along the path, now stiffened with a rim of frost, so that it shone in the starlight like hammered metal.

"There's a pool at the bottom," Charnwood whispered when they reached the woods. "It wouldn't surprise me if the boy had fallen into it, in which case he may have been saved from a worse fate. The more I think of that woman the surer I am that she's utterly bestial. Could De Bertincourt have known the sort of friend he was entrusting his child to?"

"Naturally he knew! Roche Anna is an abominable woman, as I told you before. There were tales in Berlin . . . O, there are things more to be dreaded than death!"

Charnwood shuddered.

In the darkness rose a picture of Clare as he had seen her a few weeks ago, her clear eyes, her babyish skin, her soft fair hair which was so like her mother's. Then he recalled the close, cobwebbed den which had been the lame boy's prison, the black, dangling bell rope and the rats; Yetta's venomous little eyes . . . yes, it was true, there were experiences so terrible that the reason itself might never survive the ordeal. . . .

They had come out upon the strip of mud bordering the quarry. Before them curved the rim of the excavation, its precipice falling abruptly away. They crept close to the brink and peered over.

"Gently, now," cautioned Tommy under his breath. "If there is any one down there——"

Charnwood caught him by the sleeve.

"S'sh! Do you see? There's a light in that workman's shack!"

"If our party is in there, then the car will be somewhere nearby," murmured Tommy, searching the depths. "Hold on—if I'm not deceived, that's it! Notice that dark, oblong directly facing us, on the far side of the pool?"

Powders, Mixed, Can Make a Grand Little Complexion Cocktail

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It wasn't so many years ago that women had only three available powder shades to choose from—namely: white, flesh, and rachel. Look at the display counters now! A face powder for every known complexion type, and if you can't find one you like, you can take a spoonful of this shade, a spoonful of that, and yet still another shade for mixing and shake up a perfect powder cocktail.

Think of the names of them—blush rose, peach bloom, ashes of roses, chartreuse, etc. Incidentally, if you get too sunburned for your evening frock or if your complexion is naturally florid, or your nose is red, try a green powder.

Now the powder mixers have gone further. They're bringing out shades for more than the many complexions. They're matching the frock color as well as the complexion. Expert mixers are bobbing up all over who give you a look, a second one, mebbe, and then proceed to dip an experienced finger in this jar, the next, the one down at the end of the row, and perhaps just because you have on a yellow dress for shopping [which you probably wouldn't have on at all] they'll add a dash from a fourth jar to neutralize that canary note in your ensemble.

Now it is proposed that, in the march of beauty events, time will show established lines of color for nails and women will like the variety. They will not [the conservatives, that is] be so high hat about the bright red tips that now hand change back to them. They'll have their own color taste.

Already quite a gamut is run in nail shade tints, the soft corals, raspberry shades, and the short lived freak black, green, and silvers. But the shades already lined up indicate that nails are being flirted with as a field for more and more color variety.

In the meantime, unless you are a person of rare chic or of the orchidaceous, night blooming variety, perhaps it were just as well to be conventional. At least until you can choose from the promised increased variety something you will not feel unpleasantly conspicuous wearing.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MARY G.: BRUSH YOUR EYEbrows and eyelashes with a tiny brush to remove tiny particles and scales. Lanolin or cocoa butter will promote hair growth. These should be warmed and applied in liquid form with a small brush. Vaseline, too, is effective.

D. S.: MASSAGE THIN HANDS with fattening creams—cocoa butter, lanolin, or almond oil. Knead them deeply. Once a week soak them in warm olive oil. Wear gloves overnight after you have given them this treatment.

Broadcast Workout from Ringside.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 25.—The Stribling family, once an acrobatic circus and vaudeville troup known as the "Two Novelty Grahams," are good showmen. If son Willie—a pitifully inadequate name for such a husky specimen—whose family prefers to call him "Strib," lifts the heavyweight pugilistic crown from Champion Max Schmeling next Friday night the family has qualities of unusual value for tours or theatrical engagements. That's the reaction anybody one meets them while Willie is preparing for his greatest engagement.

This reporter arrived in Cleveland in time for the 20 mile drive to Geauga Lake, an amusement resort where Stribling has pitched his training camp. Stribling does his boxing at noon, about 9 o'clock, thereby avoiding the excessive heat and duplicating conditions, so far as possible, as they will be on the fateful night at Municipal stadium.

Breakfasts During Training.

Before that the Striblings would be up in the air from the camp, we turned on our hotel radio. There they were, all of them, Young Stribling himself, Mrs. Stribling, his trainers, and even the good cook brought from Georgia, who confided there would be plenty of "grits and gravy" for breakfast. I was shuddered at this violation of strict training food, Strib, at the table, explained: "I'm one of those private boxers who don't have to watch their weight. I like lots of potatoes, so I eat them."

Then he started to tell of Strib's first professional bout when he was 16 years old and weighed 114 pounds. As he said in that rich southern drawl which cannot be reproduced over telephone wires: "This fellow hit my boy very hard, but Willie——"

Interruption by Ma. "Pa, he didn't hit my boy pretty hard; nobody could hit my boy hard. He is too fast."

Then a little family argument over who is who.

They Even Sing in Camp.

Willie heard a round with a sparring partner and the announcer described it. To the mike came Strib, by invitation, to prove he was not out of breath. Interspersed were songs by a southern quartet. It was perfectly natural, perfectly acted, if this writer, from recent experience, knows anything of being natural on the air.

The program is just part of the extensive publicity ever launched in behalf of a title fight. Promoters naturally realize that in these times special efforts will be necessary to attract enough customers to make a profit, or even to "get off the nut," to use the sporting phrase terms fixed expense.

Another lure is a traveling ticket office, which has made the principal cities of this state and part of Indiana and Pennsylvania. Enlarged photographs of the principals, scenes at their headquarters and the Cleveland arena are displayed.

Expect $400,000 Gate.

A clerk whose size warrants, a store is opened for the day. There plats of seats are shown and the locals invited to purchase. The stay is only one day. The theory is that a advance sale assures presence in person of the chap who has paid his money even if it rains. In event of rain, the bout will be held the following night.

Promoter Dunn asserts advance sales have reached nearly the $200,000 mark. Thus they profess to see a gate of from $600,000 to $700,000. Figures were for $1,000,000, but the most optimists expected that. Official estimates are $400,000, possibly more. With the principals working on a commission basis, it is figured $200,000 will see the Garden comfortably out, in the clear, but with no financial success appears to rest as many enthusiastically Ohio industrial centers respond. Visiting delegations from distant cities will be smaller than usual for such events owing to business conditions.

Promoter Dunn this afternoon suggested to the city boxing commission, which runs the sport in this city, the names of three men for referee. They are Jim Corbett, Bob Edgren, and Dutch Blake.

Announcement of the commission's decision will be withheld until the day before the fight.

SCHMELING ON SCALES

Forest Lake Park, Pa., June 25.—Max Schmeling announced today through Manager Joe Jacobs that he was well satisfied with his physical condition, and his boxing workouts, entering on the final week of training tomorrow full of fight and fury.

He said today was any accurate indication on Schmeling's weight, it was known that he was not far from his natural fight poundage of 190, as all his scalings had been in the afternoon, but this morning when Jacobs stepped on the scales he bounced off as happy as a schoolboy to say: "The weight is perfect. He is at 195½ pounds, about a pound and a half heavier more than he will be at the night of the fight. He has had seven days of boxing ahead of him. They will sharpen his speed, and his punch. His wind is fine, and he is fine, perfectly."

Mr. Ryder's Golf Cup at Stake Today

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., June 25.—Several years ago an English golf fan by the name of Samuel Ryder who, from his photograph, has a half-melancholy look and the long staple mustache of Ramsay MacDonald, decided to give a cup to be played for every two years by teams of American and British professionals.

The Americans won the cup in the first tournament, played in Worcester, Mass., in 1927 and the British won it in England in 1929. So now the British are back in the United States to play a team organized under the nominal leadership of Walter Hagen in a series of bouts on the grounds of the Scioto Country club, just outside of Columbus, tomorrow and Saturday.

There will be eight Scotch foursomes tomorrow and eight singles matches Saturday. The selection of the British team aroused no end of squabbling and name-calling back in England, and just from appearances you would hardly judge that the British have a chance to win. For one thing, a young fellow named Henry Cotton was left off the squad because in the first place he thought he should have been selected on his record and not asked to qualify, and because, in the second place, he said he would be jolly well dashed if he pledged himself to slip right off home again with the rest of the squad within two weeks according to a somewhat officious rule of the team, if he were selected.

Cotton is a young fellow whose opinion of himself cannot be described as contemptuous, a state of mind not at all uncommon among good competitive athletes. He is one of the best British professionals, having among his conquests a tournament called the One Thousand Guineas, which, I judge, would be the Italian Open, and when they ruled him out a lot of golfers in England helped themselves to the umbrage.

Or, possibly, it was only a lot of journalists. English journalists are fond of writing ringing leaders demanding "Can such things be?" and "What has the prime minister to say about this?" for comparatively trivial causes, as, for instance, the time when one of their chaps swung out into space and solemnly warned the government that Primo Carnera was certain to rend limb from limb some bobbling old horizontalist, who thereupon waltzed Primo around and around all night.

So that is approximately how it is on this tropic front before the matches begin. The British team is partly composed of people whom no one in this country ever heard of. There is a Fred Robson, a W. H. Davies, and L. J. Easterbrook, and Bert Hodson, and the fact that Americans generally haven't heard of these boys may only reflect their own ignorance, as Mr. Bryan remarked when the delegates yelled that they had never heard of John W. Davis.

I seem to have Mr. Bryan in mind these days, possibly because the heat is reminiscent of those last days of his down in Dayton, Tenn., when he was downing his barbecued pork on the courthouse lawn within earshot of the champion Bible scholar of the world who orated endlessly from the courthouse steps that he had no kin folks in the zoo.

Bobby Jones, now turned capper for a line of sporting goods just as Jack Dempsey in his post championship days has been going out in front to thump the tub for a succession of gambling houses, went over the first nine holes of the golf course here this afternoon, but took a 39 and picked up because it was too hot. The untidy state of his card was due in part no doubt to his absence from competition, but also in part no doubt to the scuffed up condition of the grass after a large field of journalists had plowed their way around in a ghastly affair called Johnny Walker cup tournament.

A Mr. Gallico of New York achieved a new high for the course with a card of 146 and two Boy Scouts who saw him climbing up out of the tassel grass on the hole down near the stone quarry rushed up with autograph albums, crying: "You are David Binney Putnam, aren't you?"

Gene Tunney, who used to be a journalist himself, by proxy, went out with George White, the governor of Ohio, and met him again several hours later, as they gradually surrounded the eighteenth green. A gallery as-

George T. Dunlap Jr., the Princeton bantamweight, wearing a fancy green shirt and white knickers, with a piratical looking handkerchief knotted about his sandy hair, sailed over the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields yesterday in the quarter-finals of the national intercollegiate golf tournament and intimated that he wants to keep the title he won at Oakmont last year. He suggested the same by defeating Bill Redmond, the captain elect of Notre Dame's team, 7 and 6.

Tommy Aycock, a serious looking little resident of Jacksonville, Fla., who received his diploma from Yale university last week, will argue the matter with Dunlap in one of today's 36 hole semi-final matches. Tommy, who won the national title as a sophomore, took yesterday's match from Jesse Rainwater of Tulane, a future New Orleans lawyer, 2 up.

The other semi-final today will be an all Ohio State university battle, bringing together Bob Kepler, a Dayton boy who just completed his junior year in the school of commerce, and Johnny Fiorio, a 21 year old sophomore. The former eliminated Sidney Noyes, the Yale sophomore, 5 and 4, in yesterday's match, while Fiorio won, 4 and 2, from another Big Ten player, Jim Reston of Illinois.

Dunlap, Redmond Even at Turn.

Dunlap and Redmond were all even at the turn in the morning round. Bill rallying on the 7th and 8th to square the match after George had birdied the 6th and taken the 2d with a six because Redmond picked up. Dunlap took the 16th, 12th, and 13th, but Redmond came back to win the next two and was only one down. George finished three up when a 20 foot putt gave him a birdie on the 16th, and the 18th was his when Redmond again picked up.

Dunlap played par golf to take the first two holes on the afternoon round. Redmond won the next two, however, to go three down again. A fine approach shot gave the Princeton star a birdie three on the fifth, and Redmond's difficulties with traps on the seventh and eighth made George six up at the turn. They halved the ninth and tenth with fives and fours.

Dunlap got on the twelfth green with his second shot and two-putted for a four. Redmond's drive landed in the woods and his second shot bounced off a tree and so back into the timber. He chipped out on to the fairway and his approach shot was perfect, landing 18 inches from the pin, but the putt gave him a five and Dunlap the match."

Aycock Gets a Scare.

Aycock had more cause to fret during the quarter-final matches than any of the other victors, particularly on the last nine holes. Tommy didn't know whether Frank Carroll, the same New Haven youth who caddied for him in his title victory two years ago, had something to do with his winning yesterday, or whether it was the fact that he was six up on Rainwater at the end of 27 holes. The big, drawling southerner was four down at the end of the morning 18, and he could win only one hole on the first afternoon round while Aycock was taking the first, fourth, and ninth. Something happened to Rainwater's game at the

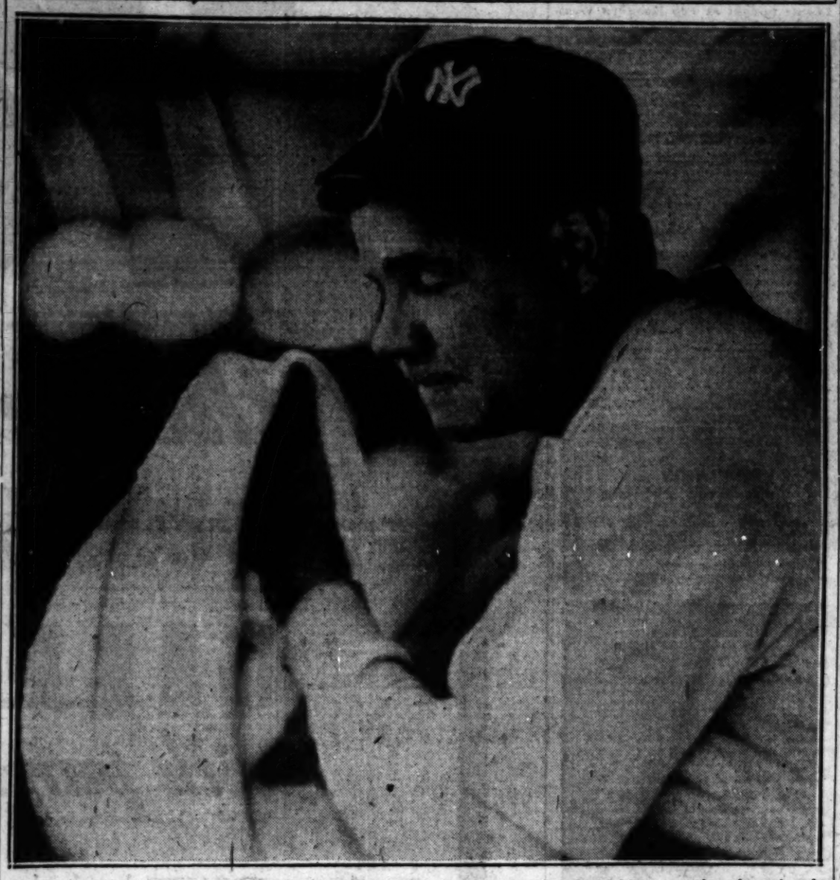
SOMETHING OUGHTA BE DONE ABOUT THIS!



"Wotta life, wotta life," Mr. George Herman Ruth muses as he mops his streaming face in the Yankee's dugout at Comiskey Park after completing the circuit of the bases on his sixteenth homer yesterday. And even at $80,000 a year, or $519 a game, it was pretty hard work for a fat man to earn that $1,038 for yesterday's double header, what with the temperature hanging around the middle nineties, even higher than the Babe's home run record. Petrolle Puts Away Suarez in 9th Round

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Billy Petrolle tonight battered Justo Suarez, the South American lightweight, into submission in nine rounds of their scheduled ten round battle before 7,000 at Madison Square Garden.

In a spectacular bout Petrolle knocked out his arrival in 1 minute 51 seconds of the ninth round. He subjected Suarez to a beating that few boxers of the current era would have or could have withstood so long.

A right hand drive to the chin came as a climax to a pitiless flurry of lefts and rights to the head and jaw with which Petrolle almost drove his rival out of the ring in the ninth round. It sent Suarez down, to be counted out by Referee Patsy Haley. Suarez had to be carried to his corner.

HUNK ANDERSON'S ILLNESS PUZZLES MAYO PHYSICIAN

Rochester, Minn., June 25.—(AP)—Because his case is difficult to diagnose, Heartly [Hunk] Anderson, senior football coach at Notre Dame, must undergo further tests, Dr. C. J. Barborka, Mayo clinic physician, said today.

Anderson came here yesterday to learn the cause of severe headaches he had been suffering since late in May. He was put through several tests yesterday and today was at a hospital.

"We have found it necessary to put him through additional tests before reaching conclusions as to his ailment," Dr. Barborka said.

FREAK BASEBALL HAPPENINGS
by Irving Vaughan

In baseball circles they still talk about the day the late Germany Shaefer, second baseman and clown par excellence, stole first base. It always had been said that it couldn't be done. But the famous Germany, original partner of Nick Altrock, actually did it and not only caused about the most confusing three or four minutes ever seen on a big league diamond, but also caused the rules to be so altered that the stunt couldn't be repeated.

He did it along about the middle of the 1911 season, when the Washington club, of which he was a member, was at home against the White Sox. His idea wasn't to be funny or to bring out a defect in the rules. It was part of a trick devised to pave the way for scoring a runner from third base. The runner was Clyde Milan, one of baseball's fleetest runners, and Washington needed that run to tie the game.

It was late in the game when Milan, with two out, got as far as third base and Schaefer to first. The latter, either on a signal from Milan or from Manager Jim McAleer, promptly pulled a delayed steal of second base. Schaefer hoped to draw a throw, whereupon Milan would have dashed in from third. The Sox catcher, preferring to play safe by taking a chance on the weak hitter at bat, refused to throw.

Having failed in his purpose Schafer lost no time bringing his scheme to a climax. While the Sox pitcher was throwing a ball to the batter, Germany dashed back to first base. He got action immediately. The Sox players ran around in circles, wondering just what to do about this fellow who was running the game backwards. The ball was thrown to second and the bag tagged, but Umpire Billy Evans made no decision. Manager Hugh Duffy of the Sox rushed out from the bench and stood close to the pitcher's mound giving orders. The ball was thrown over to first and Schaefer started for second. Then Milan broke for the plate and the ball was thrown there to drive him back to third.

The ball was then thrown back to the territory where Schaefer was enjoying himself. As soon as an effort was made to tag him Milan would start from third again and the ball would go back to the plate. Schaefer, while these throws were being made, simply stood halfway between first and second. Finally Milan sensed an opening. He went through with his dash for the plate and they caught him.

After the game was over Manager McAleer threatened to protest because Manager Duffy of the Sox, by walking out on the diamond, had violated the rule providing that only nine men can occupy the field of play.

When Schaefer's stunt revealed that the rules were defective on this point the magnates hurried to make appropriate alterations. The rule at the time provided that Schaefer, having quit second after reaching it in safety, had to be tagged with the ball to be retired. Now if a man runs the bases backwards he can be retired simply by tagging the last base he legally reached before he turned around and started the other way.

Tony Canzoneri Easily Defeats Herman Perlick

New Haven, Conn., June 25.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri, world's lightweight and junior welterweight champion, tonight defeated Herman Perlick, Kalamazoo, Mich., in a ten round nontitle fight. Canzoneri weighed 134 and Perlick 140.

CHAPMAN'S HOME RUNS BEAT SOX TWICE, 10-9, 9-2

Yankees Score 3 in Ninth to Win Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mainly because Benny Chapman insisted on being a home run hero the White Sox were rendered impotent again yesterday in a twin bill with the Yanks. Benny clubbed one into the seats with two on in the ninth to steal what seemed to be a cinch Chicago decision in the first battle, and in the nightcap uncorked another while two mates were waiting. However, the latter was a small portion of a quantity of damage inflicted by the visiting maulers. The scores in their order were 10 to 9 and 9 to 2, thus making an unenviable record for the south siders of 19 defeats in 22 engagements.

The most depressing feature of the entire program for Manager Bush was that his usually light hitting brigade furnished 16 hits in the first argument. Even this total wasn't sufficient to get a favorable verdict from the combined pitching efforts of Tommy Thomas and Hal McKain.

Stopped by Pipgras.

The nightcap caused no grief except that hits were scarce. Only four were manufactured against George Pipgras, who didn't have to fret after his companions had rocked Vic Frasier with a six run blast in the third. Half of these six were due to Chapman's second homer.

Babe Ruth blew open the first game with a bang. He stepped up in the first inning, looked over Thomas' assortment, and slapped one into the right field seats for homer No. 16. The Sox lost no time recapturing the run. Kerr led off with a double to right and Reynolds' single scored him.

Thomas hit Sewell, which, with singles by Lazzeri and Jorgens and a bad toss by Kerr on a double play ball, let the Yanks have two bargain runs in the second. The Sox respohded with three in their half, putting them ahead, 4 to 3. Grube and Thomas singled and Gehrig dropped the throw on Kerr's grounder, Grube scoring. Thomas and Kerr skipped home when Reynolds tripled to right.

Babe Drives in Two.

Thomas held his slim advantage until the fifth, when Ruth drove in two mates. With one out, Combs singled to center and dashed to third on Lary's two bagger. Ruth sent a grounder past Blue and Kerr for a single, Combs and Lary scoring.

Fonseca beat out a bunt in the home fifth to start a four run splurge which put the Sox back in the lead. Watwood walked and both advanced on Cissell's bunt. Jeffries' single scored them. Gomez turned his job over to McEvoy, who was welcomed by Grube's single. McKain batted for Thomas and singled to send Jeff home. Then Kerr singled and Grube scored. A double play put a hurried finish to the rally.

Ruth and Gehrig melted down the Sox margin in the seventh. Ruth bunted and the Sox were so completely

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 25.—Freddy Frankhouse, who licked the Cubs on six hits June 14, did it again today on seven hits. And so the Boston Braves took the opener of the five game series by a score of 4 to 3.

The tanning was accomplished mostly because of the failure of the Cubs to get their hands on baseballs propelled by that ancient White Sox graduate, Earl Sheely. The old boy drove in two runs with a triple in the third and Randy Moore, also a former member of the White Sox, came home with the winning run in the fifth when Sheely's line drive was dropped by Hack Wilson. The side would have been out had Hack held on, but his hands seemed a bit tender, and the ball fell to the ground, not to be reclaimed before Randy was well nigh home.

The Braves' victory placed them back in the first division, after an absence of one day, Brooklyn having lost a tough one to the Cards, which dropped the Robins back into fifth place. The same set of circumstances plunged the Cubs farther back of the leading Cards, whom they now trail by six games. The Cubs remained apace with the Giants, however, a game and a half back of the New Yorkers.

Pitching Routine Upset.

The wild doings in the second game in New York Wednesday, in which four pitchers were used, interrupted Manager Hornsby's announced plan for a definite rotation of his staff and left him somewhat in a quandary as to whom he should shoot against Socks Seibold tomorrow in an effort to improve the status of the season series, which now shows the Bostonians to have won four out of six. Malone, who was yanked in the seventh game at New York yesterday, was Rogers' leading candidate tonight.

Baecht pitched a fairly good game today and held the Braves to seven hits, three of which were bunched in the third inning, when the Braves took a lead they never lost. Big Ed walked only three, but one wild pitch placed Randy Moore in a position to come in on Wilson's error with what proved to be the winning run.

Each team produced in the first inning, the Cubs making two runs and the Braves one. The Cubs were aided to their pair by Schulmerich who, with one out, made a two base muff of English's fly. Hornsby followed the error with a double to right, which scored Woody. Rogers went to third while Maranville was throwing out Stephenson and walked home on Wilson's double to center. Hartnett was passed, but Grimm popped to Maranville.

Berger's Double Scores Dreesen.

Dreesen led off the Braves' half of the first with a single to center and moved to second on Maranville's roller to Grimm. He scored when Berger doubled along the right field foul line. Moore walked, but Sheely flied to Wilson and Schulmerich was called out on strikes.

The Braves took a 3 to 2 lead in the third inning, when Sheely drove out a triple which would have been a homer for almost any one in the league except Earl. The smack, a shot to the far distant fence in right center, came with two out and scored Maranville and Randy Moore, who had singled. Schulmerich walked after Earl's hit, but Spohrer was called out on strikes.

A wild pitch by Baecht and a muff by Wilson helped the Braves to the run which made the score 4 to 2 in the fifth. Berger singled with one down and was forced by R. Moore. Baecht then loosed his wild one to enable Moore to reach second, whence he scored when Wilson dropped Sheely's line drive. Schulmerich was thrown out by English to end the inning.

Double Play Halts Cubs.

The Cubs made one run and had a nice rally going in the sixth when the Braves second double play overtook them. English led off with a single and went to third on a single by Hornsby. He scored while Stephenson was forcing Hornsby, but the inning ended when Wilson hit into a double play.

NEW GOLF BALL'S FRIENDS RALLY IN TRIBUNE'S POLL

But Old Rival Still Holds Lead.

The new golf ball, which was taking something of a licking in the early returns on the poll being conducted by THE TRIBUNE, in conjunction with the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, rallied considerably in a ballot among players on the Pipe o' Peace daily fee course yesterday. The old ball is still ahead, but its margin in the Pipe o' Peace neighborhood is so slight that the 1931 version may yet carry that particular precinct.

The vote at Pipe o' Peace now stands at 28 for the return of the old ball, while 17 are content with the new one, which is lighter and wider by hundredths of an inch and ounce. The most peculiar point about all of the votes being cast on the courses of the daily fee association is that while many golfers apparently want the old ball back, they nevertheless like the shot to the green or the putt, or both, with the new ball.

Like New Approach Shot.

This was demonstrated in the Pipe o' Peace returns. The vote on the approach shot was close, but the new ball won out. Twenty-four players said they liked the shot to the green with the new pellet, as opposed to 21 who did not.

The new ball came in even more strongly in the matter of putting, 30 voters admitting that they like the cup shot with the ball now in use, while only 15 expressed a preference for the discarded one.

It should also be pointed out that more than 45 votes were cast at Pipe o' Peace, but a number of these were nullified because they were not completely filled out. The voting blank, which may be had at any of the daily fee courses, contains the following six statements:

1. My average score is .....
2. My average drive with the new ball is .... yards.
3. My average drive with the old ball was .... yards.
4. I [like] or [do not like] the shot to the green with the new ball.
5. I [like] or [do not like] to putt with the new ball.
6. I [would like] or [would not like] to see the old ball come back.

Here Are Opinions.

Voters are urged to fill out all of the above statements since an incomplete blank will not qualify as a vote. A special space at the end of the blank may be used for expressing any specific opinion the voter may have on the subject of the new or old balls.

Among the remarks appended to votes at Pipe o' Peace were the following:

The new ball is much more difficult to handle in the wind.—L. W. Elwood, 12801 Emerald avenue.

The only kick on the new ball is on a windy day.—B. J. Tyler, 2257 West 109th street.

The new ball should have the weight of the old ball.—C. L. Self, 4551 Oakenwald avenue.

turn in the afternoon round, however, for he won the 10th, 13th, 14th, 16th, and 17th, while Aycock had to go to the 18th green to take a hole.

And Rainwater very nearly halved that, his ten foot putt grazing the cup by half an inch and trickling on by it only two or three more. He had a medal score of par 35 for the last nine, following the card perfectly except for the 16th, where he got a birdie two, and the 18th, where he was one over par.

Florio Gets Customary Birdie.

Florio and Reston gave one of the best shows of the tournament in their morning round, coming in all even. Florio took the lead on the first hole, over which he appears to have some strange power, with a birdie four. During the tournament play thus far he has made eight birdies on this particular green, and used it for an eagle three to win a 19 hole match over par, and went one up at the fourth hole, where Florio went one over part, and went one up at the 8th when the Columbus boy exploded for a 6.

Reston went three up by taking the 10th and 11th, but Johnny came back at the 12th and was only two down. He squared the match by capturing the 14th and 15th and took a lead of one hole at the 17th, but the Illini golfer tied up again on the home green.

Florio made another birdie on the first in the afternoon, but Reston came back to take the 3d and 5th. Johnny took the 6th and 8th and birdied the 11th with a 15 foot putt. Reston had 4 to Florio's 5 on the 13th, but that was the last hole he won. They halved the 13th and Florio followed par to win the next three holes and the match.

Kepler Beats Noyes.

Kepler and Noyes also came up all even at lunch time. Kepler took a one hole lead on the second when Noyes' ball was half stymied, but the Yale boy came back at the 6th, where his drive landed on the green, and two putts gave him a par 3 to Kepler's 4. He went one up on the next hole when Kepler's drive dropped in among some trees. The Buckeye player squared it at the 8th, however, when Noyes three-putted. Kepler missed a run-up putt on the 10th while Noyes was taking a four, but evened the match at the 12th with a six foot putt, after both had been short on their tee shots. From there on they halved six successive holes.

Noyes found plenty of trouble on the first afternoon nine, driving into a patch of shrubbery on the second, which cost him two strokes. Kepler was three up at the turn and won the 10th and 12th to take the match, as they halved the 13th and 14th.

Mullen Employs Amateur Policy for Pro Ring Cards

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jim Mullen, under whose direction Ace Hudkins and King Levinsky will meet Wednesday night at Mills' stadium, has adopted one of the features found only on amateur cards. In his preliminaries he has gone for more fights with a low average of rounds per bout, rather than lining up eight and ten round battles in support of the headliners.

ACE HUDKINS.

Mullen probably has done this intentionally, and, as in amateur fights, it should prove popular. If two of the boys are poorly matched, or start a waltz contest, the public will wait patiently for a few minutes until time is expired. Then another bout comes on. The average of satisfactory fights should run higher.

Six bouts, each for five rounds, are scheduled Wednesday night. Thus the seven bout card of 40 rounds will have a variety that the customary five fights of 40 or 42 rounds can not have.

Buck Easterling and Tom Patrick will fight the semi-windup. The other bouts are: Andy Shanks, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Joe Corbett; Earl Falk and Knute Dane, Marion Matuszak and Soldier Bennett, Al Engle and Don Warden, Billy Gale and John Morris. The majority of the bouts employ big boys, which includes a higher degree of certainty that several of the lads may be knocked out.

King Levinsky and Ace Hudkins should be an attraction on the west side. While defeated frequently, the King never has been bounced around. He merely has lost decisions because he couldn't hit the other man in a vital spot. The Ace, unless his increased weight has slowed him up, may lay one on Mrs. Levy's brother. Of course, Levinsky still has that right hand, which once dropped Leo Lomski 11 times in a night.

Billy Cepak, who keeps steadily at work producing fight cards winter and summer while other promoters struggle to make the business pay, has Tony Cancela, Tampa, Fla. light heavyweight and Owen Phelps of Phoenix, Ariz., in one of the eight round features at the Denemark stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue, tonight. The bout was signed yesterday to replace the Danny Delmont-Irish Kennedy fight.

Johnny Rich vs. Al Kline, 146 pounds [6].
Paul Dempsey vs. Babe Kellar, 128 pounds [4].
Small Change vs. Little Pal, 122 pounds [4].
Frankie Young vs. Johnny Koranda, heavies [4].

Larry Kaufman of Louisville and Irish Kennedy are on deck Monday night at the Logan Square park. Kennedy fought last night and his manager, who forgot the commission rule that five days must elapse between bouts, also had him on Cepak's card tonight. The cancellation tonight left Delmont without a salary check this week.

Kennedy will be remembered from his fight at the Chicago Stadium when he whipped Baby Stribling, the same evening Babe's more talented brother measured Tuffy Griffith.

Jimmy Murphy, Logan Square welterweight, and Al Kline are in the six round semi-windup. The four round bouts bring together Jimmy Humes and Tony Sanders and Chuck Ferguson and Tom Murphy.

Mike Harrison, who last summer used Shrewbridge field for his outdoor shows, yielding to John Duffy this season, will resume at Normal Park, 61st street and Racine avenue, on July 6, he announced yesterday.

The North Town post of the American Legion will offer eight amateur bouts tonight at Pep Kerwin's Western Stadium, according to announcement by L. W. Deming, chairman of the athletic committee. The card follows:

Tony Sutton vs. Rohw Zehms, Georgie Goodman vs. Lynn Thompson, Buddy Moore vs. Elner Hedquist, Julius Cohen vs. Buddy Ginter, Pete Verri vs. Lan Olson, Barney Hansen vs. Henry Kastman, Leo Benoni vs. Gene Higgins, and Bill Reardan vs. Joe Lupino.

BOY SCOUTS TO START TODAY ON TRIBUNE CRUISE

BY BOB BECKER.

Final instructions on what to pack in waterproof duffel bags for the Flambeau river canoeing and camping trip sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE have been sent to the lucky Boy Scouts nominated for this expedition. The party of 16 boys, two Scoutmasters and the writer will leave tonight at 6:30 o'clock, daylight saving time, from the Grand Central station, Harrison and Wells streets, for Park Falls, Wis.

This cruise, the fourth of a series conducted by THE TRIBUNE for older Scouts, will start at Netzel's landing some distance above the town of Park Falls tomorrow morning. From that point down the river to the town of Ladysmith the Chicago Scouts will paddle their canoes and camp along the way while enjoying a program of swimming, canoe racing, fishing, and other sports that go with a real north woods trip of this kind. For many of the Chicago Scouts this will be their first venture in the Wisconsin north country, where the white tailed deer come down to the water's edge at dusk and porcupines may be camp visitors any time after dark.

Biggest Group Ever Taken.

The party chosen for this year's cruise down the Flambeau is the largest and the most advanced group of Scouts ever taken on a TRIBUNE cruise. Eleven of the group are Eagle Scouts and of this number one is an Eagle with bronze palm, and another is an Eagle with silver palm. Many parts of the city and two towns in Chicagoland are represented in the Scout party. There are boys from the south shore district, west side, northwest and north shore areas as well as one boy each from Evanston and the Lake county council. Eleven canoes and one commissary boat have been secured to transport this large cruising and camping unit down the Flambeau.

Although every Scout going on this cruise had to demonstrate his proficiency in canoeing by taking a series of tests and scoring high marks in order to become a member of THE TRIBUNE party, these young explorers have a chance to finish the trip much more expert with a paddle than when they started. Lessons in canoeing will be given them every day during the cruise.

Vincent Smith to Give Lessons.

Vincent Smith, former American Canoeing association champion and a member of the Lincoln Park Boat club, has agreed to spend several days on the river with the Scouts and conduct regular classes in canoeing, with especial attention to the various strokes needed in river navigation.

Jennings in Semi-Finals of Missouri Valley Meet

Kansas City, Mo., June 25.—(AP)—George J. Jennings of Chicago, champion of the nation's public courts, was defeated by Hal Surface, Kansas City, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, in the quarter-finals of the Missouri Valley tennis tournament.

NORMAN DEFEATS BUCK EASTERLING IN TEN ROUNDS

Edgar Norman, Chicago light heavyweight, won a ten round decision over Buck Easterling, Wichita, Kas., in the windup of last night's boxing show at Shewbridge field. A rally in the last five rounds gave Norman victory.

Dick Siak of Chicago scored his 20th consecutive victory, defeating Bobby Hynds, Decatur, Ill., welterweight, in the six round semi-windup. Irish Kennedy, St. Paul, beat Jimmy Murphy in six rounds. Other results:

George Kohler stopped Pat Mahoney [4].
Joe Clarke beat Vic Moran [4].

PHILLIES BUY INFIELDER.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 25.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals today announced the purchase of Bobby Stevens, shortstop of the Newark club of the International league.

RECORD FIELD ENTERS WALTON BICYCLE RACES

A record field of entries will start against Frank Toth when the Chicago cyclist defends his common bike racing championship Sunday morning at Humboldt park.

Officials of the Walton Athletic club, sponsors of the meet, announced an entry of nearly 300 riders for the eight events. Kenosha, Milwaukee, and Beloit are sending riders to compete in each of the three classes.

The feature will be the 22 mile handicap race, open to any rider affiliated with the Amateur Bicycling League of America. Carl Stockholm, six day racer and Chicago amateur product, will serve as referee and starter.

THREE GIRLS, 18, REACH WOMEN'S GOLF SEMI-FINALS

Mrs. Mida Is Beaten by Dorothy Gustafson.

The sun that beat down unmercifully on the Midlothian golf course where the women's western open championship swung into its second day of match play yesterday did not stop the onslaught of the junior players in the championship bracket. Three 18 year old girls reached the semi-finals.

Miss Dorothy Gustafson, the 18 year old champion of South Bend, defeated Mrs. Lee Mida of Butterfield, 3 and 1, to establish herself as one of the favorites. Miss Gustafson was out in 41 and three up at the turn. At the 17th hole she was 4 up. Mrs. Mida's putter on which she usually depends failed to respond to her coaxing. The match ended on the 18th green with Miss Gustafson shooting an 84.

June Beebe Wins.

Miss June Beebe of Olympia Fields found hard work eliminating Miss Marge Rosselein of Belleaire, 3 and 1. June was one up at the turn, having carded a 45 to her opponent's 46. Miss Rosselein, though she had a hard match which carried to the 21st hole Wednesday, did not give up the struggle, but doggedly matched shots with Miss Beebe for the next six holes. Miss Beebe braced and took the 16th and 17th with a four to end the match.

Her card for the 17 holes equaled Miss Gustafson's. These two 18 year old girls will meet in the semi-finals this morning.

Mrs. Melvin Jones, medalist, headed the lower bracket of the championship flight, scored a 6 and 4 win over Mrs. A. E. Sheill, formerly of Detroit, now playing from Glen Oak. Mrs. Jones' 43 was the lowest outgoing nine of the day. She is noted for her accuracy around the pin and has an excellent form yesterday. Out of the first five holes she had three as just greens. On the 4th hole her tee shot was in a trap about 25 yards from the green. She failed to get out with her fourth shot, but still sank her niblick holed the approach.

Mrs. Jones' card:

In-June-Out	635	545	735—43
In-[illegible]	543
In-June-In	453

Third 18 Year Old Wins.

Completing the championship bracket was the Burnett-Weiller match, resulting in a 1 up victory for Miss Jane Weiller of Vernon Ridge, the third of the youngsters to enter the semi-finals. Mrs. O. F. Burnett, Medinah, and Miss Weiller tossed holes back and forth and were all square at the 15th, then Miss Weiller's 7 and 6 put Burnett to drop regularly and the match ended. She faces Mrs. Melvin Jones in the semi-finals. Summaries:

Cards Defeat Vance, 1-0, on Theft of Home

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—George Watkins, St. Louis outfielder, deprived Dazzy Vance of a victory in a three hit game today. Paul Derringer shut out the Robins with six hits and the Cardinals won, 1 to 0.

After Vance had retired the first 20 men in order Watkins bunted safely in the seventh for the first hit. Jim Bottomley followed with a single, Watkins reaching third. The young outfielder took advantage of the Dazzler's slow throw to first to hold Bottomley on the bag and stole home. Score:

Chapman Homers Play Havoc with Sox; Yanks Win, 10-9, 9-2

Blame Chapman

flat footed that they didn't even make the throw. Then Gehrig made the score 8 to 7 by thumping a homer into the left field seats. This was No. 17 for Lou.

Fonseca Doubles and Scores.

The Sox stretched their lead to two runs by grabbing a tally off Weinert in the eighth. Fonseca's double and a single by Cissell did this. Then the Yanks proceeded with the ninth inning assault on McKain that turned the decision completely around. Lary singled and Ruth walked with none out. Gehrig lined to Reynolds and Chapman then hit the ball into the second floor of the left field pavilion.

The business of run making got under way in the second inning of the nightcap. Pipgras walked Watwood and Cissell fouled out. Jeffries also strolled. Tate grounded to short and Lary booted the ball, filling the bases. Lary also kicked Frasier's roller, Watwood scoring. Jeffries scored while Frasier was being forced at second on Kerr's hopper.

The first event in harvesting six Yank runs in the third was Lazzeri's single. Perkins also singled. Pipgras struck out. Lazzeri scored and Perkins moved to third on Combs' double. Lary flied to Watwood and Perkins scored after the catch. Ruth doubled to send Combs home. Gehrig walked and Chapman hit the first pitch into the left field stand.

Frasier Is Wild.

With the aid of Frasier's wildness the New Yorkers hung up two more in the fifth. The inning opened with Combs banging a single to center. Frasier loaded the bases by walking both Lary and Ruth. Frasier threw out Gehrig on a slow roller, Combs scoring, and on Chapman's long fly to right Lary scooted home.

One more Yank crossed the plate in the seventh, which was part of Faber's pitching régime. Lary singled to center with one out and dashed to third on a double by Byrd, who had relieved Ruth. Lary scored while Gehrig was being thrown out.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

Cleveland, O., June 25.—[Special.]—Dear Wake: Chicago's present State street is due in large measure to the generosity of Potter Palmer. Many years ago, when the city council was passing resolutions and enacting meaningless ordinances, he was developing a plan for the widening of State street.

Going before the council he presented the city of Chicago with the frontage, taken from his own land, necessary to give this section of State street a uniform width. The council was taken by surprise. There was no further business, so far as State street was concerned, before the council, so it adjourned.

That was the opening wedge to get the project started. Mr. Palmer never talked much of his action, and it is scarcely remembered now except by a very few old citizens, but it made State street a great retail store thoroughfare.—F. R.

In earlier days an old time "medicine man" traveled through the Chicago district selling Indian medicines. One Indian with the show pulled teeth with his fingers. They had a number of tricks which I never did understand. For instance, the medicine man would ask for a kerosene lamp, the principal illumination then, chew up the chimney, then spit out the glass, put the wick in his mouth and light it. He would give the owner of the lamp a $1 bill as reimbursement. Then some music and he began selling his wares, guaranteed to cure anything and everything.—W. B. Manny.

In the spring of 1876, the Chicago fire department repair shop, which was back of the water works on Chicago avenue at the lake, turned out the first horseless fire engine. It came west on Chicago avenue at State under steam power, and its wide tires with steel caulks tore up the paving of cedar blocks and sent them spinning in the air.—Sliver.

PETE BOSTWICK TO RIDE JUMPERS AT ARLINGTON

Clark Steeplechase Stable Here for Meet.

Eastern horses reaching Arlington Park yesterday included the James Healy troup, made up mostly of jumpers. Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, whose nephews, Albert C. Bostwick and Pete Bostwick, are among the foremost American steeplechase riders, owns most of the horses.

They include Crumpler, Capt. Hook, Tassel, Swiveler, Madiola, Madrigal II., and Contrition, jumpers, and Neverfade, Madrigannah and Landward, flat runners.

Crumpler, Contrition, Madiola, and Tassel are North Shore and Lake Forest steeplechase prospects, and Madiola, Crumpler and Contrition are winners this season. Contrition, a daughter of Mad Hatter and Penitent, won her first steeplechase at Belmont Park May 26 when she defeated Fair Moss, Abdul II. and eight others at two miles in 3:53 1-5.

Madiola, a daughter of Mad Hatter and Gladiola, a winner last year, scored again June 9 at Belmont Park defeating five others, Rigan McKinney's $15,000 Inception among them, at two miles. Pete Bostwick rode her.

Dick Vestal brought nine Three D's thoroughbreds over from Washington Park. The $30,000 Texas Knight, the $25,500 Liberty Limited and the $26,000 Lady Teddy, all by Sir Gallahad III., and candidates for the $50,000 Post and Paddock revival, are among these. Texas Knight and Liberty Limited may start in the Hyde Park net Wednesday.

NEW YORK PICKS TEAM OF 27 FOR A. A. U. TITLE MEET

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—The strongest team that has been sent out by the Metropolitan association since the far west began its domination of the national track and field championships was named today to represent the local district in the forthcoming American title games at Lincoln, Neb., on July 3 and 4.

Bulwarked by the powerful New York A. C. combination that had previously announced its intention of sending out a 24 man squad, the Metropolitan association named a 19 man team at a meeting last night. Inasmuch as practically all of these nominations overlap, a total of 27 men will be in the party.

The local organization will be represented in eighteen of the twenty championship events, the javelin throw and the 100 yard dash being the only ones where a Metropolitan athlete will not compete.

NORTH SHORE POLOISTS FACE ARMY SUNDAY

Doris Jean Wins Purse at Homewood

BY FRENCH LANE.

Taking a punch on the chin sometimes causes jockeys to go on to great deeds in the saddle.

Just after the second race was run at Washington Park yesterday Jockey Bill Fronk became belligerent. The hot weather and the rough ride he had just taken on Hot Shot might have caused it. At any rate he turned loose with an old "Mary Ann," which started down about his hips and landed ker-plunk on Jockey Bobby Jones' chin.

Fronk also took a punch at Jockey R. Deperini. The judges went into solemn session. The verdict was "suspended for the remainder of the meeting," which means that Jockey Fronk must vacation for two days.

But that is neither here nor there.

Jockey Jones might have been punch drunk for a few seconds, but he shook it off like a good game guy and a little later climbed into the saddle on Doris Jean in the Tinley Park purse, the day's feature, and turned in one of the most skillful rides of the season here.

Because Jones rode so brilliantly, Doris Jean worked her way up gamely through tight quarters in the early stages. Just as the fleet Martha Jones had taken the lead and settled down to turn in one of her noted stretch runs, and when victory for her loomed up as a certainty, Jones, his chin perhaps still hurting him, began to ride.

The daughter of Westy Hogan-Mabel G. moved past Leros, which had run head and head with Martha Jones, to the stretch. Then Jones began to yell like a Comanche Indian and began to kick and slash Doris Jean. On she came. A hundred strides from the line of finish Doris was eye to eye with Martha Jones. Then Jones tossed her forward and she was going so fast it was easy for her to lead Martha Jones home by three lengths. Leros saved third money.

There was a plunge on Doris at post time and she paid $8.12. She stepped her six furlongs under Jones' hard ride in 1:12 1-5.

There are few busier and more consistent racers than the 5 year old mare, Taddywawa. Right up with the first flight all the time and she seldom takes a vacation.

She was making her eleventh start of the season at Washington Park yesterday, and she won it from the shiftiest lot of selling plater sprinters on the grounds. In her eleven trips to the post she has been in the money six times. Last year she ran in 28 races and was in the money on 22 occasions.

Taddywawa races under considerable handicap. Has been blind in one eye ever since she came to the races. She is a daughter of Hand Grenade and races for Ben Jones of Missouri.

You've heard of a lot of unlucky persons around the race track. Its refreshing to hear of a lucky individual every now and then.

Tony Pelleteri of New Orleans is right now enjoying all the smiles of old lady luck. But how sour she used to glance at Tony.

Tony's good 2 year old Proteus won a $5,000 stake at Washington Park a few days ago. Tony took the money and traveled into Canada. From the C. V. Whitney stable he purchased a 3 year old son of Broomstick-Indian Rose known as Totem.

He shipped Totem from Canada to Washington Park. Yesterday he dropped Totem into a claiming race. He employed Col. Edward R. Bradley's Jockey J. Smith to ride his new horse. Then Tony made a wager.

It wasn't a very comfortable finish for Tony. Totem and Weideleen came up to the pay off station with their noses inches apart. Totem is a little fellow about the size and color of old Tipity Witchet, a close relative, but he stuck his nose out just in time to get the decision over Weideleen.

Tony collected at the rate of $15.52 on a two dollar investment.

Thompson Ill; Fight with Brouillard Called Off

Boston, Mass., June 25.—(AP)—The nontitle bout between Young Jack Thompson, welterweight champion, and Lou Brouillard of Worcester, scheduled for next Thursday, was canceled today by the Boston Garden. Matchmaker Billie Ames said the titleholder was ill in Chicago. Ames also said that the Garden would hold Thompson to his contract and would try to prevent him from appearing elsewhere until he fulfilled his Boston engagement.

Jamestown Is Badly Beaten by 2 Maidens

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Two maiden colts finished in front of George D. Widener's Jamestown, the 2 year old champion of 1930, in the Shevlin at Aqueduct today. It was Jamestown's first test since his defeat by Twenty Grand and Sun Meadow in the Belmont stakes.

William Woodward's Sir Ashley got out of the maiden class by beating W. M. Moore's Danour by three lengths. Three lengths back came Jamestown, completing the field.

The son of St. James and Mile. Dazie was not the Jamestown of last year, nor the Jamestown that was heavily backed to beat Twenty Grand. He was suddenly and unaccountably gone off, and A. J. Joyner, his trainer, was too disappointed to announce future plans for the colt.

Sir Ashley's victory was under 108 Pounds and increases his earnings by $8,150. Previously he had won but $400, second place prizes in two races.

Slattery-Rosenbloom Bout Advanced a Week to Aug. 5

Buffalo, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—Jimmy Slattery, matched for a light heavyweight bout with Maxie Rosenbloom at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, Aug. 12, received word today that a change in playing dates of the Brooklyn ball club made it necessary to advance the date one week to Aug. 5. Rosenbloom agreed and Slattery sent his wire of acceptance tonight.

CALLAHAN HOLDS JOCKEY RECORD OF 1,289 WINNERS

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—When Laverne Fator rode his 1,000th winner at Aqueduct yesterday, many thought that a new record had been achieved. This is not true. Johnny Callahan still holds the world record for riding winners.

Callahan, who retired last September after he rode Balko to victory, had to his credit 1,289 winning mounts, with seven years in the saddle not recorded. Callahan says on his own calculations, he had ridden more than 1,600 horses to victory.

Callahan said today Crusader was the greatest horse he had ever ridden. He rode six consecutive winners in July of 1926. He failed to win a Kentucky Derby, or a Futurity, having inferior mounts.

Callahan, now forty-four, is a millionaire, and a prominent Wall street figure.

Helen Jacobs Wins, 6-3, 6-4, at Wimbledon

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, June 25.—Leadership in the women's singles championships in the Wimbledon tourney today took definite shape as favorites came to the front.

Cilly Aussem, ranking German star, led the field into the fifth round with an easy 6-0, 6-3 victory over Mlle. A. Neufeld of France. Two Americans are one round behind. Helen Jacobs beat Mrs. J. B. Pittman of Great Britain, 6-3, 6-4, in the center court, and Mrs. John Van Ryn won two hard sets from Miss Norah Trentham, 7-5 and 6-2.

Cold Hampers Play.

Betty Nuthall is in the same round and the best in her path is still Mrs. L. A. Harper, No. 1 American. Mrs. Harper has one match to go before she meets the British holder of the United States title.

Today's matches were played in bitter cold weather. Furs and overcoats were worn in the galleries, and Miss Jacobs complained that she was frozen throughout the match.

Yank Doubles Teams Win.

Betty Nuthall beat Fraulein A. Peitz of Germany, in three sets, losing the first through lack of control. She found her length in the next set, which she took in love, and only dropped one game in the last set, winning, 4-6, 6-0, and 6-1.

In the man's doubles, Syd Wood and Frank Shields beat C. G. and J. H. L. Fletcher, brothers and both left handers, 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, and 6-2. George Lott and John Van Ryn won the second match from J. W. Nuthall and C. R. D. Tuckey, 6-4, 6-4, and 10-8. Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon and J. C. Gregory and I. G. Collins are the French and British threats against the American pairs.

HARTENBOWER'S 77 WINS TRAFFIC CLUB TOURNEY

J. D. Hartenbower, with a 77, won the low gross prize in the Junior Traffic Club of Chicago annual golf tournament at the Biltmore Country club yesterday. J. R. White took second prize with an 80 and H. C. Larson third, with 85. R. J. Thompson captured the low gross prize for guests, scoring a 74. Other prize winners follow:

O. R. Stawlings, 88; W. T. Westbrook, 92; W. J. Mitchell, 96; Edward Hines, 104; H. A. Wilson, 106; W. P. O'Brien, 116; Martin Harve, 121; W. Whalen, 132; G. Alys, 138, and Peter Kline, 148.

GOLFERS START RYDER CUP PLAY AT SCIOTO TODAY

assembled to follow Gene, but he shot his ball into a tuft of shrubs on the first tee and the people fell back to spare him the ordeal, or view it.

Off on the railroad grade the dust and Pullman strings dragged by, stirring the gritty dust, and down at the quarries the big, dusty buildings maintained a constant crunch like 10,000 people chewing celery, as the rock went in big and came out little.

Whiskered Grass Is Tough.

The tassel grass, that wavy mildewed growth with silken whiskers which billows with the pleasant sheen of a prayer rug, but snares the irons and turns the blades when it is full grown, was not as dense this time as it was back in 1926 when Bobby Jones snatched the open championship from Joe Turnesa. Still it was very rough, and incentive to keep them on the fairway was stronger than it is on most golf courses.

Walter Hagen, as captain of the American team, called himself aside late in the sultry afternoon to confer on the team composition tomorrow. In a Scotch foursome each pair plays one ball in alternate strokes. The American team includes Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, Al Espinosa, Leo Diegel, Horton Smith, Billy Burke, Whiffy Cox, Craig Wood and Denny Shute.

Armour Is Man Without Team.

Tommy Armour, present holder of the British open championship and one of those remarkable star athletes who is something more than a football athlete in his leisure moments, will not be allowed to play on either side. America can't use him because he was born a Scot, and he can't play for Britain because he lives in the United States.

The members of the British team not hereinbefore identified are Abe Mitchell, instructor to the Ags Khan; George Duncan, instructer to Sam Ryder, the man who gave the cup; Art Havers, Archie Compston, and the Whitcombe brothers, Charlie, the captain, and Ernest.

Hagen dropped Horton Smith, who has been off his game, from the original lineup for the foursome, substituting Denny Schute. Charles Whitcomb also withdrew himself from Friday's play, so the lineup was given as Sarazen and Farrell vs. Compston and Davies, Hagen and Schute vs. Duncan and Havers, Diegel and Espinosa vs. Mitchell and Robson, and Burke and Cox vs. Easterbrook and Ernest Whitcomb.

STOCK UPTURN SEEN STAMPEDE OF THE SHORTS

Brokers' Loans Off 13 Millions.

BY O. A. MATHER.

That the swift upturn in the stock market in the last week resulted from a stampede of short sellers rather than large buying of stocks by investors and bull speculators became apparent yesterday. The weekly report on brokers' loans issued by the federal reserve board showed a further decline of $13,000,000, making the ninth consecutive weekly recession and bringing the total down to a new low level at $1,406,000,000.

The rush of bear speculators to cover their commitments following the proposal of President Hoover for a moratorium on war debt payments further emphasized the large short interest in the stock market. And the upturn in prices showed how easily a reverse of the market could be created, given any important constructive development. While there undoubtedly was moderate buying of securities by investors and bull speculators, it is evident that most of the buying was on a cash basis.

The total of brokers' loans now is less than half that of a year ago, when they stood at $2,416,000,000. Therefore, the reduction in the last year has been $2,010,000,000.

Trade Uses More Credit.

But while credit for speculative purposes was declining, a slightly better demand for credit for commercial purposes appeared. The weekly statement of the federal reserve system showed that the member banks increased their borrowings at the reserve banks by $12,290,000, bringing the total up to $197,678,000. The reserve banks also made additional credit available by buying $19,499,000 of government obligations. Note circulation expanded $5,876,000. Deposits fell $64,333,000.

Gold and total reserves increased $2,180,000 and $21,374,000, respectively. The ratio of reserves to liabilities rose to 84.1 per cent, compared with 83 per cent last week.

No Change in Rate.

The New York reserve bank made no change in its 1½ per cent rediscount rate. Its report showed member bank borrowings practically unchanged and totaling $34,059,000. The reserve bank bought an additional $38,000 of bankers' acceptances and $34,000 of government securities. Holdings expanded $68,027,000. Reserves increased $34,272,000, but the reserve ratio sagged to 90.4 per cent, compared with 91.3 per cent last week.

The Chicago reserve bank reported only a slight increase in member bank reserves, which now stand at $17,-[illegible]. The reserve bank sold $3,507,-[illegible] of bankers' acceptances, but bought $1,521,000 of government securities. Deposits receded $6,089,000. Reserves declined $7,906,000 and the reserve ratio eased to 82.5 per cent, compared with 89.9 per cent last week.

SEES TRADE GAINING

Further evidence that business and industry are emerging from the depression period is presented in the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Aggregate employment and pay rolls of reporting establishments in the middle west gained slightly in May, which improvement is contrary to the usual trend.

"While the increase in the totals was not large," the review says, "it was participated in by six manufacturing and two nonmanufacturing groups. Local differences in trend are evidenced by the totals for individual states, with greater manufacturing activity in Michigan offsetting declines in all other states.

"Among manufacturing industries material expansion occurred in stone, clay and glass products, food products, paper and paper and printing. Gains in canning and preserving, slaughtering and meat packing, dairy products, manufactured ice and ice cream influenced the food products group, and in the vehicles group a larger number of men and increased production at automobile plants offset declines in car and locomotive [illegible]."

Offer $22,800,000 Bonds of Japanese Utility Co.

New York, June 25.—(AP)—An offering of $22,800,000 of forty year 5½ per cent gold bonds of the Taiwan Electric Power Company, Ltd., of Japan is being made by J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the National City company, the First National bank, and the Yokohama Specie Bank, Ltd., at 97½ and accrued interest.

The issue is guaranteed unconditionally by the Imperial Japanese government. The company does approximately 95 per cent of the electric light and light business on the Island of Taiwan [Formosa]. This offering reflects the recent marked improvement in the bond market. It is the first public offering of a foreign issue since the exception of Canada in about a year. A note issue of the Argentine government has been floated, but bonds not offered to the general public, being taken by banks.

N.Y. Stock Exchange Seats Are Sold at Higher Prices

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Arrangements for the sale of two stock exchange seats at greatly advanced prices were announced today. One is to change hands at $270,000 and the other at $275,000, the previous sale having been at $190,000.

The $270,000 transfer represented an increase of $80,000 from the low on April 7, when a seat changed hands at $190,000. Last year the low was $150,000.

Nelson Tells of Efforts to Reopen Closed Banks

Garfield State bank, 4010 West Madison street. The report of the state auditor is expected to be ready in a few days. The directors of the bank are working with the auditor and express hopes that they will be in a position to reopen it.

Northwestern Trust and Savings bank, Milwaukee avenue and Division street. The directors are contemplating the organization of a new bank to take over the deposit liability of the bank closed. The decision rests on the report of the state auditor regarding the bank's situation, which ought to be ready in a few days.

Will Report on Condition.

Second Northwestern State bank, 2956 Milwaukee avenue. A report by the state auditor on the bank's condition is to be ready in a few days. Directors of the bank, who are working with the auditor, are working to effect a reorganization. A massmeeting of depositors of both Northwestern banks will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at 1210 Noble street. Admission will be by deposit books only. Attorney D. A. Uretz will address the meeting.

The Bain banks, twelve in number, are mostly on the south and southwest sides. Each bank is to be treated as an individual bank in any reorganization. The directors of the banks are working with the auditor. Mr. Bain is reported seeking financial assistance. Most of the reports on the twelve banks ought to be ready next week.

State Bank of Beverly Hills, 9443 South Ashland. The auditor's report has not yet been completed. Directors are hopeful that the bank can reopen.

South Side Savings and Trust company, 4659 Cottage Grove avenue. A depositors' committee has been formed but the auditor's report is not yet ready and consequently nothing can be done at the moment to reopen the bank.

Consider Reorganization.

West Town State bank, 2400 West Madison street. The auditor's report has not yet been completed. The directors are considering reorganization.

Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, Broadway and Lawrence. A depositors' meeting held recently appointed a committee of twenty-five to consider what action can be taken to protect their interests. This committee in turn appointed a committee of five men who are working with the directors of the bank and the state auditor to determine whether the bank is in a position to be taken over by another bank. Nothing can be determined until the report of the state auditor is completed.

Italian Trust and Savings bank, 495 Milwaukee avenue. Auditor's report not yet ready. When it is finished directors will work with the state auditor to determine what can be done.

Report Not Ready.

Lincoln State Bank of Chicago, 3105 South State street. The report is not yet ready. When it is completed the directors will be notified to confer with the auditor to see what can be done toward reopening.

Noel State bank, Milwaukee and North. No action has been taken pending report of auditor.

Fullerton State bank, 1423 Fullerton avenue. No action has been taken pending report of audits.

Illinois State bank, 319 Howard street. State auditor's report not yet completed. The directors have been conferring with the auditor and they are hopeful that the bank can be taken over or reorganized.

Ten Years Ago in Finance

An earnest effort to find means of hastening the restoration of world commerce will be made by business men of eleven nations at a meeting to be held at London within a week. The meeting is the first annual conference of the International Chamber of Commerce, organized in Paris in the summer of 1920.

The Union Pacific railway reports May operating revenues of $7,968,523 against $9,450,312 in May of 1920. Operating revenue since Jan. 1, 1921 is $39,820,702 against $46,475,328 in the same period of 1920.

Chicago bank clearings for the week total $463,700,000, a decline of $34,700,000 from the preceding week and $165,400,000 below the corresponding week in 1920.

People's Gas rises 2½ points to 49½ in trading on the Chicago Stock exchange. Stocks move higher in New York as traders recover cheer. During the week the recovery in the most active industrial shares has ranged from 5 to 14 points. Less selling pressure is noticed.

Dun's Review finds business "more repressed than usual, with little prospect of an early break in existing dullness."

EXPORT DEMAND AGAIN BOOSTS COPPER PRICES

New York, June 25.—Following further heavy sales of copper for export this morning the price was advanced to 9.02½ cents a pound for foreign shipment, a jump of ¼ cent a pound. The price for domestic shipment also was raised ¼ of a cent to 8¾ cents a pound. That is a raise of ¾ of a cent a pound this week.

Immediately following those advances the General Cable corporation announced that it had raised the price of bare copper wire ¼ of a cent to 10½ cents a pound. The new price is on a parity with 8¾ cents a pound for refined copper. The price of lead also advanced again today.

Sales of copper today for shipment to Europe were estimated at 15,000,000 pounds. The advance in the price followed sale of all the metal allotted for sale at the old level of 8.72½ cents a pound. The policy of Copper Exporters, Inc., the cooperative export organization of the producers, is to put foreign buyers on a quota basis and to raise the price if the quota allotted at a certain level is exhausted.

Domestic buying also has been heavier than in months. Copper fabricators are understood to feel confident that bookings of orders for copper products will improve, although so far the gain has not been material.

A further advance in the price of lead to 4.40 cents a pound from 4.25 cents was announced by the American Smelting and Refining company. The rise was the fourth consecutive advance in four days and has carried the price up from 3.75 cents at the beginning of the week.

U. S. INDUST. ALCOHOL OMITS DIVIDEND DUE TO LOWERED INCOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Directors of United States Industrial Alcohol corporation took dividend action today that had been anticipated and omitted the quarterly payment due at this time. The quarterly disbursement of $1.50 a share was reduced to 50 cents three months ago, the higher rate having been in force since 1929.

The management, it is understood, was not in favor of continuing to pay dividends that were not earned. The alcohol price war last spring carried down prices from around 35 cents a gallon to 19 cents, and, while a week or so later the quotation went to 24 cents, long term contracts were made on a 19 cents basis.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey did not distribute the usual semi-annual extra dividend of $2 a share due at this time, but declared the regular quarterly of $2, payable August 15 to stock of record August 5. The company explained that the extra usually paid on July 15 was not authorized in view of present conditions.

The New York Air Brake company declared a quarterly payment of 25 cents, compared with 40 cents previously. The Pepperell Manufacturing company reduced its quarterly payment from $2 to $1.50. Abitibi Power and Paper omitted the quarterly payment on its 6 per cent preferred stock and United Porto Rican Sugar took no action on its preferred dividend. Alleghany Steel declared a monthly dividend of 10 cents, compared with 15 cents previously paid.

The Anaconda Copper Mining company declared its regular quarterly dividend of 87½ cents. The payment was reduced from 62½ cents three months ago. Anaconda Wire and Cable also declared the regular quarterly payment of 25 cents. Two railroads, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and Reading declared regular quarterly dividends.

Hears of 2½ for 1 Share Exchange in Oil Merger

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The Herald Tribune says it has learned the final basis for the merger of the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Vacuum Oil company will be a proposal to stockholders for the exchange of two and one-half shares of Standard common for one share of Vacuum.

Renewed negotiations for the merger, made possible by the recent withdrawal of the government's objections, the newspaper says, have reached an advanced stage where an announcement may be expected. The original proposal was for a three for one exchange of Standard common for Vacuum.

Rail Executives, Shippers Discuss Transport Problems

In an effort to sidetrack opposition to their program for increasing railroad revenues, representatives of the Association of Railway Executives met in conference yesterday with members of the National Industrial Traffic league and presented their side of the transportation question.

The traffic league is a shippers' organization made up of traffic managers of leading industrial concerns and the traffic representatives of commerce associations.

The confrères failed to arrive at any final agreement, but it was stated that further meetings between the two groups would be held in the near future. Yesterday's session was held at the Blackstone hotel behind closed doors. The question of the proposed rate increase now pending before the interstate commerce was not discussed at the meeting, it was announced.

Concerned with Regulation.

The discussions, it was stated, were concerned with the declaration of policy of the railroads made last November in which carriers protested against the lack of regulation of competing transportation agencies.

The traffic league has never made public its attitude toward the declaration of the railroads, but it is understood that public stand in opposition to the rail view was prevented only through the influence of a minority group in the league made up of traffic managers of industrial concerns who were in sympathy with the attitude of the railroads. It is understood that a sharp division of opinion exists within the league with the representatives of the industrial companies siding with the carriers and the traffic men of the commerce associations opposing the railroad viewpoint.

While the latter group is in the majority it is unlikely that a public stand opposing the railroads will be adopted. When the league recently had the matter under consideration the industrial representatives threatened to resign from the organization if such a platform was adopted, it is reported. A separate meeting of the traffic league representatives will be held today at the Palmer house.

Rail Chiefs Attend.

The rail executives attending the meeting were J. J. Bernet, president of the Chespeake and Ohio; P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central; J. L. Eysmans, vice president of the Pennsylvania; E. G. Buckland, chairman of the New Haven; L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific; L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central; Hale Holden, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific; W. R. Cole, president of the Louisville and Nashville; H. A. Scandrett, president of the Milwaukee Road; J. E. Gorman, president of the Rock Island, and R. M. Aisthon, chairman of the executive committee of the Association of Railway executives.

Among the representatives of the traffic league at the conference were W. H. Day, Boston, president of the association; R. C. Fulbright, chairman of the league's executive committee; M. N. Billings, assistant traffic manager of the Illinois Steel company, and J. H. Beek of Chicago, secretary of the league.

CONFERENCE ON WHEAT SURPLUS IS SUGGESTED

Washington, D. C., June 25.—(AP)—Demands for a reexamination of the farm board's stabilization wheat sales policy today gained new force.

Representative Andresen [Rep., Minn.] suggested a round table conference attended by President Hoover, Agriculture Secretary Hyde and Chairman Stone of the farm board to determine exactly what is to be done with the more than 200,000,000 bu of wheat bought to steady domestic markets.

The view is held in some administration quarters that when Stone returns from his western trip the board, influenced by insistent clamoring for a more definite statement of policy, is likely to study the question again and that the chairman may outline the board's position to the President.

Nevertheless, these same quarters believe the board's recent affirmation of its March 23 policy of handling the stabilization supply "in such a way as to impose the minimum burden on domestic and world prices" will not be modified.

Kansas grain men were told last week after a request for a definite pledge had been made that the board would stand on its March 23 statement. Representatives of the grain trade who met with Stone here in May also were given the same answer. Some traders insist the stabilization holdings have a depression effect on domestic markets.

The board is said to feel that it wants to be free to take advantage of any favorable situation in the world trade. Stone has said wheat would be sold abroad if a market is found and if it does not adversely affect prices.

Liquid Carbonic Votes Usual Quarterly Dividend

Directors of the Liquid Carbonic corporation at their meeting here yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 72 cents a share on the common stock. This is at the same rate as was established in the last quarter, when a reduction from the $1 quarterly rate was made.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—The upward rush of the stock market was checked this afternoon after a morning of soaring prices. Wall street traders began to cash in on substantial profits and under pressure of this selling leading issues lost a large percentage of their forenoon gains. Few of them, however, were forced below last night's closing prices.

Heavy selling became even heavier during the last hour on rumors that the French cabinet would be forced to resign to borrow on the debt moratorium issue. The market was fluctuating nervously at the close when an official denial of the report was issued from Paris.

Total sales for the day ran 4,300,000 shares and volume of sales was so heavy in early trading that the ticker at one perod was seven minutes behind the market.

The news of the day was not all favorable and Wall street listed the bear developments slightly ahead of bullish factors. On the favorable side were such developments as $100,000,000 credit through central banks of United States, England and France, and the Bank for International Settlements for the German Reichsbank; the maintenance of the regular dividend by Anaconda Copper company, and the advance in home and export copper prices.

Some Adverse News.

On the other side of the picture were the rumor from France, the omission of Jersey Central's extra dividend of $2 coupled with the omission of the United States Industrial Alcohol dividend and the drop of 24.5 per cent in net income from a year ago as shown by earning reports of the railroads.

The coppers led the market during the morning. Anaconda, Kennecott, and American Smelting and Refining were at the top of the group with substantial gains. They did not hold all their gains, however, and American Smelting lost 1½ points before the day was done.

Leaves List Irregular at the Close.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

An impressive array of price gains established during the early trading on the Chicago exchange yesterday was effectively smeared by a late wave of selling which reduced advances throughout the list and left the closing list in a highly irregular position.

The reaction was due more to technical conditions than any unexpected news development. Business was carried on in quick time during the morning, but when the decline set in trading slowed down, a development which was regarded as significant by brokers. Despite the let-up in activity, the day's volume of 220,000 shares traded in was the heaviest turnover in several weeks.

Day's News Encouraging.

In the main day's news developments were encouraging to those who hope for an extension of the rally. The declaration of the regular dividend by Anaconda was reassuring, although such action was not unexpected. Added to this was the continued brick foreign demand for copper, which gave support to the growing belief that many of the basic commodities have turned the price corner. There was also action of Liquid Carbonic and Delaware, Lackawanna and Hudson in voting the usual dividend disbursements.

Cord and U. S. Radio were the market leaders here from the point of activity. Cord closed in a slightly better price position, but the radio issue surrendered 2¾ of its best price to finish with a slight net loss.

The estimate on second quarter earnings issued on the previous day by the president of the company led to some spectacular antics in North American Car. On a thin market the stock climbed 3½ points and held its gain.

Grigsby Declines to 3⅞.

Grigsby-Grunow reflected the eleven months' loss of $1,526,945 reported in connection with the listing of its bonds and sold off to 3⅞ on a volume of sales exceeding 4,000 shares.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Chicago Stock Clearing corporation yesterday the following officers were named: Morton D. Cahn, president; Paul H. Davis, vice president; Martin E. Nelson, secretary and treasurer; Robert T. Sundellius, assistant treasurer. The executive committee is made up of Mr. Cahn, Mr. Davis, and M. J. O'Brien.

STOCKS DIP AS WALL ST. CASHES IN ON ADVANCE

finally, General Motors lost ¾ of a point, tobacco stocks shed some of yesterday's gain, and United States Steel common dropped 1¾ points on the day after climbing to 102.

Plus Signs Dominate.

Minus signs were scattered through the list, but the plus marks continued to dominate. The market has been traveling at a gait which called for reporting in the way of a technical nature and through the afternoon the list was reactionary, with business tapering off. Many market observers still expect stocks to continue their advance, but these same optimists find that something more definite than present international plans will have to be forthcoming before any real bulling market boom can be expected.

The rise in stocks from the low point reached at the beginning of the month has brought a smart reduction in the indicated yield returned on selected dividend paying issues. Eight such issues, picked at random, show that the average yield on the group is about 5.50 per cent compared with an indicated return of 6 per cent at the year's low level. At today's high level American Can showed a yield of 3.6 against 4.4 per cent at the low; Allied Chemical, 4.6 against 5.9, American Telephone 4.9 against 5.7, General Motors 7.9 against 9.4, and Steel common 4.9 against 5.4 per cent.

Large Single Transaction.

One of the largest blocks to change hands in today's trading on one transaction, or for that matter in recent weeks, was the sale of 38,500 shares of Jefferson & Robbins on the opening at a price of $9 a share. The issue was sold to be a financier closely identified with the company.

Seasoned stocks as a rule were less buoyant than the industrials, as the tone of the day was particularly unfavorable to them. Wall street did not know just what interpretation to put on the request of the interstate commerce commission for further information on the petition for a freight rate increase and was inclined to leave that development.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raws less active today and prices were steady at 3.46c for spots, duty paid. After selling comparatively steady throughout, the sugar raw futures weakened in the late trading under heavy offerings and in sympathy with the setback in commodity markets. Final prices were 1 to 2 points net lower. Approximate sales 20,000 tons. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $8.25; average, $6.50.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 2,500; hogs, 16,000; sheep, 8,000.

Price cuts were enforced in all branches of the live stock trade at the opening yesterday, but lambs scored a comeback later and finished strong to higher considering lighter "sorts." Hogs and cattle closed at the low point of the day, although the trade hopes for a recovery in the market for top hogs on light supplies today.

The range of hog prices continues to widen. Best light ruled steady to 10c lower yesterday, while all other grades declined unevenly 10@25c, showing more loss compared with early Wednesday forenoon. The extreme top showed 10c loss at $7.40, and the general average moved down 10c at $6.50. While the top is only 25c under the high point of last week, the general average shows a drop of 45c since a week ago.

Light weight loins on the wholesale market are slightly above a month ago, while heavy loins show losses of 1@2c per pound. Prime 400 lb butcher hogs sold yesterday at $5.90, while fancy 140@220 lb averages reached $7.40, indicating the wide "spread" for good grades. Receipts lately are running among the largest since March, but are below normal for this time of year. The week's total at eleven points is expected to be 475,000, which is below any corresponding week in more than 15 years, with one exception. The total so far this year at 12,138,000 is smallest in more than 15 years and compares with 14,065,000 a year ago and with 14,645,000 two years ago.

Today's Hogs Bid $7.25.

Light weight hogs for today's delivery were bid $7.25 on the "to arrive" market yesterday, but there were no sellers at this figure when five leading western markets reported an expected decrease of almost 30 per cent for today. Trading in future months was extremely slow. Hogs averaging 170 lbs to 210 lbs for next September delivery were being offered at $8.25, but no bids were made.

Medium and weighty cattle were hit hard again yesterday and finished only 25@50c above the low spot in recent years which was established about a month ago. The incline has been more slippery than the trade had looked for. Prices for cattle exceeding 1,200 lbs in weight show losses of 50@75c for the week. Fancy light weight yearlings are holding up well and are only 15@25c under the recent high spot. A small lot yesterday sold at $8.75, averaging 906 lbs, and the top for full carloads reached $8.60 on $20 lb steers. Few heavy cattle sold above $7.00.

Idaho Lambs Bring $8.25.

Twelve carloads of Idaho range lambs were sold at $8.25 under light sorts yesterday, or fully steady with the general market Wednesday. Natives opened weak to lower, some at the opening showing 25c loss, but strength at the close offset the earlier declines and the better outlet for culls late helped to even up prices.

Most natives were sorted at $8.00 after opening at $7.75, while city butchers and yard traders paid up to $8.25 for hand picked stock. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged, light ewes bringing $2.00, with top yearlings quotable up to $6.50. Sheep receipts at Chicago this week are smallest since last August, but show an increase compared with 1930 and 1929.

HEAR STEEL FIRMS NEAR AGREEMENT ON NEW MERGER DEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—An agreement ending the long litigation over the billion dollar Bethlehem Steel-Youngstown Steel and Tube merger has been tentatively reached, it was learned today. The settlement is expected to pave the way for a new consolidation involving other large midwestern steel properties.

Details of negotiations for the new merger arrangements have not been completed, and for this reason it was deemed advisable to withhold formal announcement of the peaceful outcome of the Bethlehem-Youngstown fight. Wall street has heard reports of steel merger discussions for several days, but little credence was placed in them until the stock market began to display renewed vigor this week.

Settlement of the year old litigation between Cyrus S. Eaton and the Otis & Co. interests on the one side and the Bethlehem merger proponents had been forecast for months but had been as often denied. Even today it was said at the Bethlehem offices no one had heard of any change in the situation.

RENTS CASS AND HURON CORNER FOR RESTAURANT

Miss Annie Bock Leases It for Five Years.

BY AL CHASE.

Miss Annie S. Bock, who operates three Southern Tea shops in the loop and near north side, has leased the three story residence at the northeast corner of Huron and Cass streets from Cyrus H. McCormick for five years and will open a new eating establishment there. It will replace the one now at 745 Rush street. Miss Bock also has a tea shop at 47 East Oak street. Her loop branch is at 19 West Jackson boulevard.

The house leased by Miss Bock at Huron and Cass was once the home of George D. Rumsey and later occupied by the late J. H. Winterbothams. It fronts seventy-five feet on Huron street and 138 feet on Cass street. J. F. Stone & Co. represented Mr. McCormick and P. V. Mahon, of McKinney & Martin, Inc., was broker for Miss Bock.

Mortgages Are Less.

The amount of real estate mortgages recorded in the principal cities of the country in May showed a decline of 31 per cent from the total of the same month a year ago, according to a monthly compilation issued by Nelson, Hunt & Co.

Twenty-five cities for which comparative data is available, reported a total of $186,901,000 in real estate mortgages for May of this year, as compared with a volume of $274,221,-00 for the same month of 1930. An analysis of these figures showed that only three cities reported a gain over May a year ago in the volume of real estate mortgages filed. Buffalo and Omaha more than doubled their volume for May 1930, and Oklahoma City also showed a small increase.

The Chicago total of mortgages recorded was $24,949,414 for May this year, as compared with $33,651,943 in the same month of 1930, a loss in dollar volume of $8,702,529.

Huston Adds to Holdings.

Ward T. Huston yesterday purchased three acres from the Sanitary District of Chicago, for an indicated $30,-00, on the north side of the main channel, in Stickney, near Harlem avenue. Mr. Huston now has a total tract of eighty acres between Harlem and Ridgeland avenues on the north bank of the canal. This is industrial land.

William E. and Emma E. Hall have purchased the residence at 2856 Sheridan place, Evanston, from Northwestern university for an undisclosed consideration. The property is 89x214. It was leased several years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Hall from Northwestern, with an option to purchase which has now been exercised.

SCHOOL TEACHERS.

Realizing the embarrassing position you are placed in because of the inability of the school board to pay your salaries now, we have made arrangements with a few residential hotels, with dining rooms in connection, and apartment hotels in the better sections of the North and South sides to accommodate you at special Summer prices and hold your rental bills until you receive your back salaries. Our representatives with cars will gladly take you to inspect these. A visit to one or more of these properties places you under no obligation.
